Taylor Biologist Heads Unique Field Station and Junior Science Camp

THE 16 YEAR-OLD AMERICAN BOY who works a summer carrying groceries has already accumulated wealth several times greater than that of the average man in India. And what is he likely to do with his money? Buy a used car and spend his evenings circling hamburger drive-ins, looking for "something to do". With flashy hubcaps and screeching tires the youth demands "Look at me. I exist."

The ignition key is his badge of independence and with cash in his pocket he is a man of the world. But here is tragedy—not so much his early independence nor even his facade of sophistication that makes adolescents strangers even to their parents.

The tragedy, rather, is an omission—an omission of experience by which are achieved self-discovery, understanding and appreciation for life and the world—his life and his world. In short, experience which gives life definition, content and direction.

Each summer a group of adventuresome boys in the pattern-setting years of 9 - 14 become exposed to an entirely different world,—not a world of chrome, ear-pounding stereo and aimless fads—but a world of enchanting sight, sound and searching at Au Sable Trails Junior Science Camp in northern Michigan.

And a camp of trails it is: trails around and through the amazing beaver pond, trails along the Big Twin Lake shore, trails beside the brook, trails through meadows and woods, canoe trails, rock quarry trails, archery and rifle range trails, campfire trails, friendship trails, and above all—spiritual trails which open new vistas of appreciation, faith, curiosity and wonder.
"I took a walk in the woods
And felt myself grow tall"

Natural phenomena are scrutinized in the biology laboratory.

Young campers bring aquatic specimens to Norm Andresen, senior, for identification.

Eight years ago a junior science camp with a Christian emphasis was just a dream in the minds of Dr. Harold Snyder, now Associate Professor of Biology at Taylor, and Dr. Gilbert W. Mouser, Associate Professor of Fisheries and Wildlife at Michigan State University. These men developed a plan of outdoor education and interpretation for boys which was integrated in the "trails" theme. After prayerful study and investigation a beautiful camp site was purchased in 1958, on Big Twin Lake, south east of Mancelona. The property now includes 130 acres, 363 feet of lake frontage and several buildings. A spacious redwood lodge includes a large dining and recreation area, kitchen and laboratory. The boys and their counselors sleep in tents nestled in woods near the lodge, while the directors live in cabins near the beach area.

In addition to Drs. Snyder and Mouser, several scientists participate in the camp on a part-time basis. These include Dr. Eldon Whiteman of Spring Arbor College, and visiting conservationists from the area, Garrett Crow '65, a graduate student in biology, also assists in the program.

The permanent staff includes John Olmstead, head counselor at Lake Fenton High School, Michigan; Bert Froysland, '53, camp business manager and English teacher at East Grand Rapids High School; and Mrs. Archie Cummings, cook, who is chef for the Sparta Michigan High School.

Definitely not in the money-making business, the non-profit camp is a testimony to the hard physical work and the financial sacrifice of its founders, and the support of others who believe in the program. A number of church groups and college high school teachers have taken up the shovel, trowel, hammer and wrench to help forge the dream into reality.

Three years ago when Dr. Snyder joined the Taylor faculty a second phase of the Au Sable program was developed. The college approved a field studies program whereby Taylor students may work as counselors, and by attending class sessions, earn credit for the course "recreation and camping".

Last year a third phase of the Au Sable program emerged as the college approved a Biology Department plan for establishing a summer field station at Au Sable. Following the three-week junior camping session Taylor students may take course offerings for up to 6 hours of credit in general biology (6 hours) aquatic biology (3 hours) and entomology (3 hours).
This summer a fourth phase of the program—a three-week bush trailmen camp—has been instituted for advanced campers 14-17 years old. Included in this program are back woods camping, a two-day Michigan Chain-O-Lakes canoe trip and a 9-day Canadian wilderness canoe trip.

The staff of Au Sable trails camp is dedicated to knowing and teaching more about God's world and God's Word in what can only be described as "God's country".

Camp Becomes Cathedral

The spiritual impact of the camp is achieved through the personal influence of teachers and counselors and through the biological studies which are presented from a creationist point of view. All concepts and field science phenomena are presented with due respect for Biblical accounts of the origin of the earth and life upon it.

And as did the psalmist, the camper hears the still small voice of God through nature. During the day he observes and studies astounding unity, pattern and design amid infinite diversity. At dusk he steals a look at the heavers going about their super-heaver task of felling trees in a matter of minutes and hauling them down little canals to their colony.

