THOUGHT HE HAD HELLFIRE.

Old Gentleman Imagined He Was Getting Practical Lesson.

Dr. Talmage used to tell a story about an old presiding elder who had a great fondness for tobasco sauce. Not always able to get this on his travels through his district, he carried a bottle of it with him. This he always had placed on the table of the hotel where he stayed.

One day an old rustic sat opposite the venerable elder at dinner and helped himself freely to the compound. He got a big dose of it-in fact, it took some time for him to recover from the effects. When he did finally stop coughing long enough to talk, he glared at the elder and said: "I've heard lots of preachers preach about hell-fire, but you are the first I ever seen that carried it about with him."

Alabama's Advantages.

With the single exception of wheat growing Alabama is a better location for the small farmer than Kansas or Nebraska is. Both the climate and the soil are favorable, and men can work out doors all the year if necessary. Lands can yet be bought on reasonable terms and in South Alabama there are many thousands of acres where the timber has practically all been cut off. This land can hardly be excelled for vegetables, fruits and all of the grain crops except wheat, and recent experiments have shown that fair wheat crops can be grown. If all the advantages possessed by Alabama were properly made known to home seekers our state would get many thrifty and selfsustaining farmers who now flock to the better advertised West .-- Montgomery (Ala.) Jane Hading's Eyes.

It is said that Mme. Jane Hading has the loveliest eyes in the world. They are of the clearest and purest brown, like that of mountain brooks or wave-washed onyx, and veiled with a thick fringe of black and silky lashes. When touring in Turkey, Mr. Hading learned of the national custom of lengthening the elliptical space between the upper and lower lids by slitting the outer canthus about a tenth of an inch and stretching the lids as the wound heals, and afterward decided to try it on his little girl. The result has made Jane Hading's optics famous.

When the works now in progress are finished the emperor's palaces will have all the modern improvements on the American plan.

Mrs. J. Plerpont Morgan was "the cynosure of all eyes" at the recent election of the Colonial Dames at New York. Contrary to the expectations of those who did not know her it was found that she dresses simply and her cloth gown looked rusty. Her black hat was small and shapeless and a thick veil covered her face. The decision of the women who saw her was embraced in the word "frumpy." Mrs. Morgan's disposition is exceed-

Man Walks Many Miles.

It is safe to say that every man walks two miles a day, if only in stirring about his room or office. If a man lives to be thirty years old he will walk 21,900 miles. The man who believes in a daily constitutional of five miles will walk 54,750 miles. The circumference of the earth is 24,899 miles. Walking five miles a day, a man who has walked for thirty years will walk around the globe twice, and have a few thousand odd miles to his credit.

Without waiting for an answer he slipped inside the door, took off his coat and hat, and sat down in an easy chair in the parlor. "I am very sorry," said Mr. B., "but I am afraid that I cannot meet it just at present."

"Oh, there's no hurry," said the col-"I can wait awhile," and he settled back in the chair and resumed reading the paper.

Mr. B. looked at him in surprise, and after a minute's thought said: "Really, it is dinner time and I am quite hungry. You must excuse me.'

"Why, certainly," was the reply. "I am a little hungry myself. I don't mind eating dinner with you at all," and before the astonished man could reply he was through the door and inquiring where his seat would be. Mr. B. did not know what to do, but he was polite and made a place for him. They ate dinner and had a cold bottle after it and by that time it was growing late. They talked of the weather and one thing and another and in time the clock struck 10 and Mr. B. began to be worried. As a last resource he remarked:

"It is time that I should retire. While your company has not been anticipated it has been enjoyable. I hope that you will call again."

But the young man was not feazed. He calmly replied: "I have been pleasantly entertained, Mr. B. Now, if you will show me my room, I shall retire

Mr. B. glared at the intruder. That person simply sat and smoked his after-dinner cigar and looked at peace with the world. This state of affairs continued until early in the morning, when Mr. B. lost all control of himself, pulled out his checkbook, wrote a check for the amount of the bill and threw it to the young man.

Nicknames of Prominent Men. Nearly every prominent man of title in England has a nickname and some of these cognomens are a trifle odd. For instance, Sir Michael Herbert, British minister to Washington, is known as "Mungo," just why does not seem to be clearly known; the duke of Westminster is called "Bend-Or," which was a Derby winner owned by his grandfather; the duke of Marlborough is "Sunny," from Sunderland, one of his many second titles, and Lord Granville Gordon has all his life answered to the name of "Granny."

A Lyric.

How fair it is, the world around,

The changing life, each day's surprise,

To see the stars, the land, the sea,

To look into your eyes.

To hear the ecstasy of morn,
The birds in field and wood rejoice.
The madrigals of wind and trees,
To listen to your voice.

