FIRE

The fire alarm was sounded last Wednesday evening, and enough men circled the engine to "eat it up," however, as they turned on to Main street from Washington, somebody yelled its at the college, and they wilted like pouring hot water on lettuce and of course they would, no man can make a run from town to the college without feeling the effects seriously.

The house of Verne Westlake was ablaze, but luckily was extinguished by the students before the engine arrived.

Five men including boys pulled the fire wagon to the college alone, and made it in reasonable time considering the help.

"Somebody" ought to start something. Jonesboro has a fire department organized, every man has a substitute, every man a place to work and a thing to do. For every fire they pay the men two dollars and they always have the help. Let's do something or let "em" burn. Many contend that a reward of $10 should be given the first automobile coming to aid.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the singers of Jefferson church, to Rev. Yocum for his consoling words, for the contribution of flowers from the vicinity of Union schools, and to the many friends and neighbors who so kindly ministered in the illness and death of our beloved son and brother, John C. Stanley.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Stanley and children.

Wedding

A wedding of surprise is the wedding that occurred at home of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Fisherbeck last Monday evening, when Matthew Beady, 26, of Bridgeport, Ill., and Eva B. Clark, 16, daughter of Mrs. Dora Clark of Marion, were united in marriage by the Rev. F. H. Cremean of the Methodist church at 6 o'clock.

The newly weds two hours after their marriage left for Marion where they spent the night at the home of the brides mother, and early Tuesday morning they left for their new home in Bridgeport, Ill. The groom is an oil worker and the bride is well known here having spent the latter part of her school days here.

Relatives were the only invited guests at the wedding, those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Gail Clark and son Charles Dora Fisherbeck and family; Ern Loy and family; Dora Clark and family and Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Fisherbeck.

Thanksgiving Day

The greatest feast day in America should be one of rejoicing and Thanksgiving by all the people. This is the time when the whole nation gives thanks for the blessings of the year. Thanksgiving Day was first established in the United States by the Pilgrims at Plymouth, New England, replacing Christmas as the great family festival, and has been gradually adopted in other parts of the country. Congress recommended days of Thanksgiving annually during the Revolution, and Washington, in 1879, after the adoption of the Constitution. Other days of national Thanksgiving have been proclaimed and since 1863 the last Thursday in November has been annually proclaimed by the president as a National Thanksgiving Day.

Thomas Convicted

Was Convicted on the 5th Ballot.

The fate of Albert Thomas, Blackford County farmer, charged with murder in the first degree for the death of little Geraldine Stout, who was killed May 28, last, when Thomas in a fit of anger threw a bucket of corn into the Strange automobile in which the little girl was riding with her parents, was decided Saturday, when the jury, after deliberating for 9 hours, through its foreman, Leo Ludager, rendered a verdict of manslaughter. It required 5 ballots to find him guilty and 12 ballots were then taken to determine what degree of guilt should be fixed upon Thomas.

Those deserving credit for the conviction of Mr. Thomas are Mr. Sprague, the Blackford County Prosecutor, and attorney L. B. Simmons who shares equally with the prosecutor. Attorney E. H. Graves and Elisha Pierce were also strong factors in the case.

It is not known whether or not the defense will attempt a motion for a new trial. The sentence for manslaughter is from two to twenty-one years and was really all the state expected.

Judge Eichhorn is with holding sentence awaiting the action by the defense attorneys.

One of the main points with the jury, is the belief of those attending the trial, that the actions of Mr. Thomas after the tragedy, in no way tried to express his sorrow and this fact is thought to have operated with the jury toward the conviction of Thomas.

Dr. Stout left for Indianapolis Saturday evening and is now there on duty for Uncle Sam. Dr. O. L. Stout, his father is here from Montana and will take care of his son's practice.

A petition was started in Hartford City by the friends of Albert Thomas Monday afternoon asking Judge Eichhorn to suspend sentence when he passes judgment on Thomas.

What Judge Eichhorn will do when confronted with the petition is not known but, it will be watched by the friends of Dr. Stout, who want to see justice in the case.

