PARTY
Helen Jeffrey was a clever hostess at a masquerade party given at her home last Monday evening. Those present were: Misses Marie Stout, Helen Bradley, Mabel Clark, Grace King, Aline Reasoner, Irene Plummins, Messrs. Max Hobbs, Everett Woods, Howard Carroll, Ernest Wilkins, Glen Wilkins, Harold Seelig, Fred Wilson, Ivan Bodkins and Clyde Snyder.

Chas. Taylor, a factory employee, coming here from Petersburg, agreed to leave town last week providing no charges against him would be filed. Taylor and Henry McCoy quarreled and then fought. McCoy was "beat up" something fierce, it requiring medical aid to give him relief from several gashes about his head.
Paul McVicker was among those from here going to Indianapolis Saturday where he witnessed the Indiana Tuffs foot ball game.
O. E. Atkinson paid a fine of $10.55 before squire Hamilton Monday evening. He pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery on Roscoe Fleming.
E. M. Loy left Tuesday evening for a visit with his mother at Sante Fe. She is in a very poor state of health and is not expected to long survive.

Will is Probated

The will of the late Elihu J. Oren, who for many years was a prominent citizen of eastern Grant county, yesterday was admitted to probate in the circuit court. To a son, Jasper Oren, is willed $1,000. The widow, Mary Oren, is to have the rents and profits from all the real estate. To the children, Otto, Jasper, James E., Bruce C., Fletcher H., Warren and Charles Oren, Mrs. Bertha Atkinson and Mrs. Estella Atkinson the sum of $800 each is given. Afterward all to share alike in the residue of the estate, real and personal. Jasper Oren is named executor of the will. The instrument is dated Feb. 20, 1916, and was signed by Alfred Pugh and Ernest G. Zimmer as witnesses.

S. S. Convention

At Matthews a Great Success
The Convention at Matthews last Wednesday, Oct. 25, was probably the best Sunday School Convention held in Jefferson Township for many years. The reports of the township officers in the forenoon showed that all departments of the Sunday School are taking on new life and vigor in more or less marked degree. The Library Committee reported a total of nearly $50 raised for the new Circulating Library, besides the many books that have been donated. At least three schools in the township have given over $10 each, viz., Jefferson, Union and Matthews Presbyterian; the other schools have all contributed amounts ranging from $2.00 to $5.00 or $6.00. Each section will contain from 12 to 15 books when put out about Nov. 1st, to 5th.
In the afternoon the series of "six-minute talks" were listened to with the greatest interest. Every one was worth while and delivered from the heart of the speaker. Only one speaker was permitted to exceed the six-minute limit—Mr. Byall of the Matthews Pres. S. S., and Vice-pres. of the township, gave such a good explanation of "Graded Work" that the assembly gave him special permission by vote to finish his speech without interruption.
Rev. Creman's address in the evening was most helpful and inspiring and a good crowd was out to hear it. Special features which added interest were afforded by B. R. Pogue, Reader, Miss Clarice Phillips, Pianist, and F. L. Pratt, Song Leader, all from Taylor University. Their performances afforded a real treat for the convention folks. Where next? Is the question now. No doubt the spring convention will be still better on account of the success of this one.
John Kilgore and his sister-in-law arrived here from Kansas last Friday. Mr. Kilgore expects to go back in about three weeks. He says there was plenty of wheat there but no corn.

Masquerade Party

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Nelson entertained a number of friends at a Halloween party Thursday evening Oct. 26. The house was prettily decorated with corn stalks, autumn leaves and pumpkin faces. Refreshments were served consisting of sandwiches, pickles, pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee. Those who enjoyed the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Broderick, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Balsley, Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson, Dr. Gravelle and wife, Ed Turner, Dr. E. C. Williamson, Warren Oren, Miss Nellie Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Bedwell, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Keever, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Strange, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Tudor, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Bunker, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Lightle, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Nelson, Mrs. LeVina Lightle, Mrs. Pearl Hallam, Jason Nelson, Miss Rose Nelson of Marion, Ray Tudor, Theodore Hallam, Alta and Ona Lightle, Harry Hunt, Marie Pence, Uvon and Harold Johnson.

