New Model in a Dress for the Miss

Can you imagine anything more simple, more novel, or more chic than this dress of brown broadcloth and sand-colored crepe de chine, for a young girl? If you can, hasten to reduce your imaginings to concrete form, for you have thought out something for which womankind is always in waiting. This is one of several new models launched for the maid from sixteen to twenty—or more.

The waist of crepe is long-sleeved and high-necked, and could hardly be plainer. The high collar has wings faced with brown, and brown buttons, down the front, seem to show a single-mindedness of purpose to be only useful. Narrow cuffs bound with brown finish the long sleeves. Altogether the waist seems to bespeak a lack of self-consciousness in the wearer; it is so devoid of fussiness.

The skirt is moderately full, smartly short and slightly flaring. The skeleton bodice is plain, with bound edges, and the belt is made of the same fabric as the dress. The waist line is a little higher than the normal and a fairly wide belt is supported by sides of the fabric which hold it securely.

The side seams are prevented from sagging by stitched-on straps of the material, the neat machine stitching and accurately placed straps adding an elegant finish. Buttons like those at the front of the bodice, but smaller, finish the cuffs and extend above them on the sleeve for the space of six inches.

The fascinating feature in the composition of this unusual little gown is, of course, the unexpectedly real pockets at each side of the front. They are there, but for just what purpose, beyond that of furnishing a novelty in design, remains to be seen.

There are curved, diagonal slits in the skirt, with edges bound, wonderfully well finished. The dress is faultlessly tailored and made of an excellent quality of broadcloth. The waist, although so plain, is entirely up to date and depends upon the crepe of which it is made, as much as upon design and execution, for its elegance.

Night Dress With Cluny Lace and Embroidery

All the big stores and, quite likely, the smaller ones are having their annual white-goods sales. Counters are piled high with dainty lingerie of sheer fabrics, trimmed with exquisite laces and embroideries manufactured especially for the finishing of undermuslins.

Styles change in undermuslins and night dresses as in other clothes, though not so radically. The new designs for spring reveal narrow laces, very sheer embroideries, much beading, small tucks and the use of ribbon in the new garments. Small, fine patterns in embroidery are liked much better than heavier designs, and new tricks in placing yokes, shaping sleeves, letting in medallions, reward the searcher after something new.

One of the newest patterns in night dresses is shown here so plainly that it hardly needs description. The body of the gown is made of two widths of nainsook felled together along the sides. At the center of one width at the top a cluster of twelve tucks is run, each about a quarter inch deep and six inches long. At the back the material is laid in box plaits an inch wide, in a cluster at the center. Six or more plaits are laid according to the size of the neck opening.

The pretty yoke at the front requires an embroidered beading an inch and a half wide finished at one edge with a band of swiss embroidery in an open pattern. This, in turn, is edged with the narrow beading which extends all around the neck. Narrow cluny lace insertion is stitched along the lower edge of the beading in the yoke and a second row of the same insertion outlines the yoke and joins it to the body of the gown. In making the yoke the wide beading is to be stitched to the row of swiss embroidery at one side, and to the row of cluny insertion at the other, and then cut into two pieces of equal length to form the two sides. The second row of cluny is then stitched to both pieces.

The neck opening is finished with a narrow cluny edging sewed to the narrow beading below it. The full short sleeves are finished with both insertion and edging of cluny.

A narrow satin ribbon run in the beading about the neck adjusts it to the figure. A wide ribbon is run through a buttonholed slit at the front and tied in a generous bow.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

CANADA ONE OF THE WORLD PROVIDERS

Although Canada's real start in national development as pointed out by the Buffalo Commercial, came slowly and late, as compared with that of the United States, it is now well under way, and very soon there will be a marvelous expansion in agriculture, mining and manufacturing.