To feel the warm, firm, throbbing life, The friendly hands our fingers press, The strong, true work in which we share,

How fair it is, the world around,
How wonderful and sweet the past,
That knows its ecstasy and work,
That knows your loving heart.

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary medical treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by derangement of the female organization. ism, and which, while it causes dis-turbance similar to ordinary indiges-tion, cannot be relieved without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has peculiar uterinetonic effects as well.

Thousands of testimonial letters prove beyond question that nothing will relieve this distressing condition so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com-

The Hardy Catalpa.

Wm. L. Hall: Hardy Catalpa makes its best growth on very rich, deep soil. In the Farlington forest the best returns on the best soil are almost five times as great as on the poorest. Grown in pure stand, the Catalpa should be protected from the wind by shelter belts of taller trees. A thin belt of cottonwood on the windward side of a plantation will protect the edge trees and allow them to make much taller and straighter growth; even an Osage orange hedge, though not growing so tall, will generally protect them. It is much cheaper for the planter to grow his trees from seed than to buy them from a nursery, if a large number are to be planted. In the Munger plantation the cost of trees grown on the farm was 50 cents per thousand, while those from a nursery, with freight, cost about $4 per thousand. The cost of establishing the Yaggy plantation with home-grown trees, including cutting back and two years' tillage, was $11.70 per acre; the cost of establishing the Farlington forest by contract, including the same amount of tillage, but no cutting back, was $30 per acre.

The proper spacing used in planting is from 4 by 4 to 4 by 6 feet. The Catalpa planter who sets his trees thinly upon the ground will find them growing with spreading tops in spite of his most careful efforts to prevent it. The most important advantage of close planting for the Catalpa is that it kills the lateral branches while young. If the lateral branches die before becoming more than one-half inch in diameter, they are easily pushed off by the tree and do no damage; but if they reach a larger size than this, as they are sure to do in thin planting, they cling to the tree for years, even after they die. The development of large side branches unfits the Catalpa for practical use. While the stand may become so dense as finally to shade them out, they cling with such persistence to the growing trunk that it can not cast them off. New wood is deposited around the dead branches, but does not unite with them. The holes thus formed lead straight into the heart of the tree, and the angle of the branches is just right to conduct water and germs of decay into the trunk. When the branch is finally released it leaves a great hole leading to the decayed heart of the tree. The tree thus ruined sooner or later breaks down a complete loss. Cutting back the young trees after two or three seasons, so as to develop a single sprout from the stamp, greatly hastens height growth and prevents low side

From the standpoint of both the consumer and producer, the battle with insects is a serious one. The man in the city may not even know of the existence of the predatory insects, but he has to pay for what they have eaten in the larger price for farm products. So, unwittingly, the consumer is paying cash board for all the insects that prey upon farm crops. So all are interested in the outcome of the battle. Could all destructive insects and fungi be eliminated, the cost of all kinds of fruits and vegetables would be very much lower than they are at the present time. The producer would be a direct and the consumer an indirect gainer from this. Few stop to consider the immense losses caused by insects. Thus, in a recent report on cotton in 69 counties of Texas Prof. F. W. Mally estimates the loss from the cotton boll weevil to have been over $8,000,000. The boll worm caused a further loss of nearly $5,000,000. In 1901 the loss due to the boll warm that year was placed at 15 per cent of the crop, or over $26,000,000. This is for one crop in one state. The loss to the cotton crop of the country that year was put at $35,000,000. But when we consider the losses in all the states and among all crops it becomes a matter of hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

The efforts of the horticulturist to check insect invasions are therefore of the greatest importance. At the present time it is a scattered fight with uncertain results. As intelligence increases, however, the battle will become more orderly and the attack better directed. Ultimately the fruit grower will win and his insect foes will be well nigh annihilated. In some of the sections of Europe that were once infested by mosquitoes the draining of the land and its general occupancy for farming purposes has well nigh banished that insect. Its breeding places have been closed to it. We may expect to see the same thing occur with many of our most destructive insects. Their breeding places will be broken up and their hiding places destroyed. This will be a long step in the direction of final extirpation.

Corn Meal Mush.

From Farmers' Review: To make good mush, the water should be boiling hard when the meal is stirred in. If it stops boiling, put in no more meal until it boils hard again. Do not make it too thick as it will stiffen up in cooling. A handful of oatmeal or flour will improve the flavor. It makes a very healthful supper dish for children and elderly people. We eat too much rich food at supper time. If we would eat more simple food we would live land in California; fine wheat land in Trego and adjoining counties in Kansas. WHEN GIRLISH BEAUTY GLOWS. 66

The Summer Girl Is the Acknowledged Belle of All Seasons.