Training Class Organized

Last Monday night a number of people interested in Sunday School work gathered at the Methodist parsonage to organize a union Teacher Training Class. The meeting was brought about through the efforts of Mr. Clair Hunt, the Township Supt. of Teacher Training. Rev. F. H. Creman was chosen teacher and the text to be used is "Preparation for Teaching" by Oliver. The class will meet every Monday night at 7:30 o'clock. A committee consisting of Rev. C. C. Holliday, Elzona Myers and Ira Knight was appointed to secure a permanent meeting place. The next meeting will be at the Methodist parsonage again. Nineteen members enrolled Monday night. Any who wish to join the class should do so at once as no one will be permitted to join the class after Nov. 13th. Mr. Ira Knight was elected president of the class and Miss Ruby Beuoy, secretary-treasurer. Each member will pay 5c a month dues (50c for the year if paid at the time of enrollment) in order to provide sufficient funds to purchase maps, charts, blackboard and such other apparatus as may be found needful. It is possible that a second class may be started if many more show a desire to take up the work.
Those enrolled Monday night were: C. C. Holliday, Mrs. Edith Holliday, Mrs. Lida Outland, Miss Ruby Beuoy, Mrs. Ella Stanley, W. E. Yeater, Elzona Myers, E. C. Hunt, Mrs. Nellie Hunt, Mrs. Sallie Bugher, Mrs. Bertha Knight, Mrs. Ida Allen, Mrs. Jackson Stewart, Miss Ethel Hodson, Miss Geneva Horn, Mrs. F. H. Creman, Miss Myrtle McCutcheon, I. E. Knight, Clinton Stanley.

MASQUERADE

The Upland Literary Society held a masquerade party in their club room last Tuesday evening, there being over fifty invited guests present. The room was dressed in halloween colors, and gave a good appearance of the autumn season. Music, readings and games were made the diversion of the evening. Prizes were won by Prof. Westlake, Miss Davis, Miss Davis, Miss Cain, Mr. Miller and Prof. Beard, all of Taylor University. Refreshments of pumpkin pie, doughnuts and apples were well taken care of.

Miss Blanche Harshbarger of Fairmount was an over Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Johnson and family.

ARCANA

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Himelick and child ren, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Knight were Sunday guests of B. H. Stephens and family. Several from here attended the dairy lecture by Otis Crane at the Gas City Public Library Friday evening. Mrs. Theo. Trout isn't so well. The Country Social Club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Theo. Trout. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. King and family entertained Sunday Mr. and Mrs. John Pierce and son William, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Ferguson, and daughters Blanche and Berpie of Upland, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Simons and children, Mrs. Oscar Fleming and daughter Edna and Fay Fleming. DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

WOODCOCKS MOVE.

"Now Mrs. Woodcock," said Father Woodcock, "we must be off this evening. We're very late in moving—we must have another home. You look tired and the Children all look as if they needed a change."

Father Woodcock.

Children will be so sleepy if we travel at night, and in the morning they're wide awake—the little Dears." And Mrs. Woodcock smoothed her feathers, thinking about her fine brood of young birds.

"Because," continued Father Woodcock, "it's very dangerous for us to travel by day. Don't you know that the Hawk will catch us if we go when it is light?"

"Oh dear," screamed Mrs. Woodcock as she shivered with fear, and the young Woodcocks who were having their afternoon naps in the Nest, moved a little in their sleep as if they had all had a bad dream.

"I hate to talk about the Hawk, Mrs. Woodcock," said Father Woodcock. "But in the daytime he is on the look-out for birds with short, rounded wings such as we have. He knows that once he sees us, we can't escape. So be ready, won't you, Mrs. Woodcock?"

"Flutter, flutter," whispered Mrs. Woodcock softly as she awakened her brood. "Daddy says we must be off. Hurry, get up." And the sleepy little birds shook their wings and said,

"U-r-r-h, Mother, we'll fly too."

"We're all ready," said Mrs. Woodcock, as she looked proudly at her children who were now perched on the Branch of the Tree where their home had been.

"Wait for Mr. Sun to go to bed," said Father Woodcock. "Then we'll start off. I want to be sure he is asleep—for he's so bright the old Hawk would surely see us if we went while any of his rays were spread over the Earth and the Sky."

It was not long before the Sun became very red and soon he began to drop a little to one side. He peeped over the side of a hill, and said to himself, "Ah, it looks very fine over there. What a wonderful bed I have. I am so glad to go to sleep!"

And when the Woodcocks looked again for Mr. Sun, he had vanished.