The paper above mentioned says that "heretofore the development of Canada, like that of the United States, has been Westward, but unlike this country, the Dominion has a great territory to the North, which has been regarded as all but uninhabitable, but in which recent research has proven there are possibilities for development almost inconceivable." After making complimentary reference to the resources of the country tributary to the Hudson Bay, which will be opened up when the railroad now under construction is completed, the Commercial further says "there are those living today who will see our neighbor on the north a great and powerful nation, and a not insignificant industrial and commercial rival of the United States. The war may retard, but it cannot destroy, Canada's future. And in this expansion no one will more heartily rejoice than the people of the United States, because the prosperity of the Dominion is bound to increase our own."

Herein is the spirit that dominates the Dominion Government when it extends an invitation to Americans to assist in developing the resources that Canada possesses, whether they be mineral, forest, industrial, commercial or agriculture. Both countries will benefit, and the United States will be a gainer by having as a neighbor a country whose resources are as great and varied as are those of Canada.

In comparing the United States with other nations of the world in producing and importing foodstuffs, the Agricultural Outlook published by the United States department of agriculture says:

The United States in recent years has been as large an importer of foodstuffs as an exporter; therefore she cannot be classed as a surplus producer of foodstuffs. This is contrary to popular impression. It is true that she is an exporter of certain articles, but she is an equally large importer of other articles. In this classification tea and coffee are included with foodstuffs. In edible grains the production is 23 per cent more than the amount retained; the production of meats is six per cent more—that is, exports of meat equal six per cent of that retained in the United States for consumption; the production of dairy products is 20 per cent more than consumed; the production of poultry is just about equal to consumption; of vegetables, one per cent less.

An investigation into the production and exports of food products of various countries indicates that England produces about 53 per cent of her food requirements, and imports (net) about 47 per cent; Belgium produces 57 per cent, and imports 43 per cent; Germany produces 88 per cent, and imports 12 per cent; France produces 92 per cent, and imports eight per cent; Austria-Hungary produces 98 per cent, and imports two per cent; Russia produces 110 per cent of her requirements, and exports an equivalent of about 10 per cent; Canada produces 23 per cent more than she consumes; Argentina produces 48 per cent more than she consumes; the United States produces practically no more than she consumes (i. e., exports and imports of foodstuffs almost balance).

With this information before the reader, it is not a difficult matter to direct attention to the fact that Canada stands in a pre-eminent position in the matter of grain and cattle production, and with a large territory yet unoccupied she will always maintain it.—Advertisement.

ON THE RIVER BANK

By JUNE GAHAN.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Going to be married?" echoed Barry Miles.

Ned King nodded triumphantly. "Sure as fate," he smiled. "I'll hold you to your old promise, Barry; you'll be my best man?"

Barry thrust out a friendly hand. "Of course, you can count on me, old man? Congratulations—and who is the girl?"

Ned reddened, but his eyes were bold.

"Della Adams," he said carelessly.

Barry whitened and all the light died out of his face. "Della Adams?" he repeated in a curious tone. "You are to be congratulated indeed, Ned!"

"Thanks Barry. Remember, it's to be a very quiet affair—perhaps a dozen guests. Next Wednesday evening at seven—and you're to be best man!"

Barry did not wince now. "I shall not forget," he said gravely as he turned away.

Was Ned King his friend? Barry asked himself this question over and over as he made his way toward the village hotel.

Surely Ned had known that Barry Miles, the young salesman for a wholesale grocery firm in a neighboring city, was in love with Della Adams, and Della could have told Ned, if she cared to listen to something especially interesting when Barry paid his next visit to Grassyton.

Meanwhile, Ned King had hurried toward the Adams house and told Della of the best man arrangement.

"Ned! You asked him, Barry, to be your best man?" she faltered.

"Why not? He was willing. Said I was a lucky chap to get you—and I guess I am," he confessed.

Della smiled strangely. "I'm going to send you home now, Ned. If we are to be married next Wednesday I have a thousand things to do."