After dark the young camper at Au Sable breathes in the pure Michigan night, quietly discovering a new and captivating world of sound and atmosphere as nature's night-shift takes over among the pine, aspen and birch.

And then the campfire, with its lusty singing followed by a searching focus on God's will for young lives. Surely He who pressed the valleys with his thumbs, suspended the planets on cosmic spokes and fashioned a world of fantastic intricacy can provide and illuminate a trail for every Christian youth.

THE NEW ERA

We have entered a period, perhaps a very long period, of grave national crisis, a time of the severest testing of our philosophy of life, of our social and economic organization, of our physical and intellectual resources, and of our stamina and will power. In such a period of national stress it is of the utmost importance that Taylor have a clear view of its role in the local and national community, of its particular identification, task and strength, of the ways it can best contribute in the years ahead.

No aspect of American life will have a greater effect on that future than education. In response to this fact, Taylor is undertaking a campus development program which calls immediately for four vitally needed buildings and many substantial improvements, plus six more buildings within the next few years. We believe these plans present an exciting and urgent opportunity to invest in preparing the leadership needed to influence the world for Christ.

Such a momentous step in an adventure in faith—faith in the alumni and friends of Taylor and in the divine calling of our institution. We believe that you rejoice with us in what is happening on the campus today, as shown on the next two pages. We take pleasure, too, in introducing to you Taylor’s new Director of Development, Dr. Gordon Zimmerman.

In Christian fellowship,

Milo A. Rediger

The New Era

Wengatz Hall

The new residence hall for men, which has been named in honor of Dr. John C. Wengatz '09, is to be completed by September 5. The dormitory will house 285 students in 134 rooms and will cost approximately $670,000. The facilities will include a head resident's apartment, a recreation room, reception lobby and two student lounges on each of the 2nd and 3rd floors.

Women's Residence Hall

Work began last month on the new residence hall for women. This building will be located just east of Wengatz Hall, and south-west of the president's home. The new facility, to be open by September, 1966, will permit an enrollment increase to about 1,250. The new dormitories will be virtually identical in design, size and cost.

New Sewage System

In order to accommodate additional resident students, a new sewage system became mandatory. Campus buildings are now being connected to the new municipal system which is being installed in Upland. To achieve proper tile depth, a network of trenches 15 feet deep have been dug across the campus. The college is also spending $30,000 for water lines which will be part of a new municipal water system.

Chemistry Addition

The size of the concrete block chemistry building is being doubled this summer with a two-floor addition. The new facility will fill an urgent need for two additional laboratories, two large classrooms and three faculty offices. The college maintenance department is erecting this 4,320 square foot addition at a cost of $25,000. This building is already ear-marked for other uses as soon as the proposed science building is completed.
New Director of Development

Dr. Gordon G. Zimmerman, Dean of Men at the University of the Pacific, will become Director of Development effective September 1. He received the B.A. degree from Sterling College, the M.A. degree from Bowling Green State University and the Ph.D. degree from the University of Michigan. He was pastor of Evangelical Mennonite Churches in Sterling, Kansas from 1943-48 and Wauseon, Ohio from 1948-57, when he joined the University of the Pacific Faculty. He received the "outstanding teacher award" in 1960 and last year co-authored a volume Public Speaking: Philosophy and Practice.

Book Store Addition

The Taylor bookstore has become a substantial business, with a total of 46,892 individual purchases recorded last year. In order to serve an expanding student body and faculty, a 700-square foot addition costing about $5,000 is being completed.

P.E. Field House. Also, a new athletic facility being constructed west of the gym will become headquarters for all outdoor inter-collegiate sports and will house some intramural and physical education activity. This will be a heated, metal structure with a dirt floor covering 60x160 feet. Cost: about $30,000.

Liberal Arts Building

To the faculty who have endured cramped teaching quarters since the Administration Building fire in 1960, the new liberal arts building will be a dream come true. Construction is to start this month on the two-story building which will contain 14 classrooms, 33 faculty offices, plus the Teacher-Education Center. The project is to be completed by September, 1966.