Attorney E. H. Graves stated Tuesday that he had been to Hartford City and that the petition being circulated there for the release of Albert Thomas, who was convicted of the killing of Geraldine Stout, was being circulated by the wife of Mr. Thomas and Mrs. Dewitt, a sister of Thomas' wife. He also said that it was meeting with opposition from the state and that as far as the friends of Dr. Stout becoming alarmed over the outcome of it, was absolutely useless, that when a man like Judge Eichhorn suspended a sentence in a case like this, that he would have sufficient reason to lose faith in all man kind.

DEATH

George Kidner was found dead in his bed Tuesday morning at Jonesboro. Mr. Kidner was raised south-west of Upland in the vicinity of the Kidner bridge, and was well known about here.

Give Recitals

Prof. A. Verne Westlake, head of the piano department at Taylor University and Miss Cozette Bead, head of the violin department of the same institution, are teaming and have given recitals already in a number of towns. They have pleased and surprised every audience thus far, their work is also a valuable plan to Taylor University, as it acquaints the people with the best in the music department and directly in many cases is responsible for new students. They are to give recitals in the following towns: Nov. 22, Summitville; Nov. 27, Fairmount; Nov. 28, Lafountain; Dec. 5th, Redkey; Dec. 8th, Wabash; Jan. 26th, Alexandria.

Attendance Good

The two highest records for attendance of scholars this month at the public school were made by the 4th and 5th grade students taught by Miss Mary Bedwell, their grade was 99.42, and the 7th and 8th, taught by Mr. Calderwood, made the average of 98.37.

One woman in the audience had her own ideas about Julian Eltinge, the famous impersonator of feminine types.

"Wouldn't it be great fun to be married to a man like that?" she said to her husband.

"No, you are good looking enough to suit me."

Phoney Fortune.
"My wife played a great trick on a gypsy the other day."
The fat plumber was the speaker.
"What did she do?" asked the thin carpenter.
"The gypsy wanted to tell her fortune with some coffee grounds."
"Yes."
"And after she was through my wife asked her if the coffee grounds possessed some peculiar charms for fortune telling."
"What did the gypsy say?"
"She said they did."
"Then what?"
"Then my wife gave her the laugh and refused to pay her."
"Why?"
"Because the sediment in the cup wasn't coffee grounds at all. We use a substitute."—Youngstown Telegram.

Nature's Great Hoodoo Temple.
In the Hoodoo basin of western Wyoming are curious formations which resemble Punch and Judy heads, grim savages, simpering old maids, monkeys, rabbits, birds and animals in every grotesque and exaggerated shape imaginable, and in every possible position. There are 50 different shapes of heads; over 40 different animal and human faces have been counted. The rock out of which the hoodoos have been carved by Dame Nature is what is known as volcanic breccia.—Popular Science Monthly.

His Efficacious Way.
Jurd Sprawl of Peewee was telling of the style prevailing at his cousin's house in Kansas City. "Why, dad-burn it, they eat dinner at six o'clock at night," said he. "And at every plate there were six forks and—"
"Gee!" cackled his younger brother. "How'd you know which one to use?"
"Hoh! That didn't bother me none. I just grabbed my knife and 'sailed right in.'"—Kansas City Star.

Surely an Antique.
"Now here," said the second-hand dealer, "is a rare bargain in an antique phonograph, which—"
"Whoever heard of a phonograph classed as antique furniture?" broke in the scornful customer.
"Well, believe it or not," returned the dealer, "but the man I bought it from had had it so long it was all paid for."—Kansas City Star.

Vivid Past.
Husband (telling of accident)—And as I thought I was drowning my past life came before me in one vivid flash.
Wife—William, you never told me before that you had that kind of a past.

GOT HEMLOCK SEED CHEAP
Englishman's Shrewd Scheme for Procuring Drug That Commanded Good Price on Market.
Mr. Pickwick's valet and all-around servant, Samuel Weller, whose limited acquaintance with physicians and apothecaries did not hamper his festive imagination in the relation of medical novelties which were heard with wonder and amazement by Mr. Pickwick and his friends, should have had in his repertoire the following from the London Garden: Every autumn a man used to bring to a wholesale drug house in London a quantity of hemlock seed which he sold at half the market price. The curiosity of a member of the house at last becoming aroused he asked the man how he could afford to sell the drug so cheaply. After being promised that nothing would be done to interfere with his business he described his method. Every spring he filled his pockets with the seed and went out into the country. Wherever he saw a good wide hedgerow he sowed the seed broadcast. Then he went his way and worried no more over his crop until the fall, when he revisited the scene of his labors. He would then call the farmer's attention to the "weeds" in his hedge, offering to cut them down for a shilling a hedge, an offer which the farmer gladly accepted. Thus was the ground furnished free and he was paid to cut the harvest.

