Fort Wayne loves our teachers!
When I went to elementary school, I attended South Wayne, located just nine blocks from the Fort Wayne campus. Did you student teach, observe or attend this school? I know Amy (Level) Warren g92 and her brother Matt Level g94 did with me. John Steiner g63 was our principal. Years later, Dixie (White) Garner g70 was the principal there.

Little did I know then how our paths would intersect later, as both Amy and “Mr. Steiner” would serve on our Fort Wayne Alumni Council. To this day, I still am fearful I will be called to “the principal’s office” and get a swat for misbehaving. Thankfully, that has never happened. In fact, Mr. Steiner was very kind to me, especially the morning I had some boys steal my lunch and punch me on the way to school. I actually got to ride in his car – quite the treat for a young student.

While Mr. Steiner has retired, Amy, who taught for several years at South Wayne continues to teach fifth grade at Price Elementary and is part of our Foellinger funded Summer Clubhouse program for inner city kids.

This issue of the FW Vine will celebrate the Elementary Education program that was started in 1955 and continued training and preparing students for the classroom here and abroad.

Aside from Pastoral Ministries and eventually Professional Writing, it became one of our most popular majors preparing thousands of students.

I give thanks for the lives that have been touched and transformed by professors like Lloyd Roth, Dr. Ted Nickel h96, Dr. Alice Joy Weddle g64, Dr. Bill Jarvis, Dr. Quinn White g87, Rebecca Shearer, Amy Settle and Anita Lane to name a few.

Hope you enjoy celebrating with us this great major and several of the people who are continuing to ministry in schools today. We give thanks for you and our legacy!

Grateful,

Michael D. Mortensen g91

The Fort Wayne campus was founded in 1904 as the Fort Wayne Bible Training School. It was renamed Fort Wayne Bible Institute, Fort Wayne Bible College, Summit Christian College and later became Taylor University Fort Wayne. Founded in 1846, Taylor University is one of America's oldest Christian liberal arts colleges. Over 2,000 graduate and undergraduate students from 46 states and 24 foreign countries attend Taylor, where majors in 50 fields of study are available.

Life Lessons
Dr Wes Gerig's newest book provides practical life application from the Old Testament.
As the 1950s began, a desire to supply educators for mission schools and the growing popularity of the Christian school movement prompted the Fort Wayne Bible College (FWBC) faculty and leadership to explore the possibility of offering a teacher education curriculum that would be accredited by the State of Indiana.

This desire was fueled by potential students who wanted to become teachers but with the biblical education offered by the college.

By the 1954-55 school year, plans became reality with the development of majors in elementary education, secondary education in music and speech, and K-12 music.

This program in its 59 years of existence would impact thousands of students not only on the campus but in schools here and around the world.

The Department of Education was created with Dr. Herbert Byrne as Chair. Byrne, Lloyd Roth (1956) and Gladys Schumacher (1958) were the first three faculty members in the program, which was unanimously approved for full accreditation in October 1956 by the Indiana Department of Education.

At that time, the program consisted of a full elementary program, a high school teaching program, which did not last for many years, and a music education program.

Perhaps the most recognized and longest tenured faculty members in the department were Dr. Ted Nickel ha96 and Dr. Alice Joy Weddle g64.

Nickel arrived in the spring of 1962. He became the chair of the Department of Education and the Director of Student Teaching. He had experience both in the classroom and as an administrator.

“Dr. Nickel was the person who most inspired me to persevere and gave me a love for education,” Pat (Goldsmith) Rice g82 said.
Weddle joined the department in 1972. She brought experience, vision, rigor and greater preparation for fieldwork and student teacher experiences. She later was instrumental in upgrading the curriculum and receiving North Central Association accreditation pursued by FWBC in the mid 1980s.

“She [Weddle] taught me that the classroom was my mission field to share Christ’s love,” Kim (Parker) Ulick g90 wrote.

In addition to Dr. Weddle, Nelson Gould g61, who came in 1964 to teach math and education courses, continued to lay the groundwork for connections in the community.

This vision for greater preparation for fieldwork and student teacher experiences became a hallmark of the Fort Wayne campus and continued even after the transition to Taylor University Fort Wayne (TUFW).

“Being placed in a classroom setting the very first semester [within the first two weeks] of a freshmen year was a great help,” Charrell (Williams) Stevens g07 explained. “You knew right away whether or not teaching was for you.”

