Rustic Suitor Follows Suggestions In Use of Objectionable Word.

Ralph Wilson, a farmer's lad, was paying attention to Miss Octavia Spencer, one of the "city gals." Once upon a time Miss Spencer had cautioned him about the use of the word "tale." She had told him that cultured people usually employed the word "anecdote" instead of the other offensive nomina-The country boy listened in open-mouthed wonder and promised to obey Miss Spencer's instructions.

One day it happened, when young Wilson rode up on his mule, he saw the richly caparisoned horse of his city rival hitched in front of Miss Spencer's gate. It was the Fourth of July, and the city man's horse had been decorated in keeping with the sentiments of the day, among other things sporting a great bow of red, white and blue ribbon on his tail. Ralph hitched his mule and started up the path leading to the front portico, which was reached by ascending a flight of fifteen or twenty steps. When he reached the top of the steps he

The Skyrocket. Bound to a splint of wood was I in undisturbed obscurity; Until a grimy urchin came And to my vitals held a flame.

Then, with a flickering thread of smeke. Something within my bosom woke, And piercing the expectant hush, Upshot I with a rapturous rush,

Up-in a palpitating track, No mortal power could hold me back, Ard as I spurned the earth below There rose a simultaneous "Oh-h-h-hi"

But if my track was fine at first, 'Twas nothing to me when I burst, Dissolving in a rainbow rain, Red, gold and green and gold again.

But all at once my spirit failed, My spangles sank, they sank and paled, They paled and vanished in the dusk— I fell to earth, a rifled husk.

So, when an unregarded man Shoots upward for a dazzling span, Folks turn, with wonder in their eyes, To mark his ostentatious rise.

the French Chamber of Deputies regarding the expulsion from France of religious orders, the sequestration of the property of the church and its entire separation from the state vividly recall to mind the famous decree of the convention of Aug. 1, 1793. On this day the convention decreed that within eight days the tombs of the kings and queens of France at St. Denis, together with all other funeral monuments of sovereigns and noble personages erected in the various places of worship in Paris and provinces, should be destroyed.

Early on the morning of Oct. 12, 1793, a multitude of people, mostly belonging to the lower orders, hastened from Paris to St. Denis. The first who was buried under the threshold

Nothing was found in the coffin excepting a few ashes and a quantity of little bits of gilt metal. Curiosity now took the place of riot. Bowls full of burning vinegar and other disinfectants were distributed. and at noon the business opened in earnest. In the meantime a big pit had been dug outside the church, at the entry of the cloisters, and near it were placed a number of barrels filled with quicklime. One of the commissioners, having certified that everything was in readiness for the desecration of the royal bones, returned to the church, followed by his assistants. "Gentlemen," he cried. "we are about to empty the rat hole under the high altar!"-a statement which was received with great applause.

At 1:30 o'clock the workmen came upon the first coffin. It chanced to be none other than that of Henri IV. So great was the curiosity to see the remains of this most popular of French kings that every precaution was taken not to injure the body. It was discovered to be very carefully embalmed, and enveloped in a series were unrolled with the utmost care down to the waist, when, to the surprise and almost terror of the spectators, the corpse of the great king appeared almost as perfect as when first buried. The face was so well preserved that even the fan-shaped beard seemed as if it had only recently been dressed. The eyes were open and the wounds made by Ravaillac's knife were clearly revealed. The interest manifested by the crowd on seeing the body of this once popular idol was such that the remains were unmolested until late at night, thousands of persons going processionally

A few minutes afterward the bodies of Louis XIII. and Louis XIV. were thrown into the pit. The body of Louis XIII. was dried up like a mummy, but the face could easily be recognized on account of its curiously shaped black imperial and mustache, The remains of Louis XIV. were treated with the utmost disrespect. On the 14th and the 15th of the month hundreds of bodies of illustrious and also of unknown persons were torn from the vaults and cast into the limepit. Among them were those of Marie de Medicis, Henrietta of England, Duchess of Orleans, Maria Theresa, wife of Louis XV., Anne of Austria and of the great Dauphin.

On the 16th of October the exhumation continued with unabated vigor, but a most extraordinary coincidence occurred which has been rarely noticed by historians. At precisely the moment when the head of Marie Antoinette fell on the scaffold the body of her eldest son, the first Dauphin, was thrown into the limepit at St. Denis. At 4 o'clock of the same afterof narrow bands of linen steeped in noon the bodies of the kings and some chemical preparation. These queens of the earlier dynasty were disturbed, among them being those of Charles V. and Jeanne de Bourbon, his wife.