Science Building

Ground will be broken early this fall for the three-story science building to be completed by September, 1966. The $1,242,141 structure will house the chemistry, biology, botany, mathematics, physics, and zoology departments and laboratories, plus the radiation research and radioisotope training facilities. Federal assistance—a grant of $410,000 and a loan of $521,000—have made possible the immediate launching of this project.
ALUMNI DAY

GOOD LISTENING. Marilyn Snyder, Mrs. Lily Haakonsen, Taylor's beloved school nurse, and son Harry '63, enjoy excerpts from "South Pacific", masterfully presented by the Taylor University Chorale following alumni dinner. The meal featured a fabulous buffet prepared by Mr. Joe Bierman, food service manager.

JOINING THE RANKS. Taylor's products, all wrapped in similar black packages, pick up alumni packets as they hurry to the Alumni Association Induction ceremonies held during the Annual Alumni Business Meeting in the gym.

STANDING OVATION. President Milo A. Rediger receives a standing ovation during the banquet when presented as the "Alumnus of the Year". Ed Bolles, right, received a Service Award for distinguished work as President of the Alumni Assn. in 1964-65.

EASY DOES IT. The hands of Mary McDonald gently lower the graduation cap on the groomed head of Judy Noble as Annette Nerguizian gives meticulous supervision. They were soon on their way to the Induction ceremony along with 128 other alumni-to-be.

ALUMNI SENIOR AWARD. Connie Cuthbertson, from Birch Run, Michigan, receives from President Rediger the Alumni-Senior Award for academic achievement, campus activities and Christian character. She authored "Hypnosis, the Drugless Wonder" in the Winter, 1965 Taylor University Magazine.

N.A.E. HEAD. Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Climenhaga '38 were present for the banquet festivities. Arthur was recently named Executive Secretary of the National Association of Evangelicals.
Mrs. Searis chats with Mrs. Will (Alice Rocke) '48 and '69 Cleveland during fellowship hour following the banquet. Mrs. Sears was cited for outstanding educational and missionary leadership to the church.

AWARD WINNER FROM FLAT-BUSH. The Rev. Alfred C. Thompson '52, pastor of the Vandevier Park Methodist Church, Brooklyn, received an Alumni Service Award during the banquet festivities for his unusually effective and nationally-publicized program to promote prayer in the public schools.

MATHEMATICIAN. Dr. John W. Warner '40, associate professor of mathematics at the College of Wooster, also received an Alumni Merit Award for outstanding service to his profession in keeping with the ideals of Taylor University. John is president-elect of the Society of Sigma Pi and has been a consultant for in-service education of school teachers.

MUSIC MAKERS. Alumni had nothing but superlatives for the concert by the Taylor Chorale following the banquet. Their thrilling performance included favorites from 'South Pacific' plus sacred works. This group has produced an LP sacred record which can be purchased through the college public relations office.

Faithful Hugh (Vivien Myers '32) Freese.

IT'S LIKE THIS! Maurice Coburn (right) '49 and a Taylor trustee, holds a discussion with Ed Bolles '50, after registering in the student center on Alumni Day. At left is veteran trustee Dr. G. Harlow Evans '25. Dr. Carl W. Hassel '50, also a trustee, is in the background. The happy child in the foreground is unidentified.

A PROFESSIONAL. Ralph Cummings '40, from New York, delighted the banquet crowd—largest in Alumni Day history—with a variety of interesting and melodic folk songs. Ralph has performed on Broadway and is a professional composer of T.V. commercials.
ALUMNI DAY CLASS REUNIONS

CLASS OF 1915. (left to right) Mr. and Mrs. Purcil Parker, Mrs. B. D. Nysewander, Miss Olive Draper (standing), B. D. Nysewander, Iris Abbey and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Giggy.

CLASS OF 1940. A total of 14 members of the class of '40 were here to celebrate their 25th graduation anniversary. Present were: Olin E. Lehman, Ellamarie Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dillon, Ralph Waldo Cummings, W. Wayne Yeater, Dorothy E. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. John Warner, Mary M. Webb, Paul B. Campbell, Edith Driscoll, Evelyn Platte, George D. Murphy, Kenneth E. Foulke, Alfred R. Keller.

Present but not pictured: Mr. and Mrs. Ray McCormick, Paul Steiner, Carl Hassel, Harold Beattie, Jean Godfrey, Stanley Salter, Dillon and Maudie Hess.