The summer girl should be the pretiest of all the year.

Winter has its girls, with her glowng cheeks and sparkling eyes, and spring has its own girl, with the arbutus tints and the violet glow; and April has its girl; and May and June, with the rose colors-all have their own.

But lovelier than all should be the summer girl. For her there must be eyes as clear as the sea, cheeks as oink as the shells that lie on the shore; lips as ripe as the summer perries, and a forehead as softly toned as the cream of the country girl's milking pail, and a figure that might be a composite of all the graces and all the nymphs.

The summer girl must have olemishes. Though exposed to the sun all day, she must have no tan; though in the wind from morning unil night, she must show no freckles; though she dances from night until morning, she must never display a wrinkle; though she swings the clubs and bowls and play croquet, tennis, and what-not, she must have fair, soft, white hands, a perfectly molded figure, and be coiffured from morning until night and from night until morning in the most approved style.

It is like playing with fire, the summer campaign of the summer girl. Though exposed to the scorching rays, she must not show that she feels them; though in every way tempted of the elements and enduring their rigors, she must show no outward vislble evidence that they are bothering Oldest Family in the World.

"The oldest family in the world ives in Bell county, Kentucky," said B. F. Creech, a prominent merchant of Four Mile, who is here buying goods for the spring trade. "I do not mean that they have the longest pedigree, but that they have been here a long time, and have a family history that is perhaps the most unique in he world. Lewis Green is 93 years old, his wife, Virginia Green, is 92 rears old. They were married seventy-three years ago, and went to live on a farm at the mouth of Bingham's creek, in a bend of the Cumberland river. They are still living in the same house to which they went as pridegroom and bride three quarters of a century ago. They have ten chiliren, the youngest is now 43, and there has never been a death in the lamily. All of which makes me beieve that Bell county is the healthiest place on the face of the globe. The Greens live about ten miles from Pineville."-Louisville Courier-Journal.

PE-RU-NA SAVED MY LIFE," Writes Mrs. W. McRoberts.

Women Made Strong and Happy Mothers.

Catarrh of the Pelvic Organs is a Frequent Cause of Barrenness.

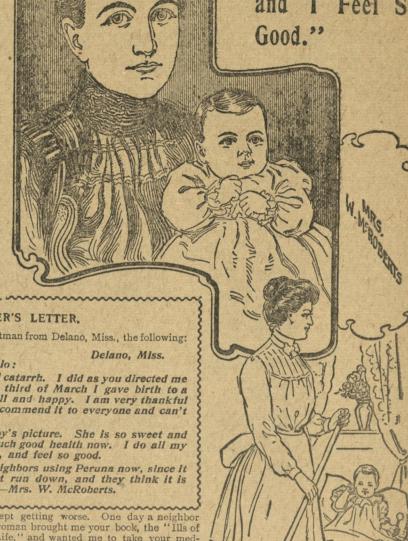

Pe-ru-na Eradicates Catarrh From the System.

O the woman of ancient Israel not to become a mother was regarded as the greatest of earthly calamities. To become a mother-more especially the mother of a strong, healthy boy—was the height of glory for the faithful woman of the good old Bible days. Even now, when maternity is not esteemed as of yore, the mother of healthy children is an object of ad miration, and sometimes envy, by her neighbors. As compared with ancient neighbors. As compared with ancient peoples, the average American woman has a low appreciation of motherhood. There are, however, a great many exceptions to this statement.

women who have been made strong, healthy and happy mothers need no added words of ours to make them convincing. Catarrh had weakened and impaired their entire systems. Peruna made them sound and well.

A YOUNG MOTHER'S LETTER.

Mrs. W. McRoberts, writes to Dr. Hartman from Delano, Miss., the following:

Doctor S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:

Dear Sir:--"I feel perfectly well of catarrh. I did as you directed me to and took Peruna and Manalin. The third of March I gave birth to a 10-pound baby girl and we are both well and happy. I am very thankful to you, and Peruna saved my life. I recommend it to everyone and can't praise it enough.

"I send you my own and my baby's picture. She is so sweet and good, —she is a Peruna baby. I have such good health now. I do all my housework and take care of my baby, and feel so good.

I can not tell you all. My letter is too long already; but I will say Peruna cured me. I never saw or heard of anything half so good. I can never thank you enough for your kindness. In cases of la grippe it works like a charm. It cured my baby when other medicines failed. She was real bad with la grippe."-Mrs. L. M. Griffith.

Mrs. E. E. Thomas, Alpha, Mo., writes:

I gave birth to a 10-pound baby girl. She is now six months old and weighs 25 pounds.

My friends were all surprised. Some would not believe it until they came to see me.