"Now, let us be off," said Father Woodcock. All night they traveled through the Woods where it was so dark no creature could have seen them.

"The Snipe family were moving today," said Mrs. Woodcock.

"Yes," said Father Woodcock. "They are Lucky—their wings are so made that they can get out of the cruel clutches of the Hawk."

"And so are you Lucky," said a Voice very softly.

"What was that, Mrs. Woodcock? Did you speak?"

"No, Father Woodcock, I thought perhaps you did. What could it have been?"

"It's I, one of the Night Fairies," said the Voice. "I'm so dark you can't see me, but I'll fly along with you. There! You can have a glimpse of me!"

"And as she said that, she waved her Wand. From far and near little Lightning Bugs hopped on her Wand, her Crown, her long black hair, her Dress and Wings of dark, dark blue. So the Woodcocks could see her perfectly."

"You are Lucky," continued the Night Fairy, "because while the Snipe family can travel by day, you can be looked after by the dark Clouds at night and by the night Shadows. The Hawk will not get you when you travel this way."

"That's right," said Father Woodcock, "we are Lucky—for we always know enough to travel when it is safe. It was our great, great, great Grandfather who found that out—the very earliest Woodcock of all—though maybe I have not said enough 'Great's,'" and Father Woodcock looked very much puzzled.

"No matter," said Mrs. Woodcock, "but we must thank the little Night Fairy," and as they fluttered and twittered their Thanks, the Night Fairy left them—and the Dawn Fairies began to appear just as Father Woodcock had found a lovely new home in a quiet, shady nook which delighted his whole family!

Inconsiderate.

"What is the matter with your old cat?" asked the visitor. "She looks disconsolate these days."

"Father hurt her feelings dreadfully," replied the little daughter of the house. "He brought home a mouse-trap last week, although I told him not to. Cats has got their feelings same as anybody else."

1,100 Slain By Trains in Year Because They Look But Do Not Stop and Listen

By GEORGE K. ANDREWS
Commissioner of Agriculture, Missouri Pacific Railroad

A woman who was driving on a country road concluded that she had plenty of time in which to cross the track in front of an approaching train; so she whipped up her horse, to make sure, and got on the crossing just as the train swept over it—and her. A man in an automobile in a town, through a like mistake of judgment, met with the like result. Yet both were ordinarily careful persons and of perhaps rather more than average intelligence.

In each case the train was in plain view a quarter of a mile away and the whistle was sounded repeatedly. They were not allowed to overlook the train's approach; they knew it was coming. But they were so absolutely convinced that they could get across in ample time that they persisted until it was too late to stop.

More than 1,100 persons were killed in this way on American roads last year. They look, but they do not stop and listen. They were not killed because they didn't see the train coming, but because they did see it. This is what happens in nearly all such cases. The person looks at the train and quickly makes up his mind what to do. The train is a quarter of a mile away, and the person is one-tenth that distance from the track or 132 feet. Therefore the train is passing across his line of vision at a very sharp V-shaped angle. Consider this for a moment. If you stand in the track facing an approaching train it seems to be standing still except for the smoke. Move off from the track 132 feet and the train going 50 miles an hour will move up apparently at the rate of five miles an hour.

Of course this apparent speed rapidly approximates the actual speed as the train draws nearer, but to the unthinking and inexperienced person who merely glances at it, the impression received is apt to be five miles an hour. That this is at the bottom of most crossing accidents is evident when it is considered that by far the most of them occur on a straight track and where the train is in plain sight. The person that cannot see a train listens, but the person who can see it does not listen and sees wrong.

The simple problems of apparent and actual speeds of approaching trains at various angles of vision and speeds and distances should be printed in all school arithmetics and taught and illustrated in all schools so that the coming generation of men not only may be forewarned and forearmed, but may go home in the evening and forewarn and forearm the present one.

Creation of Tariff Commission By Congress Result of Popular Demand

By H. H. GROSS
President of the Tariff Commission League

After eighteen months of strenuous campaigning for a permanent, nonpartisan tariff commission, during which we succeeded in securing the support of over seven hundred organizations, representing every phase of activity, with a membership of over six millions of voters, nearly half of which was represented by agricultural organizations, our efforts were crowned with success. The demand to "take the tariff out of politics" found a ready response everywhere. Ninety-two per cent of approximately two thousand publications to which the plan was submitted approved it and gave it strong support. Popular demand was so great and the need for such a body so obvious that the president came out in support of such a commission, and in June, for the first time in history, both of the leading political parties, in their respective platforms, indorsed the plan without qualification.

