The summer is generally a change of pace. School is out, families take vacations and friends and neighbors visit through fences and on porches. This has been an exciting summer, as the renovations to the new Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center have been completed, and we are finally feeling “at home.”

Those who have dropped in have remarked how much they appreciate the Resource Center. Two recently said, “It looks better than I imagined.” I can only thank Stephen Olson TUU98, Ted Tiernon fs73 and John Reusser from Taylor for their resources and skills to have our new house remodeled. I also owe a huge debt of gratitude to multiple volunteers who packed and unpacked, especially Kari Reynolds g99, Bev Reynolds fs74, Bill g61 and Joyce Gerig fs61 and the Taylor University Alumni Office.

Now that we have relocated, you are invited to visit or schedule a half day, full day or week to use the Ramseyer Retreat Room to “Dwell Deep” as J.E. Ramseyer wrote. Our staff of volunteers will provide you a quiet place to work, pray, study or meditate. Depending on your desires and needs, we can provide you “with a cup of cold water,” a soda, a snack or even lunch.

For other gatherings of friends or classmates, the offer stands for you as well. We have a new gas grill, picnic tables and a fully equipped kitchen complete with a dishwasher to host your gathering or reunion. To reserve your time, please email alumnifw@taylor.edu or call 260.744.8790. We would love to host you!

Grateful for “the Vine,”

Michael D. Mortensen g91
Director of Fort Wayne Alumni & Friend Relations

P.S. Hope to see many of you “seniors” at our “Seniors’ Extravaganza” August 27 and 28!

Alumni News & Notes
Updates and announcements from fellow alumni.
He may be 98 years old, but that doesn’t stop Cyril Eicher FWBC ’32 from volunteering at the Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center. The beloved former dean of the college spent 1,226.5 hours in the past three years, looking at old news clippings and photos, and identifying individuals or events.

In fact, Dean Eicher was one of 55 Fort Wayne alumni and friends who, during the last year, donated 3,086 hours working at the center.

Monday through Friday, these volunteers answer telephones, identify photos and give tours of the Center. Others scan photos, videos or audio performances that will be placed in “the Vault” on our developing Fort Wayne website. Yet even more serve as prayer warriors.

During the past fiscal year, Kari Reynolds ’99 led all volunteers with 409.5 hours – over and above the 10-15 hours a week she serves as a paid staff member and serving as a teacher in the Fort Wayne Community Schools. Dr. Jay Platte ’69, faculty emeritus, was second with 394.5 hours.

Others who have also given 50 or more hours include:

- Jackie Carl ’53 – 343.5 hours
- John Garner ’69 – 204.25 hours
- Joyce Gerig ’61 – 174 hours
- Bill Gerig ’61 – 166.75 hours
- Violet Ringenberg ’45 – 152 hours
- Dick Baxter ’70 – 126 hours
- Gerald Ringenberg ’45 – 107.5 hours
- Larry Heidelberg ’67 – 95 hours
- Mary Weidner ’59 – 66.25 hours
- Joy Gerig ’52 & ’66 – 57.75 hours
- Tui Bedwell ’97 – 50 hours

Our volunteers are the heartbeat of the Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center and whether you can give an hour or two a week, a month or just occasionally, there is an opportunity to serve – either here in person or from your home.

If you would like to volunteer, please email Kari Reynolds at krreymonds@taylor.edu or call 260.744.8790.
When we decided to spend our vacation volunteering at the Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center, we had no idea just how great an adventure and blessing the week would be. Initially Joe and I were not sure the Resource Center would be interested in having more people around the office, but the idea was enthusiastically accepted and encouraged – which increased our excitement and anticipation to make the seven-hour drive to Fort Wayne.

We scanned photos and former Fort Wayne Bible College publications, reviewed slides and pictures, sorted and did some research for my Class of 1961 50th reunion, which will be held in Fort Wayne, September 23-24, 2011.

