Navy Making Tests of "Greenheart" By B. H. Gainfort, Demerara, British Guiana

able even than steel or iron. The true greenheart is found only in British Guiana, where immense forests of the trees are to be found. Docks and piles of greenheart, it is said, will last longer than any other wood, the greenheart being absolutely impervious to the borings of the teredo, or pile worm. In Dutch Guiana there is a tree known as greenheart, but it is said to be a different species and not the true greenheart. The navy department is making tests of greenheart with a view to employing the wood for the backing of armor plates on battleships instead of teak wood, which comes from Samoa. It is said that the lock gates of the Panama canal are to be reconstructed of

This wonderful wood, greenheart, is grown only in British Guiana. It is the principal export of that island, and has been used for a hundred years or more in Europe, but only recently has been adopted in America. The 50 large pairs of lock gates in the Manchester Ship canal are built of greenheart from Demerara. Its durability in lock-gate construction is limited only by the iron bolts and other fastenings used. Practically all the gates of the Bridgewater canal are built of greenheart, and for 60 years all the dock gates in the Mersey harbor at Liverpool have been con-

The best grades of greenheart surpass iron and steel in durability when placed in water or in contact with soil. This extraordinary freedom from decay is due in part to the presence in the wood of an alkaloid known as bebeerine. The wood is proof against the ravages of the teredo and on land is exempt from the attack of white ants. Logs of greenheart have remained under water for 100 years, and have kept in perfectly sound condition. Nansen's ship, the Fram, and the antarctic ship, Discovery, were built of greenheart. Greenheart is said to be the strongest timber in use, with a crushing strength of 12,000 pounds per square inch, 65 per cent greater than that of English oak.

to restore the proper perspective of those suffering from political strabismus. Our whole country is being afflicted with military hysteria which distorts the vision. There is a tendency to revert to the statesmanship of medieval and still more ancient days.

There are those whose apprehension of immediate danger to our country, isolated though it is by the mighty oceans of the world on either side, sequestered by more than a hundred years of peace—except when we ourselves went in search of trouble, wisely and righteously avoidableamounts to a panic.

It is wholesome to remember at these times that the great conquerors of the world have been the men of peace, and not the men of war. Moses and Jesus bore no arms. It was the triumph of the unarmed Jefferson that stretched the boundary of the United States to the farthest ocean, and the nonmilitant expedition of Lewis and Clarke found the way across

tion first one nation arises and becomes the torch takes the torch as it becomes stronger, the stronger always pushing the weaker aside and becoming in turn the leader.

Each nation that has borne the torch of civilization has followed some path peculiarly its own. Egyptian, Syrian, Persian, Greek, Roman, Frank, TENT CATERPILLARS all had their ideal of power-order and progress directed under supreme authority, maintained by armed organization.

We Anglo-Saxons bear the torch of civilization because we possess the principles of civil liberty, and we have the character, or should have the character, which our fathers have transmitted to us, with which to

If we have not, then be sure that with the certainty of a law of nature some nation—and it may be one or it may be another—already knocking at our doors, will push us from the way and take the torch and bear it onward and we shall go down.

More Liberal View of Things Eternal By Rev. W. H. Carwardine, West Pullman, Ill.

Modern conceptions of religious truths have given us a wider and more liberal view of things eternal. No longer will old and narrow ideas of God and his relation to man and man's relation to man and man's relation to deity remain possible.

Scientific development, discoveries in all realms of nature, studies in psychology, the broader humanities that break down caste and social barriers, and even the destruction of some ideals which we possessed before the European conflict have opened up to us visions of God and human relationships that have startled us out of some old ideas once imagined to be impregnable.

It is a good sign. Theologies may change, philosophies may wear out, creeds may be dissolved and some cherished beliefs may seem to be dissolved in thin air, but God, man, the Christ and the eternal word are still fundamental and unchangeable.