The Rainey tariff commission bill became a law September 8. If the president is fortunate in the selection of the commissioners, this legislation will make history. It will gradually destroy the tariff as a political issue, and such tariff changes as may be required from time to time will be made upon definite and authentic information instead of upon pull and guesswork. When the commission shall have gathered all the essential information upon the subject of tariff, analyzed, classified and indexed the same, and set it forth in plain English, the voters of the country, at the polls, will determine a permanent tariff policy, and the rates will be adjusted to it. This is what occurred in European countries after full information had been gathered, and it is what will occur here. This measure should prove a great piece of constructive legislation.

There is another feature: It is perhaps the best example of recent years of the people forcing legislation from congress. It shows conclusively that the people rule when they will to do so.

Federal Control Alone Can Prevent Exhaustion of Our Petroleum Supply

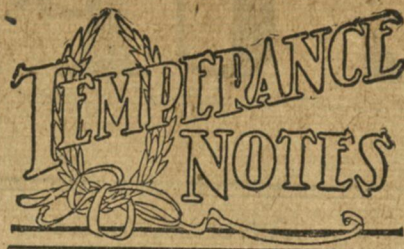

By JAMES K. McMANNUS, Petroleum Expert

The government and people of the United States are making a grave mistake by not paying more attention to the further development of its petroleum supply. I am convinced that unless the proper authorities take hold of this matter and institute radical changes from present methods the supply of this product will be exhausted within fifty years. I say this because during the last three decades motor vehicles and different grades of engines which use enormous quantities of petroleum annually have come into being, making petroleum and its products of the most vital importance from an industrial standpoint.

Then again, the development of our navy during the past year calls for almost an unlimited supply of petroleum, for which there is no substitute, as far as I know, and if this country is to be sincere in its advocacy of "a greater preparedness," it must adopt a vigorous and far-reaching policy of conserving its supply of petroleum. It is not only necessary that we have enough on hand for the present, but we should be prepared for the future.

The exhaustion of our petroleum supply would affect every home within our boundaries. Everyone uses it in one form or another. There is no line of business that does not demand the use of petroleum, and if the oil pools were to run dry tomorrow nearly every industrial wheel not only in this country but in the world, might cease to revolve.

The production of the world at present is about one million barrels a day. Nature cannot replenish this supply without the aid of conservation and active scientific study. It is possible that the world supply will be exhausted within the lifetime of our children, and there is no possible solution for such a contingency except federal control.

"LIQUID BREAD."

This true story about the "harmlessness" of beer is told by the Temperance society of the Methodist Episcopal church:

"Some time ago an advertisement asserting that 'beer is liquid bread' and a 'temperance drink' fell under the eye of a man who had never taken a drink in his life. He was a mechanic, making good wages. He had a wife and two children, owned his home, and was in every sense of the word a man of strong character and of worth to his country."

"The 'liquid bread,' 'temperance drink' converted him to the use of beer. In time he introduced it into his home."

"Some months later he returned home after an absence of three days. When he entered the house he was 'beer-drunk'—soggy, stupid, brutal with the brutality that delights in perverted forms of cruelty."

"When he entered the living room something angered him. It may have been the reproach he read in his wife's face. He knocked her down, went on into the bed room where he found his two children asleep, cut their throats, and when his wife, having recovered, entered the door and screamed, knocked her down again and crushed her skull, literally kicking out her brains."

"This man declared that he had never tasted anything but beer in his life. There is no reason to disbelieve him."

NOT A SQUARE DEAL.

A retired farmer of southern Nebraska moved into a village to spend the latter days of his life. Soon after he was solicited to sign a petition for a man who wanted to open a saloon. He refused to sign, and when asked for his reason replied that the town did not treat the saloonkeeper fairly.

The applicant for a license had heard many other reasons, but never having heard that one, he asked the man to explain.

The explanation was like this: "You want to start your saloon for the benefit of the town, don't you?" "Yes," replied the would-be saloonkeeper. "You think it will bring trade to the town and improve business, don't you?" "Yes," said the man who wanted the license. "Well," said the farmer, "if your saloon will help the town, draw trade, and improve business, they ought to give you a bounty instead of making you pay a high price for the privilege of starting a saloon."