CLASS OF 1960. Those pictured include Gordon and Judy Polsgrove, Bob Freese and Dale Holstetter.
Present but not pictured: Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDonald, Helen Miller, Gary Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Bontrager, Earl and Nancy Christensen, Enid Linhart, Peggy Matthews, Marjorie Mason, Don Melton, Arthur Norris, Richard J. Shupe, Rosalie Valutis and Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Wagner.
The doctor's office was empty. There had been few patients that day or the day before, or the day before that. Bob Coughenour '50, had set up practice in a middle-class section of Indianapolis soon after returning from a two-year stint with the United States Public Health Service in Arizona. But things weren't going so well. The volume of patients was much less than he had counted on—far below what was needed just to meet expenses and pay on his school debt.

And to add to his woes, many patients were delinquent in paying their bills. Bob and Beulah had been working with the Indians in the Southwest as a prelude to going overseas as missionaries. Since Taylor days they had worked and planned to this end. However, bills needed to be paid before they could sail.

What to do? Beulah, a Christian of strong conviction, spent an entire night in prayer and Bible reading, seeking a solution to their dilemma.

The next day a stranger walked into Bob's office. He introduced himself as a drug salesman from another part of the city. "We need a new doctor in our neighborhood and wonder if you would be interested in setting up practice there. My brother has a drugstore and is interested."

"But you don't even know me," Bob responded.

When the druggist spelled out his proposition it was even more incredulous. The stranger owned a house beside the drug store which he said he would remodel into doctor's quarters at his own expense.

So Bob accepted. From the moment his name was put on the door, patients began converging on the new office like service men answering mail call. Blessed with an unusually large reservoir of stamina, Bob looked after his steady stream of patients on an exhausting schedule until it became necessary to secure an associate. Fortunately, and surprisingly too, these patients, though from a lower income group, paid their bills.

About this time, due to circumstances which had developed, the mission board changed plans to send the Coughenours to the Congo. As a result, Bob and Beulah have remained in Indianapolis and continue to trust God for further guidance.

Bob attacks every challenge with a vengeance, and he loves highly competitive sports, especially football. While a Taylor student, Bob was a lineman of sorts on the Trojan eleven—in the days when winning one game was as much of an achievement as winning the conference championship is today.

Bob is still on the team and probably in a more vital way than he was in varsity days.

Well before the season opens Bob flies to the campus in his modern "Trojan Horse," a Mooney Mark 21, which he lands at Hartford City. He donates his services, giving a thorough physical to all 45 or 50 gridiron candidates during the opening week of fall practice.

Here's how a typical fall Saturday shapes up for Bob when the Trojans have a home game. He shakes loose from his office about 12:45, scampers to the Weir Cook airport ten minutes away. After checking his magnitos he is airborne about 1:00. About 25 minutes later he arrives in Hartford City where he is met by some one from Taylor and is driven to the campus.

Bob heads immediately for the locker rooms where he gives last-minute inspection of injuries, granting or denying the privilege to play that day. He also supervises the taping of lame muscles and joints to assure maximum protection.

During the game he participates from the sidelines with 100% empathy—his booming (and finally hoarse) voice shouting encouragement, reprimands and approval with the accompanying gestures of a rush-hour traffic cop.

When an injury occurs Bob rushes to aid the ailing Trojan, quickly diagnoses the problem and administers necessary medication. In most instances Bob has the sidelined Trojan back in action in a few minutes. In cases of more serious injuries—bad sprains or dislocated joints—it is not uncommon for Bob to fly to the campus during the week to give treatments to help speed the healing process. Time is of the essence between Saturdays.

The coaches and players agree that Bob's services and moral support have been important to the good fortunes the Trojans have had in winning the conference championship the past three years.

Few alumni are privileged to serve their Alma Mater so dramatically as is the M.D. from Indianapolis. But Bob symbolizes the hundreds of equally loyal alumni who support the college with their gifts and prayers and who send their young people to Taylor to receive the kind of education in which they so strongly believe.

Marie Heinemann rejoices in the marvelous way the Lord answered their needs in Bunuri, East Africa, and they are now using the large gospel tent, the electric generator and the Land Rover. Plans are being made so 6000 children may be reached in the Bible School. Last year 3500 were reached but the opening of a new refugee camp near one of their stations has increased the number.

Vergil Gerber, a veteran of 16 years' missionary service in Latin America, has been appointed Coordinator of the Congress on the Church's Worldwide Mission to be held in Wheaton, Illinois in spring, 1966. Since 1960 Mr. Gerber has been working with the Conservative Baptist Home Mission Society's publishing house in Mexico City where he has sparked the publication of VERBO, a Spanish language bi-monthly magazine with a circulation of 100,000.