Della watched him striding down the village street, his stocky figure covering the distance in absurdly long steps. Why, she asked herself, had she engaged herself to Ned King when she loved another man?

Because the death of her uncle had left her singularly alone in the world and she had learned that Barry Miles was engaged to a Drayton girl.

Della put on her jersey and went out into October sunset. The way to the river led along a narrow path ankle deep in autumn leaves. She sat down beneath a bending willow.

Two men were sitting on a great flat stone. One of them was young, and the dark head was buried in his hands. He was listening to the words of the stern-faced rector of the church.

"I'm sorry, Barry," Mr. Fraser was saying in his deep voice. "I've known Della all her life, and if she said she would wait for you—that she would listen to your story—there must be some mistake—some misunderstanding. Have you an enemy?"

"Not that I am aware of," said Barry drearily. "Perhaps she didn't care for me. I hope you'll forgive my whining about it, but I wanted to talk to some one, and what you've said to me has done a lot of good." The two men shook heads.

Barry laughed uncertainly. "I was so sure," he said, "that I even brought the marriage license down with me. It was sort of a comfort to have it, you know. The firm has given me a raise in salary and extended my territory to the northwest. And I thought I could persuade her to marry me at once."

He took a folded paper out of his pocket and tore it across. But before he could complete its destruction Della's slender form stood before him and her hands grasped the marriage license.

"Della!" he gasped, falling back a step.

The girl turned a blushing face to the minister.

"Mr. Fraser," she pleaded, "please tell him it is all a mistake."

Ten minutes later Ned King came whistling down the path in search of his fiancée. By the river's bank, under the bending willows, he found her, standing with her hand in Barry's, while Mr. Fraser pronounced a blessing on their marriage.

For a moment Ned watched them. Then silently, with ghostly face, he turned and disappeared.

Indiscreet Memory.

You and that very charming Miss Malcolm were boy-and-girl friends, I'm told?"

"Yes."

"I saw you talking to her. You must have had a delightful time recalling early days."

"Well, no. I tried to make it pleasant, but it didn't seem to work. I recalled to her how she climbed trees and fences when she was ten years old, and she gave me a freezing look. Then I asked her to remember how she was thrown from an overturned bobbed and went head foremost into a snowdrift and stuck there. 'You were seven years old,' I said, 'and I recall that you wore—' What do you think she did?"

"I dunno."

"Said 'Sir!' and stalked away."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"CASCARETS" FOR SLUGGISH BOWELS

No sick headache, sour stomach, biliousness or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out to-night and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret to-night straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken. Adv.

Breaking a Sequence.

"We are all vexed with Julia."

"For what reason?"

"Well, Alice married a man named Jones—I married a man named Brown—and Julia has gone and married a Mr. von Booster, when she promised to marry a man named Smith."

A RICH MAN'S ROMANCE.

Would you believe it, the ordinary Potato has made Henry Schroeder, a poor emigrant boy, the Rich Potato King of the Red River Valley and wound around him a romance which every ambitious farmer boy will want to read in Salzer's Seed Catalog.

Among Mr. Schroeder's strong statements are: "In years of Potato plenty, plant plenty Potatoes!" Or, in other words, when Potatoes are plenty and cheap in Fall and Winter, plant plenty Potatoes the following Spring, and look for 70, 80, 90c Potatoes in Summer and Fall. Good common sense advises that. Worth following every time!

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger. Adv.

HAS OWN DRUG STORE

Sentenced as a Boy, He Served 18 Years, But Always Insisted He Was Innocent—Was Drug Clerk in Prison.

Kansas City, Mo.—It was seven years ago last Christmas that Willie Sells, who was sent to the Kansas State penitentiary when a boy to serve a life sentence for the murder of his mother and father and brother and sister, sat in the library of the penitentiary waiting for a Christmas gift that did not come. He had expected it all that day, an envelope from the governor of Kansas containing his pardon.