LISTEN TO COMMON SENSE.

Does not common sense show you that you would be better off to buy the liquor and not drink it, than you would to buy the liquor and drink it? If you buy the liquor and don't drink it, the liquor man has the money, and you pay the license just the same and you have lost nothing except the money you have paid out for the liquor. It is true the money is gone and the liquor is gone; but if you buy the liquor and drink it, the money is gone, the liquor is gone, and the man is gone; hence, common sense says the liquor traffic doesn't pay anybody except a few men who sell it. But how long shall thousands of people be made enormously poor in order that a small preferred class, who are doing absolutely nothing for the welfare of humanity, may be made enormously rich?—Mary Harris Armour.

TRAINING AND DRINKING.

Can we imagine any sane present-day trainer telling his team or crew that they need not bother their heads about the amount of beer or wine they take during training? With most of them it is a case of the less the better, and none best of all. If this is true of physical energy which, after all, is the crudest form of energy, what train of reasoning leads us to ignore the effect that alcohol, in its various vehicles, has on the intellectual and psycho-physical powers of the man in our midst, who is training for the great game, or battle of life, in which he shortly is bound to engage?—Prof. G. Sims Woodhead.

CAN'T BUY A LINE.

"The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen is unequivocally and uncompromisingly a temperance organization," says The Fireman and Enginemen's Magazine.

"So closely does the organization adhere to this principle that all the breweries and distilleries of the continent combined have not enough money to buy one line of advertising space in its official publication, The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen's Magazine, for the purpose of advertising their intoxicating products."

UNFAIR TO FARMER.

"My ideas on the tax question have changed," says a prominent farmer. "I used to think saloons paid taxes. They simply collect them, and give worse than nothing in return. The license money that some nearsighted folks think is such a big thing, comes out of their customers, every dollar of it. And then we sober, hard-working farmers have to pay more taxes to keep up expenses of courts, prisons, asylums, poor houses and jails than all the other taxpayers of the country put together."

Worries Bring Aches

Life today brings many worries and worrying brings on kidney troubles, so the doctors say. Kidney weakness reveals itself in backache, pains when stooping or lifting, dizzy headaches and urinary disorders. Be cheerful. Stop worrying. And, to strengthen weak kidneys, use Doan's Kidney Pills, the kidney remedy that is used and recommended the world over.

An Indiana Case

Mrs. A. Nelson, 4925 Olcott Ave., Hammond, Ind., says: "I was in misery for three years with a heavy ache in the small of my back. At times I could hardly do my housework. I was nervous, had fainting spells and was very irritable. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They completely cured me and I haven't been troubled since."

Bernhardt Frightens Reporter.

A Swedish reporter interviewed Sarah Bernhardt. He asked her how she played "La Tosca." The result was a demonstration which drove him in terror from her private car. In describing his experiences to his city editor he said:

"With each step she took toward me, ranting, screaming and brandishing the paper cutlass, I backed the chair toward the door, dragging my belongings with me. Finally she stood before me pale, breathless, terrible, knife in the air, ready to strike. When she made the final lunge, I just had strength enough left to fall out of the chair and half ran and rolled into the vestibule. In the scramble I had left my overcoat. When I got on my feet the madame had disappeared. I made a dash for it, just as she protruded her head through the pale blue portieres, presumably to view the corpse: 'Zat ees 'La Tosca,' 'm'sr.' —American Magazine.

Difficult Yarn.

"Did you finish that sweater you were knitting?"

"No, I told my husband to bring me some yarn."

"And didn't he bring you the yarn?"

"Not the yarn I wanted. Only a yarn about not being able to match the shade."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

One of the New Blouses.

One more of the new blouses adds to their persistent assurance that styles are little changed from those of the past summer. High collars were promised with the incoming of autumn, but they have been neglected. There are only a few of them as compared to the unending procession of models with the open throat. But women whose necks are thin manage to wear the open-throated styles by using high chemisettes under them. These are made of fine net or lace and are boned. They improve the average neck wonderfully.

The blouse shown here is a flesh-colored georgette crepe, made with a cape collar which widens at the back. It is daintily decorated with small sprays of flowers embroidered at each side. Little spots of high color or black are introduced in these embroidered motifs, on many waists. The sleeves are long but do not extend over the hand. They are finished with a narrow band at the wrist.