“Fort Wayne, as a city, gave us many great opportunities as far as different classroom settings and teaching a diverse student population,” Stevens concluded.

The city of Fort Wayne provided an excellent resource for both practical experiences, and it provided experienced education professionals (some of whom were FWBC graduates), who became part-time instructors from the community. Following is a partial list of some of those instructors from the 1950s through 1992:

Earl Stanley Leonard, Robert F. Shambaugh, John Bechtelheimer, Ellen Soden, Eloise Guy, John Branam, Shirley (Mertz) Platte g69, Jody Grandlienard, and Susan Hall.

Reflections of Education Department

by Michael D. Mortensen g91

"When I applied for the Masters Degree program at IUPUI in 1975, the counselor took one look at my transcript and acknowledged, “I will have to put you on probation for your first nine hours of classwork since you did not graduate from a state-supported school. But, I will tell you that you have a far superior education graduating from FWBC than you would have received at a state-supported school.”

Nancy Stubblefield, g73

"Dr. Ted Nickel was the person who most inspired me to persevere and gave me a love for education. He reminded us that the students were our mission. When the pressures were great during my 27 years of teaching, I often reminded myself that ‘they don't care how much you know until they know how much you care’. I am proud of the education we received and the teachers that came from the Fort Wayne campus!"

Pat (Goldsmith) Rice g82

"One day in class, Dr. Alice Joy Weddle told us she had an extra assignment. She asked us to memorize Psalm 91. I remember feeling dismayed at this extra amount of work and not even something related to the class we were in. Was I ever wrong! To this day when I am feeling in need of the Lord’s strength and comfort, these words of this Psalm come to me bringing a sense of peace and strength. It has and will continue to be the 'lesson' I cherish most over all the countless classes I took during college."

Janna (Schlatter) Worthman g86

"Dr. Quinn White g87 and Dr. Bill Jarvis were amazing mentors for me. I learned from them not only practice, but attitude. And the way the program was set up put us in classrooms pretty much every semester, and that gave me a lot more experience before graduation than many other college programs."

Myric McBain g05

"I loved the enthusiasm the TUFW profs had for their field. They just loved to teach. Professor Amy Settle taught my Literacy Instruction class. I had never realized all the little rules and tricks that we do every day to read and write until she walked us through them. Now I find myself looking back at the materials from her class often to make sure I’m doing what I need to be doing."

The Ripple Effect
by Brent Rudin g94

Dating back to the early 1900s, Fort Wayne campus alumni have had a deep loyalty to encourage and financially support students as they pursue Christ-centered, Biblically-anchored education. Alumni Directors have always challenged students and graduates to pledge and give back financial support. Howard Dunlap g48 organized these efforts into an annual phonathon in 1982 with an initial goal of $18,000. Since then, this fund has provided hundreds of students with financial assistance. Little did he know what a ripple effect and impact this would provide for future generations.

The Fort Wayne Alumni Endowed Scholarship Fund was established with funds raised by Fort Wayne campus alumni and continues at Taylor University today. Priority is given to dependents or children of Fort Wayne Bible College, Summit Christian College, Taylor University Fort Wayne alumni. Now, this scholarship is also available to students who are grandchildren or blood relatives of Fort Wayne alumni, as well as those who have blood relation to former full-time faculty or staff members who served a minimum of two years on the Fort Wayne campus.

Peggy Sue Wells fs05 attended the Fort Wayne campus, and one of her daughters, Leailani Wells Squires g06, graduated from TUFW. Now, another daughter, Estee Wells cs14, is benefiting from this scholarship fund. “Without scholarships like this one, I wouldn’t be here at Taylor,” explained Estee. She has served the campus community in a variety of leadership positions and has studied overseas in Ireland. “My relationships and skills have grown so much these last years.”

Bekah Steiner cs14 is another current student who is receiving the scholarship. Bekah’s mother, Rhonda Lehman Steiner g83, graduated from Fort Wayne Bible College, and her father, Craig Steiner g80, graduated from Upland. “It has been a huge blessing to be able to attend Taylor, and it would not be possible without this scholarship.” Bekah continued, “The memories from TUFW are still present, which I have heard from my mother and sister (Rachel Steiner g11).”

