Into the Woods, the 1988 Tony Award winner for both Score and Book of a musical, is a brilliantly conceived exploration of what happens after “happily ever after.” The show, which has an enchanting, moving and profound score by Stephen Sondheim, and a powerful, witty book by James Lapine, opened on Broadway on November 5, 1987, at the Martin Beck Theater under the direction of Mr. Lapine.

Into the Woods is a magical, imaginative adventure with a moral and political point of view. Employing sophisticated artistry and innovative craft, the show’s creators lead the audience on a journey to the darker side of fairy tales as they explore the pain of growing up, communal responsibility, and the values we pass on to our children. As the intricate, absorbing plot unfolds, a childless baker and his wife, cursed by a wicked witch, go off into the woods in hopes of ridding themselves of her evil influence. There they encounter Cinderella, her Prince, Little Red Ridinghood, the Wolf, Jack the Giant Killer, Rapunzel and other fairy tale characters who are attempting to realize wishes of their own. By the end of Act 1, everything seems to be blissfully, happily resolved. However, a destructive, vengeful force looms in the woods which leads to tragic consequences in the second act, bringing the characters to a painful, but hopeful resolution.

Filled with unexpected twists and dazzling insights, Into the Woods is a cautionary plea for commitment expressed through masterstrokes of theatrical magic. Subjects as diverse as the promise of perfect love, the foolhardiness of greed, and the loving but difficult relationship between parents and children are considered in a landscape shaded with psychological undertones...you’ll have a lot to talk about when you leave.

With tenderness and laughter, Sondheim and Lapine bring us through the maze that mirrors the complexity of everyday existence. Like the characters in Into the Woods, we end this journey aware of the ethical and moral consequences of our actions and the power of grace, community and shared

Outside of Taylor Theatre, Cory has designed for many other companies, some of which include, the Champaign-Urbana Ballet Company, Summer Studio Theatre Company at the University of Illinois, Feltre Library Theatre in Chicago, Parkland College, and the University of Illinois Theatre department. Some other productions to his credit are: The Hobbit, La Traviata, The Nutcracker, Aloha Say the Pretty Girls, Tennessee Williams’ Spring Storm, Peter Pan, The Importance of Being Earnest, Tally’s Folley, The Adventures of Tom Sawyer, A Midsummer Night’s Dream, Urinetown the Musical, Into the Woods, Romeo & Juliet, and Proof. Beyond the world of theatre, Cory has worked as the senior exhibit designer and art director at Taylor Studios Inc. designing award winning museum exhibits and themed environments across the country for 9 years. Currently, Cory is employed as a designer with the Spectrum Design Group based in Champaign, IL where he lives with his wife Jennifer and three children, Ethan, Emmy, and Ella. Cory holds an MFA in Scenic Design from the University of Illinois Urbana/Champaign.
PRODUCTION CONCEPT

For this production of Into the Woods, the design concept is focused around the ideas of Light, Shadow, and Silhouette. Specifically, each of these ideas, whether metaphorically or literally, support various themes presented and explored by characters throughout the production. Visually, these ideas are depicted using two dimensional, layered cut-outs which serve as the basis for the “woods world” in which our characters enter.

Into the woods...

Inspired by the art of cut paper light boxes, the white color of the scenery allows light to take a dominate role in defining mood, location, and time. The multi-layered, two-dimensional cut-outs of the scenery serve to create profiles which cast shadows when lit from one direction, but quickly become silhouettes when lit from behind.

Out of the woods...

In contrast, defined and realistic scenery create cottage interiors representing the world outside the woods. Character experiences and choices made while “in the woods” directly affect the visual appearance of their “outside worlds”.

And home before dark.

The Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival, part of the Rubenstein Arts Access Program, is generously funded by David M. Rubenstein.

Special thanks to The Harold and Mimi Steinberg Charitable Trust for supporting the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts’ Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival.

Additional support is provided by The Honorable Stuart Bernstein and Wilma E. Bernstein; and the Dr. Gerald and Paula McNichols Foundation.

Kennedy Center education and related artistic programming is made possible through the generosity of the National Committee for the Performing Arts.

This production is entered in the Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival (KCACTF). The aims of this national theater education program are to identify and promote quality in college-level theater production. To this end, each production entered is eligible for a response by a regional KCACTF representative, and selected students and faculty are invited to participate in KCACTF programs involving scholarships, internships, grants and awards for actors, directors, dramaturgs, playwrights, designers, stage managers and critics at both the regional and national levels.

Productions entered on the Participating level are eligible for invitation to the KCACTF regional festival and may also be considered for national awards recognizing outstanding achievement in production, design, direction and performance.

Last year more than 1,500 productions were entered in the KCACTF involving more than 200,000 students nationwide. By entering this production, our theater department is sharing in the KCACTF goals to recognize, reward, and celebrate the exemplary work produced in college and university theaters across the nation.