Georgette crepe and chiffon cloth are more used for blouses than any other materials. But the selection is varied by blouses of novelty silk laces and net. Crepe de chine is used for many tailored models. They are plain only by comparison, and far from severe. Folds, fancy stitching and buttons ornament them, and their collars are not so large as those of dressier designs.

The new peplum blouse is featured in recent displays. It is effective in white or flesh-colored georgette crepe, and the peplum and cuffs are often embroidered or covered with fancy needlework in black and white silk. It is belted, with a narrow belt at the waistline.

Trimming Bands for Dresses.

Trimming bands are used on the skirt part of one-piece dresses to accentuate the fullness and the flare. Ribbon is used so much, indeed, that one may really make a new frock out of an old one by using a narrow ribbon for the waist part and wide ribbon for trimming bands on the skirt.

His Weather Eye.
Two ladies were hurrying down the street in Worcester in the rain, carrying their umbrellas low for protection. In turning a corner sharply the point of one umbrella struck a passerby in the forehead.
"Goodness!" gasped the woman. "I'll keep an eye out in the future."
"Goodness!" exclaimed the man, "you near had one out in the present!"

Disturbing!
"I fear she has been engaged before."
"Why so?"
"She apparently loves me, but she keeps calling me Alfred when my name is Frank."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Thrift is better than an annuity.

"I see where a famous banker says he has never learned how to read a stock ticker."
"Fancy that!"
"No wonder he's one of the most highly respected financiers in the country. The impulse to trust a man like that with your hard earned money must be almost irresistible."

Kind of Him.
"Let me give you a piece of my mind, old boy."
"But won't it be wobbling you, dear boy?"

Last of Fine Exposition.
An event which was not without its regrettable aspects was the recent wreckage of the beautiful buildings and monuments of the exposition at San Francisco, which were erected only about two years ago. Despite any desire to preserve them that admirers may have had, the temporary character of the buildings made their demolition advisable. Many of the fine monumental structures, such as the "Arch of the Rising Sun," surmounted by a group entitled "The Nations of the East," were thrown to the ground by exploding charges of dynamite under them.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Doctors now call laziness a symptom of disease.

Uncle Sam's Chemists.
Despite the monumental work of such government experts as Doctor Rittmann, the discoverer of a new gasoline process; Dr. Harvey Wiley of pure-food fame, and the whole corps engaged in fertilizer experiments, public opinion will not give credit for any good thing to Uncle Sam's chemists. After making a low-cost record for producing smokeless powder at Pickatinny arsenal and producing "dynamite"—our famous secret "high explosive 'D'"—the workers in explosives have succeeded in producing a flashless powder. The great heat developed in smokeless powder detonations causes flying particles to become incandescent, producing a flash, but this new explosive produces only a pear-shaped iridescent flow at the muzzle, invisible at two miles. At night, a mask as high as a mounted man (technically known as "mounted defilade") will conceal the glow; the "defilade" required at night for our present explosive is not exactly known, but artillery officers have been known to declare, pessimistically, that a mile would be none too high.

Too Much Excitement.
"You say your cook has quit?"
"Yes."
"What was the trouble?"
"She wanted Saturdays off."
"You might have conceded that much."
"I was willing, but it often required two or three days for her to recuperate."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Democratic Candidate for Treasurer of Grant County

Voters of Grant County:--

Do you realize that on next Tuesday November, 7th will be your last chance to make a change in the office of Grant County Treasurer, for two more years. Don't you think that thirty,-30, years is about long enough to have the office in one official family? The taxpayers of Grant County are demanding a change from these methods.

Efficiency in any office is the duty of the one in charge and does not carry with it any surplus credit for doing a thing right. No one has the right to claim a monopoly on efficiency when the official fails to do his duty he falls below efficiency. I only ask to be your servant in the capacity of COUNTY TREASURER, and if elected will not claim undue credit for performing the work in a systematic, economical and correct manner. And will always be found on the job. Think it over.

WILL HEARTILY APPRECIATE YOUR SUPPORT.

LOCALS.

Raymond Farr has returned from Ft. Harrison, having failed to pass the physical examination.

Theodore "Handsome" Wuest was fined 10.55 as an intox of Saturday night when arraigned Monday morning.

O. B. Peelle of Chicago was here last week, being called here by the sudden death of Mrs. Kate Peelle who died of paralysis last Thursday evening.