In 1800 the church which for so many centuries had been one of the greatest glories of France, was visited by Chateaubriand, who describes it as being in a hopeless state of ruin. So little chance did there then seem of its ever being restored that it was actually proposed to level it to the ground and convert its site into a marketplace. Napoleon I., however. decreed that, cost what it might, the Basilica of St. Denis was to be restored as speedily as possible to its to see them. No other body was ex- former condition. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Good in Everything.

Love of truth shows itself in knowing how to find and to value the good in everything. * * * It is far easier to recognize error than to discover truth. The former lies upon the surface and may be overcome; the latter reposes in the depths and it is not given to every one to search for it.—Goethe.

Anyone ever having been under the "spell" cast by the environment of California's many attractions, will find most interesting and instructive the series of articles now appearing in "The Craftsman," by George Wharton James, on "The Influence of the 'Mission Style' Upon the Civic and Domestic Architecture of Modern California." They contain much valuable historical information on the subject of California missions.

Lovers of Dickens will welcome a recent publication from the L. C. A Professional Nurse Tells Her Experience With Doan's Kidney Pills. Montague, Mass.

Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Gentlemen-I heartily wish those who are suffering from backache and disturbed action of the kidneys would try Doan's Kidney Pills. As was the case with me, they will be more than surprised with the results. I had been troubled for years with my spine. I could not lie on either side. Spinal cramps would follow; and words could not explain the agony which I would endure. While in these cramps I could not speak or move, but by making a great effort after the cramp had left me I could begin to speak and move a little, but my whole back was so sore and lame that I could not even have the back bathed for some time. My nerves were in a terrible state. I would rather sit up at night than go to bed, dreading the cramps and the terrible backaches. I consulted physicians, but got only a little relief for the time being. Seeing your advertisement, my mother urged me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. After using one box I was better, and have ever since been on the gain. I have no backache and no cramps now and I feel like a new person. My nerves are better and I know my blood is purer. Words cannot express my thanks to you for what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for me. In my work as professional nurse I have a chance to recommend them; and they did me so much good that I will do so on every possible occasion. HATTIE BRIGHAM, Nurse.

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold at 50 cents per box. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., for a free trial box.

"The work of operating the telegraph key is a great strain upon the nerves and after the day's work was over I would feel nervous, irritable, run down and toward the last suffered greatly from insomnia and neuralgia. As I never indulged in intoxicating liquors, drugs or tobacco in any form I came to the conclusion that coffee and tea were causing the gradual break-down of my nervous system and having read an article in the Medical Magazine on the composition of coffee and its toxic effect upon the system, I was fully convinced that coffee was the cause of my trouble.

"Seeing Postum spoken of as not having any of the deteriorating effects of coffee I decided to give up the stimulant and give Postum a trial. The result was agreeably surprising. After a time my nerves became wonderfully strong, I can do all my work at the telegraph key and typewriter with far greater ease than ever before. My weight has incrased 35 pounds, my general health keeping pace with it, and I am a new man and a better one.' Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A little story illustrative of the inkota by Gulde. While hunting in the Big Hole Brook region of North Dakota recently Albert Turner, a guide, made one of the oddest discoveries ever recorded. With a companion named Burt, he was caught in a severe snowstorm miles | trict building. from camp, and, finding that it would be necessary to spend the night in the forest, the two set about chopping down second-growth spruces with which to make a leanto.

The snow was too deep to gather fallen deadwood for a fire, so Turner took his hatchet and hunted about for a stump dry enough to burn. He eventually found one.

Turner hacked off two feet of the wood at a time as it was needed, and about bedtime had reached the middle of the log. He had noticed a hole in the center which connected with an opening near the top and rightly concluded that a nuthatch had made his nest in the interior the spring before. Occasionally he struck the feathers of the bird, but thought nothing of it until his hatchet hit a hard, metallic substance. Then he carefully investi-

By cutting out the decayed wood about the substance he soon brought to light a fine gold chain, scarcely larger than a thread, to the end of which was attached a small gold locket set with three sparkling diamonds. Turner was greatly excited and called to his companion. He pried the locket open with his hunting knife, and found it to contain a tiny photograph or a child and a picture of a man, on the back of which was written "L. D." The locket had lain underneath some feathers and moose hair at the bottom of the nest, and the chain had been firmly woven into the outer part of the

MEN TO WEAR CORSETS.