Both Estee and Bekah are grateful for the contributions of alumni who invest in this scholarship fund.

“My experience here has definitely changed me for the better and encouraged me to grow socially, academically, and spiritually,” explained Bekah. “I hope to use my education to serve as a future teacher wherever God leads.”

This year, the Fort Wayne Alumni Endowed Scholarship has supported eight students with $5,000 a piece. Estee received this scholarship after her mother attended an alumni gathering. Until then, she was not aware of the funds available.

Faith in Rehabilitation

Former education professor Dr. William “Bill” Jarvis walks with a cane. In the middle of his Taylor University Fort Wayne (TUFW) teaching career, Jarvis was in a car accident that left him with a severe traumatic brain injury (TBI).

Since then, his physical recovery has been slow. But his cognitive recovery has made remarkable strides thanks to his natural ability to motivate others paired with the support of his TUFW family.

“I even had students come and see me and support me at the hospital,” Jarvis said. “The support you feel from the community makes all the difference in the world.”

Jarvis came to TUFW in 1996 after working as a teacher and then a principal in New Jersey for 29 years.

Then in December 2000, Jarvis was driving on a snowy night in Fort Wayne when his car slid on ice into oncoming traffic. He was only driving 30 mph, but the impact of the crash broke all of his ribs, punctured his lung, fractured his C1-C4 vertebrae and left him in a coma for five weeks.

“It just goes to show you can never know what is going to happen,” Jarvis said.

When Jarvis came out of his coma, he spent a few months in three different Fort Wayne hospitals before going to Hartwick Hospital in New Jersey for rehabilitation.

After about one year, he came back to TUFW to teach one course for three more years before retiring in 2007.

“The fact that Taylor let me teach those three years... it really helped me to have the emotional support of faculty and students,” Jarvis said.

While he worked as a professor, Jarvis joined a Fort Wayne TBI Support group at a hospital for people recovering from brain injuries. Then when he retired in 2007, he was asked to co-lead the group, so he drew on motivation and inspiration strategies he learned as a TUFW professor and as grade school teacher and principal.

Over time, Jarvis’s TBI Support group doubled from about 20 people to about 40 people, and for the past seven to eight years, Jarvis has been visiting hospitals and churches promoting what he calls the Jarvis Rehabilitation Method. It’s a post-hospitalization plan designed to help survivors deal with TBI and regain their cognitive skills after a brain injury.

“It gives you a plan to improve when you go home,” Jarvis said.
In his method, Jarvis emphasizes the importance of positive attitudes and trusting God.

One Bible verse that continually inspires him is Hebrews 13:5-6 which says: “Never will I leave you; never will I forsake you.’ So we say with confidence, ‘The Lord is my helper; I will not be afraid. What can mere mortals do to me?’” Jarvis says this verse tells him God will never leave him no matter what problems he faces.

“My faith has really given me the incentive and motivation to improve and also to be assured I’m going to keep improving,” Jarvis said. “I always said I know God is going to take care of me because he always has—even with my problems.”

Along with creating the Jarvis Rehabilitation Method, Jarvis has written three books relating to his brain injury: Snail to the Finish-Leaning on Faith: How to Get Through Adversity with Maximum Success; Improving Life-Harvesting the Fruit of the Spirit; and Finding Peace. Jarvis illustrated each book with original oil paintings.

In 2010, the Brain Injury Association of Indiana awarded Jarvis the Perseverance Award for his “courage, hard work, optimistic outlook and dedication to recovery.”

Now his method is on the Lash and Associates Publishing website for brain injury information, and he speaks at hospitals and churches around the country.

“I always say no matter what happens and how severe it is, keep going forward and have faith that God will take care of you,” Jarvis said.

After the transition in 1992 from Summit Christian College to TUFW, the Music Education program was moved to Taylor University, Upland, Ind.

Many other professors contributed to the ongoing instruction and curriculum during the TUFW era. Following is a partial list of teaching faculty who impacted the lives of students from 1992 to 2009: Dr. Etta Miller, Dr. Marilyn Stepnowski, Lois Webster, Rebecca Moore, Dr. William Jarvis, Quinn White g87, Rebecca Shearer, Jennifer Manth, Mary Lowry, Anita Lane, and Amy Settle.

TUFW also began strategic relationships with Indian Village Elementary School and Harrison Hill, where TUFW students would be taken in a van for their Methods classes, which were taught in the area schools.