With South Carolina and Texas enrolled on the list of states that have compulsory school attendance laws as a result of 1915 legislation, the states without compulsory laws are now reduced

The Texas law requires all children between the ages of eight and fourteen to attend school-60 days the first year, 80 days the second year and 100 days thereafter in every school year. It provides for attendance officers, fixes penalties for violations and provides for the establishment of parental or truant schools where necessary. The law goes into effect

We set 12 acres of apple trees had m trees in the fall and the peach trees of an inferior in the spring for fillers, using the square method of setting. We find our apple trees doing as well on the hillsides as on the hilltops, but the peach trees are hardly this we put we so good, as they need a more thorough cultivation than it is possible to give as soon as pos them with the hoe.

We pruned as soon as the trees were set, repeating the task each spring, and after five years all trees that had made a good growth were pruned again in June to check wood growth and promote fruit buds.

At two more recent settings of 14 acres each, we have used the hexagonal method of setting and find it much better than the square, as we can get more trees on an acre and give each tree more useful space.

There are several arguments as to which is the best time for setting. Our conclusion is to order our trees sent in the fall and heel them in until spring, then set as soon as the soil will do the work. They are too apt to be winter killed if set in the

Some orchardists spray every year but as we have never been molested with any kind of scale insects we do not. # VERY TROUBLESOME

Orchardist Adopts Unique Plan in such litterof Shooting Out Nests With Ordinary Shotgun.

One of the troublesome insects in many orchards that are not sprayed is the tent caterpillar. Unless some means of destroying the unsightly nests are employed they will increase in size and the foliage of the tree be destroyed by the feeding of the caterpillars.

Spraying with arsenicals will kill the worms and where treatment for codling moth is given the caterpillars are rarely bothersome. Where the nests can be reached they can be torn out with the gloved hand or a brush and the worms crushed on the ground.

The usual practice is to burn them out with a torch. This is effective, but there is danger of injuring the tree. One man has adopted the unique plan of shooting the nests out. He in two. loads a shotgun with loose powder, holds the muzzle of the gun near the nest and shoots. The nest and worms are destroyed, the tree is left uninjured and an uninviting task is turned

LEAVES AS LITTER IN POULTRY HOUSE

Nothing the Laying Hen More Dearly Loves to Scratch in Than Rustling Leaves.

Leaves gathered when they are thoroughly dry constitute the very best litter for the poultry house. There is usually but one time in the early fall when freshly fallen leaves in the woods and along roadsides are in prime condition for such use. This lasts only a few days, and it is at such times that they should be gathered.

Barrels or sacks may be used for storage, but if an abundance of room is available it is best to put them away loose. Empty stalls or grain rooms offer the most satisfactory some merit in it.

Prof. Henry L. Thomson of the department of farm engineering at Oklahoma A. and M. college says the weathering process cuts the life of a binder

"The binder," says Professor Thomson, "should be put in a dry shed right after the harvest. The canvases should be examined for wear and then hung up in a dry place away from rodents. The parts particularly subject to wear-the crankpin bushing, the packers, the binder clutch and transmission, the knife, etc., and the knotter-should be wiped clean of gritty grease and dust and a careful examination made for worn parts. A WORLD-WIDE WAR.

"A world without a liquor nation by 1930"-this, said Daniel A. Poling, in an address delivered at the Panama-Pacific exposition, this is the goal of the National Temperance council. The membership of this organization, of which he is president, is made up of leaders from 97 national religious and reform societies and its activities are to be international in scope. The first great word of its declaration of principles is unite, the second educate, and the third exterminate. "The temperance fanatics today," affirmed Mr. Poling, "are not preachers and women, but railroad presidents, owners of steel mills, scientists, popular novelists and war lords. Medical authorities are laying charges against the door of John Barleycorn that the most rabid temperance orator of five years ago never dreamed of making.

"Chief Actuary Hunter of the New York Life Insurance company has claimed prosperity in human life for Russia as the result of the prohibition of vodka that takes away the breath of a third party Prohibitionist.

'Sam Blythe is writing temperance articles for the Saturday Evening Post that discount the Union Signal.

"William Jennings Bryan, delivering a temperance address in Cooper Union, New York, has used language that vies with the choicest epithets John B. Gough ever employed.

"The Carnegie Steel works is stricter in its total abstinence requirements for its employees than is the average church for its members.

