COW EATING BEAR CAUSES BIG FUROR

New Jersey Farmer Interferes and Has Time of His Life.

New York .- According to information brought by courier from Montague, an outpost in the wilds of Sussex county, N. J., that section is being ravaged by cow-eating black bears, who are not above taking a chance on a well fed farmer. The other day, so 'tis said, an unusually woolly bear chased "Bill" Cummings, a well-known settler, up a tree, after he got tired of having "Bill" chase him.

An armed force of neighbors shooed the bear away and helped "Bill" out of the tree, where he told of a wild chase through the underbrush. The bear in question, probably the most impolite and daring ever seen about Montague, is reported to have waddled into the corral of Charles Jennings, where it fastened its teeth in a calf. Mr. Cummings on his way to Jennings' home saw the theft and yelled "Shoo there, boss," with little or no effect.

Enraged at this he gave chase to the bear, which fled, still clinging to the calf. After a wild chase through the dense forests which litter Sussex county, particularly near the curb lines, the bear lost his temper and the calf at the same time and turned irritably toward his pursuer. Mr. Cummings noting the angry expression in the bear's eye hurried to the nearest giant of the forest and crawled to the highest branch, from whence he was released by his neighbors. The bear got away.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs" that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic-remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask at the store for a 50cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Adv.

IF BACK HURTS CLEAN KIDNEYS WITH SALTS

Drink Lots of Water and Stop Eating Meat for a While If the Bladder Bothers You,

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.-Adv.

ARE FOUND BY MOTHER

Tries in Vain to Induce Her Husband to Let Girl Bride Return to His Son-Is Shock to the Bridegroom.

New York .- How, on the very night of his marriage, his own father stole from him his young bride, was told on the witness stand in Justice Cohalan's part of the supreme court, where Franklin D. Wood, a hospital interne, twenty-three years old, asked for a divorce from his wife Lelia.

The testimony shows that Wood had scarcely left the altar before he noticed a change in the bride's demeanor. Instead of the laughing, jocular girl he had taken for a wife, he was confronted by a serious-faced woman, unresponsive to love and caresses.

"To make a long story short, she told me that she did not love me at all, but that her affections were centered in an older man," said the interne. "Who this man was she did not say, but she inferred that I ought to know him. I didn't know-in fact, I didn't even suspect."

Then Bride Vanished. That evening the bride disappeared.

Wood could get no trace of her. Henry Jackson Wood, father of the interne, disappeared when the bride vanished, but the son swore that he suspected no connection between the two events. That his wife could have gone away with her father-in-law was beyond his comprehension. If she wanted to leave with him, why did she wait until after the ceremony had been performed? She might just as well have gone before.

However, this is just what did happen, but the fact did not become known until six months later. It would still be a secret had not the elder Wood written to the wife he had deserted asking her to go to Chicago and confer with him over a divorce. "My husband wrote me he wanted to see me," testified Mrs. Wood. "and I went to him. I was informed that he lived at No. 2228 Milwaukee ave-

It is said we hear more war news in the United States than they do abroad. And it would be all the more nuts. interesting if we could tell just how much of it to believe.

While Americans have let Europeans get ahead of them in aviation, there are entirely too many people in this country who are past masters at kiting checks.

The Europeans at the front complain most of the noise of battle. That's what comes of not being accustomed to hearing baseball crowds address an umpire.

It would be interesting to have someone show how many civilians aviators would have to kill in order to conquer battleships on the seas.

MAY BE COFFEE That Causes all the Trouble

When the house is afire, it's about the same as when disease begins to show, it's no time to talk but time to act-delay is dangerous-remove the cause of the trouble at once.

"For a number of years," wrote a Kansas lady, "I felt sure that coffee was hurting me, and yet I was so fond of it, I could not give it up. At last I got so bad that I made up my mind I must either quit the use of coffee or die.

"Everything I ate distressed me, and I suffered severely most of the time with palpitation of the heart. I frequently woke up in the night with the feeling that I was almost gone-my heart seemed so smothered and weak in its action. My breath grew short the armies in the trenches and the and the least exertion set me panting. I slept but little and suffered from rheumatism.

"Two years ago I stopped using the coffee and began to use Postum and from the very first I began to improve. It worked a miracle! Now I can eat her father has more money than she anything and digest it without trouble. I sleep like a baby, and my heart beats strong and regularly. My breathing Europe continues to call upon us has become steady and normal, and my rheumatism has left me.

"I feel like another person, and it is all due to quitting coffee and using Postum, for I haven't used any medicine and none would have done any good as long as I kent drugging with coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum-must be well

A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins. Both kinds are equally delicious, and cost per cup about the same. "There's a Reason" for Postum.

Athens, Ga .- R. E. Burton of Colbert, married only a few weeks ago, lost his wife in a motion picture house here recently. In Athens for shopping, he decided to buy his bride a gift and took her to the "movie" to wait until he had done his purchasing. Returning, he searched the picture house over three times, and, failing to find her, reluctantly left for his home on the evening train, hoping that she had found a car or buggy among the relatives here for the day, and, having missed him, was on the way to greet him at home.