It was a gloomy Christmas that day for Willie Sells, but he didn't lose hope.

He worked on and on at his task assigned by the warden until April. Then one day when he wasn't expecting it the warden called him to the office and handed him the letter with the pardon.

His Desire to Make Good.

That night Willie Sells left the Kansas penitentiary behind him. No money in his pockets, few friends, but a desire and a will to make good, that was all he had.

"It was a long time coming, but it was worth waiting for," W. B. Sells, druggist, said the other day in his own drug store at Thirteenth street and Garfield avenue, Kansas side. "I've been out seven years now and I have worked hard to show the world that a man can make good even if he has spent eighteen long years behind the walls of a penal institution."

It was the same Willie Sells who 25 years ago figured in one of the most sensational murder cases in the history of the West.

Circumstantial Evidence.

Through the long dreary days of his trial for the quadruple murder Willie Sells maintained his innocence.

Taking It All.

"Before I agree to undertake your defense," said the eminent criminal lawyer, "you will have to tell me the whole truth. Did you embezzle the $100,000 you are accused of having taken?"

"Yes, sir," cried the accused man. "I'll not attempt to conceal the fact from you. I stole every cent of it."

"How much of it have you still?"

"It's all gone but a couple of dollars."

"Young man," said the eminent lawyer, buttoning his coat about him and putting on his gloves, "you had better plead guilty and throw yourself on the mercy of the court."

"I'll do it if you say so, sir. What are you going to charge me for the advice?"

IS CHILD CROSS, FEVERISH, SICK

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

FINANCIAL GENIUS IN BAD

New York Peddler Would Seem to Be Destined for a Career in Wall Street.

Two men who sold Christmas toys in New street stood at the rear of the stock exchange. One of them was devoting painful attention to the financial page of a morning newspaper.

"What are you looking for, Yustin?" asked his companion.

"For a stock that sells for 50," Yustin replied.

"Why do you want that?"

"I sold a loafer of a broker one of my mechanical dogs on Thursday and he gave me a plugged half dollar. I know the feller. Now I will smartly buy a stock for 50 from him and give him back his bad money."

"But suppose, Yustin, he gives you a bum stock? You know them brokers."

"Then we will be quits. 'Cause I sold him a bum dog."

Yustin is a man of promise. He should stay in New street and establish there a class to teach his particular brand of high finance.—New York Evening Post.

Raising Late Strawberries.

Representative D. H. Drunker of New Jersey gave a few friends a surprise one evening last September. He had been discussing agriculture with some members, and remarked that he had enjoyed strawberries raised in the open in his native state.

The other congressmen hooted at the idea of Jersey selling strawberries from the field in the latter part of September, but Drunker stuck to his point and invited the doubting Thomases to dine with him a few nights later.

In the meantime he had wired for several quarts of berries to a trucker near his home who made a specialty of late berries. The strawberries came and were served for dinner, much to the surprise of the gentlemen, who found it difficult to credit their own senses.

Raspberries and strawberries in October are now getting to be quite a fad among those up-to-date farmers who know how to do the stunt, which consists in pulling off from the plant the early blooms.

SUFFERS PAINS IN BURIED HAND

Digs It Up and Straightens Fingers; Then All Is Well.

Georgetown, Del.—Suffering intense pains in a hand which had been amputated and buried, Lewis Jefferson of Blades had no relief until the hand was uncovered and the fingers straightened out, since when he has felt no more pain.

The strange story is vouched for by Jefferson himself, whose hand was cut off by a circular saw several weeks ago. During the past week he has been suffering with severe pains and with an itching sensation in what would have been the palm of the hand.

Unrelieved by physicians, the young man acted on the advice of friends and dug up the amputated hand, which had been buried for nearly six weeks. The fingers of the hand were found in a cramped position. After straightening out the fingers and weighting them so that they could not again double up, the hand was reburied. All pain left Jefferson at once, and he claims that he has suffered no inconvenience since.