"And just now Emperor William and Czar Nicholas have, in the trenches of Flanders and on the plains of Poland, Galicia and Russia, the greatest temperance societies in the history of the

A MAYOR'S TESTIMONY.

Mayor James R. Hanna of Des Moines, Ia., gives his personal testimony to the advantages of prohibition as follows:

"The saloons were closed on the 15th of February. All the desirable locations were picked up by other businesses within the next few weeks following. A few out-of-the-way locations are still vacant.

"I cannot see that there is any appreciable effect because of throwing men out of employment and certainly no increase in demands for charity. In fact, it is exactly the other way. The men who lost employment have gone into oth r lines. Some of them have followed up their former calling in other cities, but the men who were which their families needed are now huying groceries and shoes instead. The consequence is a very much better tone in every way. In the first place their families are not now in want and in the second place, they are paying their bills for the ordinary necessities. This is making collections noticeably better in other lines, so our merchants report.

"Our experience proves that a decisive policy can handle the bootlegging very effectually. There will be can be reduced to a very small mini-

NO FRIENDS OF J. BARLEYCORN.

The saloonkeepers of Washington. D. C., were sorely disappointed, it is said, because few of the veterans attending the Grand Army encampment spent their money for drinks. Of the 20,000 marching only one or two were seen "under the influence." One of the old soldiers explained it thus: "The fellows who could drink it or let it alone are not here-nearly all of them are in their graves." It is worthy of note that every one of the 128 members of the post at Hagerstown, Md., is a total abstainer and a prohibitionist. One of the features of the parade which evoked much cheering from the crowds of onlookers was the "West Virginia Water Wagon," which headed the delegation from that state.

THE PROOF.

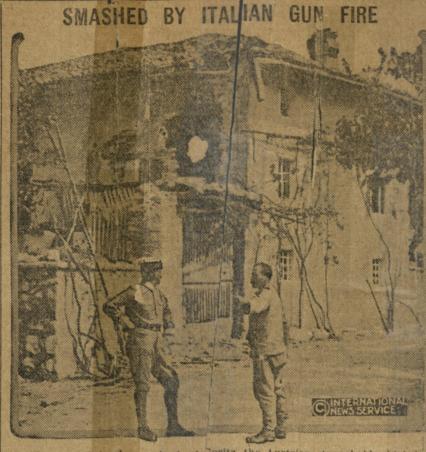

A gentleman was riding on the street car the other day, when he saw on the advertising spaces, printed in large, clear letters, these words: "Pure Rye Whisky-Tones Up the Body, Brightens the Intellect, Invigorates the Soul." After reading it his eyes dropped involuntarily to the seat beneath the advertisement, and there was a drunken man. His eyes were bleared, his face bloated, with red lines of dissipation in it, and his body slouched down in a sort of collapsed way common to men under the influence of liquor. The drunken man was an illustration of the advertisement, and proved the falsehood of it. "Wine is a mocker."

MONTANA WAKING UP.

Richland county, Montana, gave a vote of two to one against the liquor traffic in the first county option election in the state. The liquor men put up a hard fight with five orators working overtime to hold the territory. Montana, one of the blackest states on the prohibition map, is waking up, and the days of the liquor traffic in the state are numbered.

IN DAYS OF GOLD

ery of Metal in California

For Eleven Years, From 1850 to 1861, the Yield Was Prodigious, Amounting in 1802 to Over $65,000,000, Washington .- "The historically important discovery of gold in California was made in January, 1848, at John Sutter's mill on South Fork of American river, near Coloma, a point only ten or fifteen miles southwest of the town of Auburn," says a statement by the geological survey.

"From 1850 to 1853 the greatest yield was derived from the gravels. and the largest annual out par for this period was more than $65,000,000 in 1852. There was some reaction in 1854, due to previous wild speculation, but a production of alout $50,000,000 a year, chiefly from pacer mines, was maintained up to 1861.