We also dug holes (a bunch of them) and planted flowers. But meeting Michael Mortensen ’91 and the wonderful volunteers working at the Center gave us an entirely new perspective of the ministry. We met Kari (Reynolds) ’99, whose grandpa is Eddie Reynolds, former maintenance director, and Dr. Jay Platte ’69. Kari serves as the part-time secretary and the volunteer coordinator and Jay is the volunteer alumni archive coordinator.

This gave us an opportunity to once again be part of FWBC. My years at FWBC were such a wonderful time of my life. Being there on Rudisill Boulevard, in the midst of the campus, was like being home. What wonderful memories we shared as we went through those old records and photos.

Michael, Jay and Kari, we appreciate your hospitality, your love for the school, for its alumni, for the school’s heritage and most of all, your love for our Lord. You gave us a special week of remembrance and fellowship, along with the opportunity to help ensure the legacy of FWBC will not be lost to future generations.

We assume the work will not be done by next summer, so please keep the refrigerator stocked. We will see you then!
The Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center hosted the Fort Wayne Retiree & Loyal Servants for a special lunch reunion to thank them for their service, give them an update on the students who transitioned from Fort Wayne to Upland and update them on upcoming activities planned in the Resource Center.

About 30 former faculty and staff members gathered at Brown Gables for a luncheon served by volunteers from the Taylor University Alumni Office. Brent Rudin, ’94, associate vice president for alumni and parent relations, and John Garner ’69 served as valets while Sharon Campbell and Amanda Schaffer ’02 assisted Rosemary La Rue in serving and clean-up.

Deb (Lehman) Shaw ’80 played a few selections on Dr. Ira Gerig’s Steinway piano and Sherri Harter ’01, associate vice president for development and former TUFW employee, and Michael Mortensen ’91, director of Fort Wayne alumni & friend relations, gave updates.
Dr. Ira Gerig’s beloved Steinway piano and dozens of Fort Wayne Bible College, Summit Christian College and Taylor University Fort Wayne yearbooks, heirlooms and memorabilia now reside at new, and familiar address. The Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center has moved to the Lillian Rolf Home at 915 W. Rudisill Blvd., a location that stands a mere 20 feet east of Witmer Hall.

Miss Rolf’s family was well-known in Fort Wayne as the original owners of Rolf Heating and Air Conditioning – a Fort Wayne institution. Miss Rolf was also a longtime teacher in the Fort Wayne Community Schools. After her death in 2003, TUFW officials purchased her home and used it first as a small women’s dormitory and later as a residence for the residence life program director.

Dr. Gerig’s Steinway now resides in a special studio in The Rolf Home. The rest of the Resource Center features sitting areas, a meeting space and a fully stocked kitchen. Also housed there is the Ramseyer Retreat Room along with a media room where yearbooks and photos can be scanned. The office for the director of Fort Wayne Alumni & Friend Relations is also there.

The resources of the Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center are free to all Fort Wayne Bible College, Summit Christian College and TUFW alumni and friends. It’s a great place to host reunions and meetings or to reminisce while looking through photos, yearbooks and videos. Visitors are always welcome, but to make certain a volunteer or staff member will be on hand, please call ahead. The telephone number is 260.744.8790.
Transitions 101
Former TUFW Students Flourish at Taylor
By Nathan Marchand g06

One-hundred-one former TUFW students say that while it took some getting used to, the transition from the former Fort Wayne campus to Taylor University in Upland has been a good one.

“I was concerned about how I would be received both on my wing and on campus being a senior in a different school,” Joel Lange, TUg10, explained. “I was pleasantly surprised, though. From the first weekend when all of us went on our wing retreat, I was able to connect with other seniors on the wing and really got to know a few of them very well over the course of the year.”

“[God] taught me that everything really does happen for good. Light comes from darkness eventually, it’s just a matter of waiting and trusting,” said Peter Semple, TUg10.

“There were a lot of things to get used to,” said Hilary Fleischmann, TUg10. “I would say that the Lord used some people at Taylor to help the transition be easier. Of course there were obstacles, but through living on Third East Olson and making friendships on and off the wing, those obstacles [were] more of a joy to go through.”