STEAL THE SHERIFF'S GUN

Officer Sleeps While Burglars Also Take His Star and Some Mince Pies.

Boulder, Colo.—While peacefully sleeping and dreaming of a raid he had planned at Hygiene, Sheriff Buster suffered a blow to his pride.

Two thieves entered his apartments in the courthouse, removed a revolver from beneath his pillow, unpinning the star from his vest, which was hanging on a chair, picked up two pair of trousers, took two mince pies intended for Christmas from the cupboard, and then started to walk out of the room with the sewing machine. In the hallway one of the invaders caught his foot in a rug and stumbled with the machine against the wall. The noise aroused the sheriff, who ran into the hall, only to see the two burglars disappear down the stairway.

Buster said that the loss of the mince pies perplexed him more than the humiliation of being caught asleep.

LIVE SNAKE IN HER STOMACH

X-Ray Reveals Reptile in Woman's Interior—Removed Without Operation.

Madison, Wis.—One of the most unusual cases in the history of local medicine was revealed at a local hospital, when physicians submitting a woman from Waukakee, Dane county, to an X-ray examination, discovered that her stomach contained a live snake six inches long. The woman had not suffered any pain up to the time of the discovery, but was greatly distressed when told of the results of the examination. The snake was removed without operating. It proved to be a reptile commonly known as the grass snake, nearly pure white. The hospital authorities refuse to make any statement regarding the case.

Marked Down.

Charles broke the spell as in a dejected tone of voice he said: "Miss Fraser, I love you, but dare not dream of calling you mine. Yesterday I was worth $25,000, but today, by the turn of fortune's wheel, I have but a few paltry hundreds to call my own. I would not ask you to accept me in my reduced state. Farewell forever."

As Charles was about to stride mournfully away she caught him and eagerly cried: "Good gracious! Reduced from $25,000 to $100! What a bargain! Of course, I'll take you! You might have known I couldn't resist.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

One of Pete Dailey's Stories.

Two racing stories concerning the late Pete Dailey as narrated by Harry Bulger:

Frank Lane, an actor in the Charles T. Hoyt companies, quit the stage to become a sheet writer and confidential agent for Kid Weller.

"Where's Lane now?" somebody asked of Dailey.

"They've given him a part of a book up in Canada," responded Pete, "and I think he drew the flyleaf."

Bulger and Dailey on the Sheepshead Bay track at the conclusion of the day's program: "How did you finish, Pete?" he inquired. "Fine," was the answer. "I beat the first five races and I'd have beaten the sixth if I'd had my cane with me."

WHEN KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE GLASS OF SALTS

Eat Less Meat If Kidneys Hurt or You Have Backache or Bladder Misery—Meat Forms Uric Acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

Farmer Cornstossel's Idea.

"What do you want with all those hammocks and phonograph records and fancy groceries?" asked the storekeeper. "Going to have summer boarders?"

"No," said Farmer Cornstossel. "I wouldn't waste all them on summer boarders. I'm goin' to try to make the place attractive enough to persuade a few farm hands to linger around and help me out with the wheat crop."

A lovers' quarrel and a small boy's troubles are soon patched up.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE

The annual Farmers' Institute of Jefferson and Monroe Townships was held at Upland, Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Monday the exercises were held in the Methodist Church. Prof. C. R. George discussed "Dairying" and Mr. Otis Crane County Agent, discussed "Farm Management." In the afternoon Mrs. Vayhinger gave an address on "Home Economics."

On Monday evening Mr. Otis Crane delivered a lantern slide lecture in the High School building that was highly spoken of.

On Tuesday the exercises were held at the auditorium of Taylor University. The exercises opened at 10:00 A. M. with the regular chapel service, which was conducted by Rev. W. D. Parr. Dr. W. D. Parr discussed "The Improvement of the Farmer" and Prof. George gave an address upon "Balanced Rations." Mr. Crane spoke on "The Moral Welfare of the Farmer."