Martha (Matthews) and Dick Wilkinson plan to move to Montreal, Quebec soon and settle as close to the University as possible, establishing a center there for the Unengaged Fields Mission. Montreal is the second largest French-speaking city in the world.

1945

Jane Winterling is at Jadotville, Republic of Congo (Léo) where she will carry on the work of other missionaries who are on furlough. Her work will include Emmaus correspondence courses, book shop, women's meetings and translation work. French and Swahili, which she already knows, are the languages required for these responsibilities.

1950

Robert and Rosemarie (Stoddard x'52) Merian are on assignment with the government in Manila, the Philippines, for the next three years. Bob travels on a diplomatic passport and one of his tasks is to keep news media of the country informed regarding important events in the U. S. Rosemarie attends a business college and the children, the American school.

Robert and Anita Fenstermacher and children arrived home the first part of June for a three months vacation. They have been in Nome, Alaska, where Bob is in charge of the Methodist Hospital. They are visiting her parents in Indianapolis and his parents, George '22 and Eloise (Abbey '24) Fenstermacher in Upland.

Joann Kile writes that it has been necessary to move several times due to rebel activities in the Congo and her present address is B. P. 202, Gisenya, Rukwa, where she teaches the 3rd and 4th grades in the school for missionary children. The American Consulate has not yet given permission for the women and children to return but the men make regular trips to their stations. Deighton Douglin '52 and his family live at the dorm and Deighton commutes daily to Goma, Congo, where he is director of the Teacher Training School. Harold Salseth '48 also helps at the dorm and makes weekly 2-day trips to the Bible School Station 60 miles away.

Douglas Wingeier, who teaches at Trinity Theological College in Singapore, Malaysia, writes that an uneasy peace prevails and that being there, he realizes that “for America to back down to the Communists in Viet Nam would sound the death knell for all free countries in Southeast Asia.” As Americans, they are proud of the stand our government is taking against aggression in Asia and for justice and civil rights at home. Doug, his wife, and Ruth, one of the children, with Stephen and Martha remaining behind in the children's hostel, made a two week's trip to Sarawak and find the church is ministering creatively and effectively there, though facing difficulties due to lack of funds.

1953

Gerald and Miriam (Deyo '55) Close and children are now on furlough from their medical work at the Mutamba Medical Centre, Rhodesia, Africa. Jerry is studying at the Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis and they will be visiting families and friends and sharing their experiences and needs of their work in Rhodesia with those interested.

1954

Barbara Howda, who works in Sur- dang, Bharu, Salangor, Malaysia, writes that there are 18,000 people in the villages with nearly 2000 children in the Primary School alone. This means the work of the believers and missionaries must increase immeasurably if God's word is given to them. She quotes the prophet Zachariah, “Ask ye of the Lord rain . . . so the Lord shall make bright clouds, and give them showers of rain.”

Martha Peaslee, who with Edith Peters '55, conducts a camping program in Honduras, is attending the Moody Literature Workshop. Edith is presently on furlough. Upon Martha's return she will continue the camping program and work on a special translation project.

Bill and Joan (Selleck x'57) Yoder, Tina and Heidi, were privileged to spend four weeks together earlier this spring. Bill continues to travel in connection with his work as Executive Director of European Youth for Christ. Joan and the children are now in the States, spending time with family and friends, in addition to attending the Youth for Christ Convention at Winona Lake.

1956

Will and Ruby (Moser) Neuenschwander have completed their studies in Brussels, Belgium, and are at Liproka, B. P. 900, Luluauburg via Leopoldville, Republic du Congo, where they are helping in the literature work.

Dotty (Keeler) and Tom Hash are continuing their work at the Christian Servicemen's Home in the Philippines. A small book room is now stocked with good Christian literature. Bible classes are taught four days a week both at the base and at the home, they work hand in hand with the chaplains, teaching Sunday School, playing the organ and directing two choirs, in addition to their home responsibilities. Lori attends Faith Academy, a school for missionary children near Manila and comes home weekends. David is undergoing tests at the base hospital for recurring fever and will attend kindergarten this fall. Danny is growing into a more mischievous little red-head each day.