"At first the gold was won chiefly from the gravels along the present streams. Those who first got possession of the rich bars on American. Yuba, Feather and Stanislaus rivers and some of the smaller streams in times from $1,000 to $5,000 a day. In 1848 $500 to $700 a day was not unusual luck; but, on the other hand, the income of the grat majority of miners was far less than that of men who seriously devoted themselves to trade or even to come to the grat themselves to trade or even to come to the state of the majority of miners was far less than that of men who seriously devoted themselves to trade or even to come to the grat majority of miners was far less than that of men who seriously devoted themselves to trade or even to common labor.
"The gold pan, the 'vocker,' the

'tom,' the sluice and the hydraulic giant, or 'monitor,' named in the order of increasing efficiency were the tools successively used by the miners. Into was diverted into a fume to lay bare the gravel in its bed so that the miner could get at it.

"In sluicing, the gravel was shoveled ito a similar but much longer box grough which a stream of water was allowed to run.

"The hydraulic giant was employed to wash into long riffle set sluices immense quantities of gravel, especially from the higher (Tertiary) deposits.

Scarcity of Engineers Shown at Columbia University Since Outbreak of War.

New York .- Since the outbreak of the war and the resulting increase in chemical projects in this country the demand for chemical engineers has grown so rapidly that the companies are finding it difficult to fill the many places that are now open.

Indication of this was given at Coumbia university when Dean Frederick A. MAKING MEAT SAFE

Sixty Per Cent Killed Under Federal Inspection.

Hundred Million Meat Animals Slaughtered Each Year in United States -Tuberculosis Is Chief Cause of Condemnation.

Washington.-More than 58,000,000

meat animals were slaughtered in establishments under federal inspection during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1915. Since approximately from 58 to 60 per cent of the animals killed in the country are slaughtered in establishments where federal inspection is maintained, it appears that about 100,-000,000 meat animals are now being killed each year in the United States. Of the animals subjected to federal nspection, 299,958 were condemned as unfit for human use, and 644,688 were condemned in part. Thus a litle more than 11/2 per cent of all the animals inspected were condemned either in whole or in part. These figures include only cattle, calves, sheep, goats and swine. Tuberculosis was the chief cause of the condemnations. More than 32,644 carcasses of cattle and 66,000 carcasses of swine were entirely rejected on account of this disease, and in addition, parts of 48,000 cattle and 40,000 swine. Hog cholera was responsible for the next largest loss, nearly 102,-000 swine being condemned entirely on this account.

The annual appropriation for the federal meat inspection service is now about $3,375,000, so that the cost to the people would be between 5 and 6 cents per animal and carcasses. In addition, however, great quantities of the meat and products are re-inspected. In this item there was a very considerable increase during the last fiscal year, the re-inspection resulting in the condemnation of a total of nearly 19,000,000 pounds of products of one kind or another. Furthermore 245,000,000 pounds of imported meat or meat products were inspected, and more than 2,000,000 pounds condemned or refused entry.

In the course of its work, the bureau of animal industry, which is in charge of the meat inspection service, has discovered a new method of destroying trichinae in pork, which is an additional safeguard to human health. Refrigeration at a temperature of 5 degrees, F., or lower, for a period of 20 days, will destroy these parasites which occasionally give rise in human beings to the serious disease known as trichinosis. Hitherto the only known safeguard against this disease has been thorough cooking of all pork and pork products, and those persons who neglect this precaution have always been more or less exposed to the danger. Unless pork is known to have been subjected to refrigeration as above indicated, it should be thor-LONELIEST OF PUPILS oughly cooked. The microscopic examination of pork for the detection of trichinae has been abandoned as the usual methods have proved inefficient.

Her very nose seemed to flash. There were few beauties prouder than she.

'In a moment," he promised. "Now!" she screamed. "Release my hand instantly or I shall stop playing.

Even if you are my partner I'm not going to have you give the impression that I haven't sense enough to play my hand.' So, with a sigh, he gave her back

Regarding Western Canada as a grain producer, a prominent business man says: "Canada's position today is sounder than ever. There is more wheat, more oats, more grain for feed, 20% more cattle than last year and more hogs. The war market in Europe needs our surplus. As for the wheat crop, it is marvelous and a monument of strength for business confidence to build upon, exceeding the most optimistic predictions."