He failed to find her at home, and nobody had seen her. The young man was almost prostrated with anxiety and uneasiness. In the meantime the young wife sat patiently awaiting his return-from four o'clock in the afternoon until the house closed at eleven at night. She saw him enter the house, she stated, and wondered why he did not join her and sit a picture through. She spent the night with friends here, who phoned her husband's relatives, the nearest way they could reach him, about midnight.

nue, and I went to the address immediately I arrived in the city, but I didn't let Mr. Wood know I had arrived. The servant let me into the house and I walked to the bedroom. As I opened the door my husband sprang out of bed, and at the same time Lelia my son's wife, ran to the window."

Refused to Part.

Mrs. Wood said that her daughter-in-law was shrieking, and she demanded what it all meant. Thereupon her husband told her that he loved his daughter-in-law. The wife sat down and talked matters over with him She argued that he should let the giri go back to his son, but he would not have it. Thereupon the younger Mrs. Wood put her arms about Wood and said she would not be separated from him.

Shortly after this episode Wood and his son's wife left Chicago and went to St. Louis, where they are now living

The evidence went to show that as soon as the son began courting the girl the father became interested in her and she in him, but the curious twist in misplaced affections was carefully kept from young Wood. Up to the moment of the admissions made by his bride he believed he possessed her heart, and the shock to him was great.

Even dogs can eat too much meat. Certainly, many people "dig their graves with their teeth." Eew get enough exercise to justify a meat diet, for meat brings uric acid. GRANDMA STILL KNITS

BUT THE YARN TANGLES.

"Sometimes," said the strikingly handsome woman with the white hair, "I really wish I were my own grandmother. It must have been so restfui to be a grandmother in her day. "Yes, of course I'm one myself, but the styles in grandmothers have changed so greatly that I'm not in the least like the dear old lady in the black silk and real lace cap who used to sit placidly knitting by our fireside when I was a little girl. I can see her now, in the summer time, too, in a retired corner of the porch of our old home. Usually Young's 'Night Thoughts' lay open on her violetsprigged muslin lap. It is a lovely picture of quiet and repose to recall in these busy times. She didn't have to read Bergson and Ellen Key or any of the modern philosophers that I have to gobble in large bites in order to keep up with my department in the Woman's league. She wasn't burdened, either, with a civic conscience. I don't suppose it would ever have occurred to her that it was her duty to leave her dinner half eaten and rush down to the city council on a Monday night to throw the moral weight of her presence against the passage of a nefarious ordinance.

"Oh, dear, there's the telephone. Friday forenoon, did you say? Please wait a moment until I consult my calendar. Yes, I can see you at ten. Please come promptly, as I have a committee meeting at 11.

"That's a young woman who wants me to hear her paper on eugenics before she reads it to the Mothers' council in the settlement where she works. I wonder what my grandmother would have thought about eugenics?

"Just excuse me a moment while I glance at these notes. Here's an invitation to the ball poudre the Hadsalls are giving Wednesday of next week. I certainly must squeeze in a dancing lesson or two before then. Billy-that's my younger grandson, you know--told me the other night at the club hop that I was really rusty on the waltz and two-step. You see, I've done the new dances so much the last two years that I've rather neglected the old ones, and now that they're coming in again, I certainly must brush up. I suppose I might take a private lesson early Monday afternoon before I go to the lecture on Chinese porcelain. That reminds me-I must refresh my memory on the comparative importance of the art of the successive dynasties. Dear old grandma, she wouldn't have known the difference between the Ming dynasty and a china teapot, and I believe it was a comfortable state of ignorance.

"No, I can't rest much Thursday afternoon, because I'm one of the patronesses at the play and the dansant that Adelaide-that's my granddaughter, you know-and the rest of her sorority are giving for the benefit of the Red Cross. But Saturday will be quite a free day. Just one short meeting in the morning, a musicale in the afternoon and the theater at night. I'll have the time to rest in the early morning, while the manicure is doing my nails. I always take that hour of the manicure's weekly visit to do a lot of quiet thinking. I suppose grandmother had all the time for thinking that she wished. "My head fairly buzzes with projects for the new vacation camp I'm getting up, the movement for introducing household economics in workmen's homes, that I'm pushing, and plans for all my other various boards and committees. The change of fashions is bothering me just now also. for all my frocks, nearly, are too narrow skirted for the present mode, though they were only made last autumn. I'm trying to evolve a method of making them fuller which won't necessitate a complete remodeling. "How pleasant it must have been for grandmother always to know that her waists were to be made surplice and her skirts plain gathered. It must have given her a peace of mind far exceeding that I gained from the course in artistic dress design that I took last year. She was free from all worries about harmony of tones and graceful lines. Her only care was for cleanliness and neatness, and her feeling for art was easily expressed in the pattern of knitted lace which finished the hem of her crisp white apron that she rarely mussed, for all she had to do was to knit. "Yes, of course, I knit. I knit without ceasing almost. The only place I don't knit is at church or a dancing or bridge party, and I don't know how long I shall be exempt from knitting there. A woman whose needles aren't continually clicking for the sufferers across the sea is considered heartless. The family darning, which was a sacred rite with my grandmother, is sent out of our house to be done, so that we can have the time to knit, knit, knit. I keep a work bag in the dining room so that I can knit between courses, and I have another hanging in the limousine that there may be no time lost between engagements as I drive across town. "Somebody to see me about the rural library extension? Yes, I know. Certainly, I'll go right down. Will you excuse me a few moments? 1 don't have to make company of such an old friend as you. Thank you, my ball is always rolling away and getting the yarn tangled, but I'll probably be able to knit several rows while the young college professor is giving me his slews.'