Phyllis Osborn was able to fly home from her work in Maracaibo, Venezuela, to attend her father's funeral. She is grateful for the many friends who supplied her entire transportation so she could be with her mother at this time. Upon her return she helped in the annual teachers' retreat and is now back in her regular schedule of weekly teacher training classes.

1958

Russ and Lois Paulson have been in Kampala, Uganda, Africa, for eight months learning the Luganda language, conducting four Bible classes each week in English (as that is the official language and spoken fluently by many), working with both the English and Luganda speaking churches each Sunday. They are under the Conservative Baptist Foreign Missionary Society. Scott is 5 years old and Kent, 1½.

1961

Stewart and Marlene (Silvis) Georgia were recently commissioned for foreign missionary service by Don Hills, representing TEAM. Their address is 9% TEAM, Box H-60, Hatfield, Rhodesia, Africa.

1963

Duane and Marcia (Weber '64) Schmutzer write of their disappointment that the land of West Irian, to which they planned to go, is closed to missionaries. They will work in the Moavold Hospital in South Africa and they hope to be on the field by December. It is the largest of TEAM'S medical ministries and is in need of more medical personnel. Marcia is working toward a Master's in Education degree and Duane is continuing study in Parasitology and is working toward being a licensed apprentice in pharmacology.

News of the Classes

1923

In June, 1964, Harold Hendrick was retired from the Genesee Conference in Western New York after 35 years as a Methodist minister. He lives at 448 Alexander Street, Rochester, New York.

1924

Otto Michel was retired from the active ministry of the Methodist Church in June. They live in Long Island, Kansas, near a daughter.

1926

Doris (Atkinson) and Wilson '29 Paul live in East Lansing, Michigan, where Wilson is Director of the Lecture-Concert Series at Michigan State University. They direct tours every summer and soon leave on another world tour. Doris and her sister, Esther Mary Fuller '29, continue to write, having published "Songs of Travel in Many Lands." Mrs. Paul manages a young noted pianist, Arthur Fennimore, lectures on their travels and on her hobby of jewelry from the 41 countries they have visited.

1927

John H. Fisher, 3117 French Street, Erie, Pa., was retired in 1960 from the General Electric Company after 30 years of service. He has been singing bass in the church choir for 38 years and is active in Sunday School teaching and Senior Citizen work.

1928

Jeff Parsons Paul, who recently completed a two-year term as president of the organization, Composers, Authors, and Artists of America, was awarded first place in the fine arts in oil painting at their 29th anniversary convention held in New York City. He lives at 21-74 29th Street, Long Island City. He is the nephew of Dr. John Paul, former president of Taylor from 1921-31. Marian Paul is the Executive Assistant in the American Public Health Association.

1930

Mina Herman is a public health nurse for the Maricopa County Health Department. She serves as secretary of the Phoenix Area Alumni Chapter.

1938

Russell Frey works at Reynolds Aluminum plant in Phoenix, Arizona. He and his wife are very active in church work and taking care of their "family," which consists of orphaned Indian and Oriental children.

1940

Magdalene (Everson) Baerman lives in Arlington, Virginia, and works in Washington, D. C. in the Federal Trade Commission. She enjoys the many cultural activities such as opera, concerts, etc. She had the pleasure of visiting her parents in South Dakota this summer.

Dr. Ernest W. Lee was recently elected Director of Church Extension in the National Division of the Methodist Church, with responsibility for the 12-state Northeastern Jurisdiction. He will guide new congregational development and help to make loans to churches for building purposes.

< صحية 1943 1955 >

The First Baptist Church in Benton Harbor, Michigan, which Robert and Margaret (Hyde '45) Behnken serve, has recently added a new Center for Children and Youth. There is a rather high percentage of negroes in Benton Harbor but it is probably the best integrated city in America. This new addition makes it possible to serve the community more efficiently.

< صحية 1944 1955 >

Dr. Paul Clasper has been appointed Professor of Ecumenics in the Theological School, Drew University, Madison, New Jersey, recently.

< صحية 1948 1955 >

Charles and Verna (Steury '52) Tharp, who live at 8622 Appomattox, Tucson, Arizona, attended the Phoenix area alumni chapter meeting held recently. Charles is a member of the Board of Directors. He is a math teacher in a Tucson high school, and Verna, though busy being mother to their two daughters, 11 and 12, is now a full-fledged junior at the University of Arizona.