Members of the Taylor administration reported that 40 percent of the former TUFW students made the Dean’s List as well as a positive impact on campus. “The [former TUFW students’] positive impact was felt both in and out of the classroom and in the breadth of diverse experiences these students shared with the campus community,” Steve Morley, Taylor’s associate dean of students and director of residence’s life, said.

Throughout this experience, the students realized they had misconceptions about Taylor Upland.

“I heard and thought all kinds of bad things about the university,” said Peter. “None of those things were entirely true. None of them were entirely false, either. Taylor was a place with many virtues and many problems, just like TUFW.”

“I honestly cannot compare TUFW and TU,” said Hilary. “I cannot say which one is better, because they both are the best in my opinion. Of course each campus has its faults, but if they didn’t, they wouldn’t be real.”

What would these students like their fellow alumni to know about the Upland campus?

“Taylor was truly inviting and had our best interests in mind when it came to our spiritual lives, our new relationships with Upland students, and our academic ambitions,” Caitlin Wilson, TUcs11, and daughter of Nancy Wilson, FWBCg83, said.

“There will never be any place like TUFW, but God is at Taylor, too,” Mindy Kreilein, TUcs11, concluded.

“When it comes down to the heart of it all, we’re still the same body of believers,” Joel said. “God is using this for his glory. It will just take time for the pieces to fall together, until we understand the entire picture of His plan.”

“Taylor is God’s instrument, as surely as our school was,” Peter related. “Pray for her.”

“I am so grateful that the Lord allowed me to have two completely different college experiences,” Hilary added, “and that he allowed me to be a Taylor Fort Wayne Falcon and a Taylor Trojan. I wouldn’t trade it for the world.”

A Poem and a Penny

By Michael D. Mortensen g91

It is a modern day widow’s mite if you will. Every two to four weeks, the Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center receives a penny or dime taped to a handwritten letter with a short story or poem.

Since September 2004, this special friend, we will call her “Karen,” has given 46 gifts totaling $4.08. It may not sound like much, but the sincere heart that motivates these gifts makes them priceless.

When Karen’s daughter Amanda enrolled at TUFW, the two were homeless – living between shelters or substandard housing in a bad neighborhood.

“Mom struggled with the people in her neighborhood,” Amanda remembered. “(Once,) she was robbed and left bleeding in an alley and had to crawl back to her house and call 911.”

A Christian couple took interest in Karen, getting her into a program that led to a better apartment in a safer neighborhood and just as important – self sufficiency. Amanda was able to attend school through government grants and loans and the generosity of alumni and friends.

After graduating in 2008 with a degree in Youth Ministries, Amanda went to work at an inner-city school in Indianapolis helping disadvantaged students, teaching art classes, and serving as a supervisor and personal tutor.

Today, Karen has an apartment where she has a table dedicated to writing encouraging letters and notes to people she meets every day.

In her latest letter, Karen wrote, “I got your two great receipts and very kind words. I really needed the encouragement. God says to look at the good things in people.”

She recently sent me a photograph of herself, which I have hung in my office, along with one of her many poems and pennies.

In December 2006, God brought a very special person into her life at a time when she needed a good friend. Roger McConnell, a man from her home church took the time and made the effort to get to know her as a person while she was serving in Africa. He patiently courted Olive from a distance and in March 2009 asked her to marry him. “I accepted with great joy,” Olive wrote. “He is a godly man and determined that we would not marry until God’s call on my life as a missionary was completed.” Olive and Roger were married August 7, 2010. Anderson serves in Jordan

Eric Anderson g05 recently returned from three months in Jordan. One of the most exciting times for him was when his group, a combination of Protestants and Catholics, received permission from the Jordanian government for a public Christmas display in a pedestrian shopping street. The team sang Christmas carols in Arabic and English and read scriptures in Arabic. Meanwhile, he was praying for the people who got their “first glimpse into the meaning of Christmas.” His team also taught English, participated in a four-day fast and ran a children’s program in a Palestinian refugee area.

To learn more about his experience or to hear Eric’s heart for gamers, he can be reached at un gabunga@netzero.net. His blog is http://realungabunga.xanga.com/.