Prof. Peavy told us this week that 4 Monitors had returned to him from China, after being undelivered to his son, Victor, who sailed to China last June and was compelled to return on account of the illness of his wife.

Mrs. Maria Peelle is making arrangements to go to Oklahoma City about the 10th of this month, where she will spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Florence Larkin.

Mrs. Ed Gibson was called to Piqua last week on account of the illness of her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Jap Nelson entertained at a masquerade party given at their country home last Thursday night. A number from Upland attended.

Elisha Baker called on Mr. and Mrs. Sol Wise Sunday.

Got Married - Got Out

Money does not always win—and in this case a marriage ceremony did the work.

Just about a month ago Clem Wiley "signed up" for service in an Ambulance corps, which is now at Ft. Harrison, and expecting orders to the Mexican border.

Mr. Wiley had hardly "signed up" until he regretted his action. Gaining information relative to a married man's chances on release, he decided to ask his sweetheart for aid, in that, she consent to marry him. His wife, Mrs. Mary Sexton-Wiley, did not tell us their conversation at this part of the romance, but nevertheless on Monday, October 2nd, they were accompanied to Marion by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson who acted as witnesses to their marriage.

The wedding was kept a secret until last week, when his wife and brother, Bert, made him a visit in the interest of his release. The trip proved successful.

The bride was a popular telephone girl at the local exchange. She graduated from the U. H. S. with the class of '14. The groom is well known among the younger people of Upland and both have many friends wishing them the best in life.

About Ice Plant

Joseph Sargent, returned from Greentown last week, and after making an investigation of an ice plant there reports the following: Ice plants can be built at $1,000 per ton capacity; that is one ton every 24 hours. The plant at Greentown is a six ton plant; that is they make 6 tons every 24 hours. It is owned by a stock company, the stockholders being composed of 9 farmers and two citizens of Greentown. The same company also owns the water works and canning factory and according to Mr. Sargent it is making a profit of 33 1-3 per cent on the capital invested. Last summer they shipped ice right along to Marion and other towns. There was a time here last summer that Marion ice plants shipped their ice to Chicago and we, the town of Upland, could not secure ice from them. The very time to give this proposition thought is right now, as not a year passes but that boards of health refuse to let citizens use lake ice, and owing to it being unsanitary, its use will soon be a thing of the past. "The early bird is the one that gets the worm."

Blaine Peelle now receives his mail at 311 N. Walnut-st., Bay City, Mich.

Operation

Dr. Trent Stout after making a short visit here last week, returned to Ft. Harrison, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. He is doing fine and it is understood that he submitted to the operation none too quick.

Attorney.

Mrs. Culla Vayhinger and her secretary Miss Ruth Wray are at Indianapolis where they have an office in the I. O. O. F. building. Mrs. Vayhinger is working hard for the success of the National W. C. T. U. Convention which is to be held at the State capitol the last of this month.

Lon Keene of Hartford City visited in Upland over Sunday.

DITCHED

The good old Ford belonging to J. W. Taylor and driven by P. B. Smith accompanied by Orville Taylor, was ditched last Saturday night while the boys driving to Hartford City. The blinding lights of the jitney bus made it almost impossible for the Ford driver to see, and when giving road to pass the jitney they made a plunge into a six foot ditch. The driver escaped with a few bruises, but Orville was pinned under the machine and sustained two broken ribs.

This is the third accident for the machine, the top and wind shield being broken off this time, but after being pulled from the ditch the good old Ford propelled itself homeward.

"Hallowe'en Party"

Mrs. Albert Thornburg and Mrs. Ray Runyon proved very entertaining hostesses when they gave a Hallowe'en party at the home of the latter on East Commercial street last Friday night. The house was tastefully decorated in keeping of Hallowe'en and everything had a very "spooky" appearance. Much enjoyment was afforded in guessing who the guests were. Mrs. James Cummins won the prize for the most commical masked. The hostess each gave a contest which was much enjoyed.

A dainty two course lunch was served to the 32 present. All departed at a late hour reporting a well spent evening.---Hartford Evening News.

Mesdames Runyon and Thornburg were formerly the Misses Blanche and Verlie Goodwin.

Mrs. Kate Peelle Dead

Mrs. Kate Peelle, formerly of here, died at her home in Marion last Thursday evening, death being due to paralysis. The funeral was held Sunday. Internment was made at the Jefferson cemetery. Many from Upland attended the funeral.