Education has continued to change and evolve through the years with even greater expectations and accountability. The Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center celebrates those who have embraced the changes while still loving the children despite the mountain of paperwork. The classroom continues to be a mission field no matter if public, private, Christian or home school. Fort Wayne loves our teachers!
FW Celebrates! 2012
Alumni return to campus

By Michael D. Mortensen g91

Fort Wayne Celebrates! held September 28 & 29, 2012, in the Eicher Student Commons, the Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center, Ramseyer Hall, and Hall’s Restaurant welcomed alumni and friends for a special weekend.

Dr. Jay Kesler, president Emeritus of Taylor University, brought the chapel message, which was followed by plenty of time for singing, socializing and reminiscing – especially for the Class of 1962, celebrating its 50th Reunion.

On Saturday, Professional Writing majors with Dr. Dennis Hensley ha08 and Social Work majors and Michele (Mallett) Wells ha09 met together for reunions.

Plans are underway for reunions for the classes of 1963 and 1973 on September 14 and 15, 2013. Plans are also forming for the class of 2003 to have its 10th reunion this summer most likely the last weekend of June or the first weekend in July. The class of 1988 may also have a 25th reunion during this year, so stay tuned to the FW Falcon.
Although Dr. Wes Gerig has retired with 51 years of service on the Fort Wayne campus, he’s not ready to hang up his teaching hat just yet. These days, his teaching comes in the form of literature.

His newest book is Lessons From Life For Life: From the Old Testament, a collection of lessons that are based on more than 168 Old Testament passages and 180 topics.

“I’ve heard so many sermons that were impractical -- there was nothing to help me with my life today,” he said of why he decided to write the book. “[I wanted] to help pastors, Sunday school teachers, parents, and group leaders take and apply the Scripture, not just tell it.”

He also referenced 1 Corinthians 10:6, 11, which talks about the Old Testament stories, as his inspiration: “Now these things occurred as examples to keep us from setting our hearts on evil things as they did...These things happened to them as examples and were written down as warnings for us, on whom the culmination of the ages has come.”

His book includes between 5 and 15 “Lessons for Life” that coincide with each Bible passage. The lessons also are organized in a topical index, making it easy for Christians to find the practical application.

Lessons is Dr. Wes’ fourth book to be published through the Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center. He and his son Jeff Gerig g84 have compiled and self-published a few of Dr. Wes’ other books as well.

“Publishing Dr. Wes’ books provides our alumni another way to connect with God, which fits in our mission to care, connect, and celebrate,” Michael D. Mortensen g91, director of FW Alumni & Friend Relations, said.

Dr. Wes is now working on publishing a book of 79 of his sermons from Genesis and a second volume to Lessons From Life For Life, which will be focused on the New Testament.

Editor’s note: More current News & Notes are added weekly on our new website: fw.taylor.edu. Alumni and friends can send for our review and posting, and then they can be read by former classmates and friends. Check out this new feature today!
Interested in the latest FW campus alumni news or pictures? The FW Falcon, our monthly e-newsletter, flies generally once a month to nearly 3,000 email addresses of Fort Wayne campus alumni and friends.

Are you receiving it?

It’s a short read with plenty of pictures and links to what takes place at the Resource Center and in the lives of our alumni. It provides the latest news and features and includes a special column entitled, “Along Rudisill….”

Give us your email address, and we will make sure you don’t miss another “flight.”
The Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center is putting together a three to five year plan, and we are looking for your feedback on our mission and ministry now and for the future.

This is a two-part process:

1. We are reflecting on our first three years. What has been accomplished? Who has engaged in our mission to care, connect and celebrate? How much interest is there in having the Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center and how has it been supported with time, talent and treasure?

2. We are developing a three to five year strategic plan, as we believe there are alumni with whom we have not connected or who do not fully understand our purpose.

Here is where we need your help. If you live in Fort Wayne, would you be willing to come to the Resource Center for a focused time to give your feedback with others? If you live outside of Fort Wayne, it is our hope to have similar times for you to assemble together to give feedback. We will try to come to you in person or through modern technology. We will NOT ask for funds at these sessions.

Are you “in” to help us? Please email alumnifw@taylor.edu if you would be willing to “Share YOUR Voice” or host a time together.