Chicago Tailors Say the New Fashion is to Stay.

That the men's corset vest is "just the right thing" is the assurance given by Chicago tailors. They have taken up the idea, which originated at the convention of the Custom Cutters' association in Columbus, O., and they are already making designs. The corset vest is not to have stiffening or stays, but will be cut "away in" at the waist and be given a bulging effect over the chest and under the arms. The advantage of the new garment is that every wearer will appear to have the chest of a Sampson.

Strange Diet.

A young man of twenty-two, Emile Brazeau by name, who recently died at Montreal, during the whole time of his life had taken no nourishment but milk and sugar. While still a child he was medically placed upon a milk-andsugar diet, and this he continued unchanged to his death, presumably from choice. His daily rations were three pints of milk and one pound of sugar. Although solid tood was thus a thing unknown to him, he is said to have been physically robust and suffered from no illness until the attack of croup which ultimately proved fatal.

Noah's Salt Mines. In Trans-Caucasia, in the Upper Aras Valley, lies one of the most wonderful mines of rock salt in the world -Mount Kulpi. The deposits of salt in this spot are said to be in some places more than 200 feet thick. They have been almost continuously worked since pre-historic days (the stag horn picks of the palaeolithic men are still picked up now and again in the workings), but they show as yet so signs of exhaustion. The Armenian traditions hold that Noah drew from Mount Kulpi the supply of salt necessaray to preserve the provisions of the Ark.

FOR THIRTY YEARS

Congressman Meekison Suffered With Catarrh—Read His Endorsement of Pe-ru-na.

Hon. David Meekison is well known, not only in his own State but throughout America. He began his political career by serving four consecutive terms as Mayor of the town in which he lives, during which time he became widely known as the founder of the Meekison Bank of Napoleon, Ohio. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the State.

Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman. Catarrh with its insidious approach and tenacious grasp, was his only unconquered foe. For thirty years he waged unsuccessful warfare against this personal enemy. At last Peruna came to the rescue, and he dictated the following letter to Dr. Hartman as the result:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison, ex-member of Congress.

THE season of catching cold is upon us. The cough and the sneeze and nasal twang are to be heard on every hand. The origin of chronic catarrh, the most common and dreadful of diseases, is a cold.

This is the way the chronic catarrh generally begins. A person catches cold, which hangs on longer than usual. The cold generally starts in the head and throat. Then follows sensitiveness of the air passages which incline one to catch cold very easily. At last the person has a cold all the while seemingly, more or less discharge from the nose, hawking, spitting, frequent clearing of the throat, nostrils stopped up, full feeling in the head and sore, inflamed throat.

The best time to treat catarrh is at the Peruna has cured cases innumerable of catarrh of twenty years' standing. It is the best, if not the only internal remedy for chronic catarrh in existence. 'But prevention is far better than cure. Every person subject to catching cold should take Peruna at once at the slightest symptom of cold or sore throat at this season of the year and thus prevent what is almost certain to end in chronic catarrh.

and sore, inflamed throat.

The best time to treat catarrh is at the very beginning. A bottle of Peruna properly used never fails to cure a common cold, thus preventing chronic catarrh.

While many people have been cured of chronic catarrh by a single bottle of Peruna, yet, as a rule, when the catarrh becomes thoroughly fixed, more than one bottle is necessary to complete a cure.

Peruna has cured cases innumerable of catarrh of twenty years, attacking the condition of the whole body-sore nose and throat and a good appetite but my food did not nourish my system. They saw the ghost that everybody in the neighborhood is talking about, and they put distance between them and the well as rapidly as they could. They came right on to Hartford City, and they are now telling the harrowing details.

Bolivar" saw the ghost first. He went from the derrick to the enfor trustee. Mr. Johnson received gine to test the water, and while he was doing so a long-whiskered ghost touched him on the arm. Bolivar' took one look at the ghost and saw that it was a supernatural being; he gave one long howl and fled to the derrick. There he told Imy about it.

"Oh rats!" exlcaimed Imy, it's some blamed fool trying to scare us. "Just then the ghost hove in sight. There it is," panted Bolivar BLACKSMITH.