At noon the audience adjourned to the gymnasium where a bountiful repast was served. At the close of the dinner, the Philo and Thalo basketball teams played a splendid game. The farmers all seemed to enjoy the basketball very much.

At 2:00 o'clock the session opened in the auditorium and Miss Luna Dickerson discussed "The Sanitation of the Home." Mr. Culver and Miss Register read selections to the great interest of the audience, and the Taylor University quartet rendered several selections. Miss Raymond rendered a piano solo.

It was decided to hold the next annual Farmers' Institute of Jefferson and Monroe Townships in the auditorium of Taylor University.

Mr. Alva B. Nesbitt was elected President and Albert Bragg Secretary-Treasurer for the ensuing year.

This Institute was decidedly the best that has been held for some years. If all the farmers in these townships will take an interest in these Institutes, they will be of great value.

Escaped

L. L. Pearson, the ticket agent at the Pennsylvania station, narrowly escaped the wheels of a rapidly moving train last Tuesday morning just before the east bound train arrived. While going down the platform to attend his duties, he accidentally fell between the brick platform and the track in an attempt to board a freight train. But by lying low and close to the curb, until a long and high floored car came over him, he in some manner sprang from the trap, and was fortunate enough to escape with only a few bruises.

OBITUARY

Vera Delight Goodwin, the daughter of Mortin and Anna Goodwin was born July 5th 1910. Died Feb. 15, 1915, aged 14 yr. 7 mo. 10 days. Her whole life was spent on the farm of her father north east of Upland. Vera was of a bright, cheerful disposition. A girl that was a dutiful daughter to her mother and always tried to please her. She was anxious to get well, so she might again meet with her S. S. class.

Her affliction commenced near a year ago, by an attack of rheumatism, and by subsequent attacks so weakened her heart that she could not withstand the ravages of disease.

She will be missed, 1st. in the home circle, 2nd. in the District school, 3rd. in the Bible School. She leaves to mourn, her father, mother, four sisters, two brothers and a host of friends. While it seems hard to see so young a life cut off, we can but say, "Thy will be done."

75,000 HORSES BOUGHT IN U. S. FOR WAR USES

No Immediate Danger of Acute Shortage, However—Animals of Poor Quality.

Washington, Feb. 6—Warring European nations have bought and exported more than 75,000 horses from the United States, but there is no immediate danger apparent that continued export will cause an acute shortage of horses in this country, according to G. A. Bell, of the bureau of animal husbandry.

"We could sell two or three times the number already exported without their being any appreciable shortage of work horses," the statement says "the kind purchased are for the most part very mediocre animals which would ordinarily sell for less than $100 per head."

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank the friends and neighbors for their kind assistance and sympathy in the hour of our grief and bereavement. Also for the beautiful floral offerings.

NO FULL MOON THIS MONTH

There will be no full moon this month. February is the only month in which this lack ever can occur, and 146 was the last year with a moonless February. Professor Jacoby, of Columbia University, says full moons follow one another at intervals of about twenty nine and a half days, and thus it can happen occasionally that February with its twenty-eight days, hasn't time for a new moon to become full. There were too full moons last month, and there will be two next month.

SERVICE BY AEROPLANE

Postmaster Robert B. Hanna, of Fort Wayne, has received a letter from the department of Washington stating that an appropriation of $50,000 would be asked of congress to be used in experimental work with aeroplanes as means of carrying mail between Fort Wayne and Indianapolis and other places in the country, where it is proposed to establish the service. If the appropriation is made, the department will then be ready to take up the proposition of entering into a contract with an aviator to do the work. Many of the postmasters along the route from Fort Wayne to Indianapolis have indorsed the plan suggested by Postmaster Hanna. Hartford City is one of the proposed stops between Fort Wayne and Indianapolis.—Hartford City news.