We always feel sorry for the 200-pound girl who tries to act cute.

True love doesn't thrive well in a public garden.

A Growing Custom!

The custom of placing Grape-Nuts on the table at all meals is growing in American homes.

Both children and grown-ups help themselves to this delicious food as often as they like. It contains the entire nutriment of wheat and barley, digests quickly, and is wonderfully energizing.

Every table should have its daily ration of

"There's a Reason"

Two of the New Long Coats.

Perhaps you are looking for a coat which, you will enjoy wearing in the evening and expect to press into service for afternoon occasions. In this case you might turn attention to velvet with the assurance that your judgment is directed to the right quarter. Velvet stands midway between cloth and fur, having a restricted following of its own. At its best it is fur-trimmed or made so that it can be conveniently worn with a fur set. It almost goes without saying that "velvet" includes velveteen and that most of the coats made of either material are intended for evening wear. They are sumptuous affairs, in new or familiar colors, including robin's-egg blue, moss and light greens, coffee color, chartreuse, sapphire, etc. Nearly all are trimmed with furs in the usual colors, or undyed, and white fox poses on coats in the lighter tones. For those who like eccentricities there are furs dyed in unusual colors. A coat of velvet, trimmed with skunk fall silk and no end of work, with yarn flowers and kolinsky fur combined to make a hat and muff. With a narrow scarf, or high collar, of kolinsky about the neck, the wearer may achieve a very original and elegant set that no amount of money can exceed for smartness. There are many such sets, usually of two pieces (a neckpiece and muff) made by putting together fur and cloth, fur and velvet, or fur and silk. A hat is brought into the scheme of things by a collar of fur, or, as in the set pictured, the hat is made to match the muff and the neckpiece is adapted to these two pieces. Collars are of many varieties, and muffs are fashionable in the pillow and the melon shapes. None of the latter are very large, although they may be draped with extra pieces of fur by way of added enrichment. The cloths used include broadcloth, velours, Bolivia, and other weaves, and color is an important consideration when one contemplates a matched set. Linings are in contrasting colors, and soft, plain satin is used for them. Having disposed of the matter of cloth and lining, that of color must be considered. It will be determined partly by the kind of fur to be used. These small sets offer a promising way to make the best of old style furs that show signs of wear or are too antiquated to be worn and too good to be discarded. And they hold out enticing possibilities to the clever woman who would add a smart asset to her winter wardrobe. In the set shown here faille silk is closely shirred to make a covering for the hat crown and the muff. It is in a saffron shade and the decorative flowers and foliage are made of yarn in the same color. The hat is faced with fur and the ends of the muff finished with bands of it. The collar is the simplest imaginable—merely a straight, wide band fastened near the back of the neck, where two short tails finish this particular bit of fashion's history.

TOLD HER STORY IN FULL
Impossible to Stop Colored Woman Once She Had Begun to Relate Tale of Trouble.

Adequate proof of the traditional volubility of women was given in a justice of the peace court the other day. A colored woman was on trial on a charge of provoking assault. After listening impatiently to the testimony of another witness, she took the stand and, turning to Justice Kiefer drawled:
"Now, looky here, judge, let me tell you all the way this here thing happened."
Then began an actual flow of speech. Nothing could stop her. Justice Kiefer pounded and the deputies shouted, but to no avail. On and on she talked—about everything—pausing only to emphasize her remarks in a more forcible manner. At the end of 15 minutes she ceased. Her breath was exhausted. In the doorway was an astonished group of onlookers from surrounding offices.
"We thought you had installed a phonograph, squire," one of them said.—Indianapolis News.

To Live Long!
A recipe given by a famous physician for long life was: "Keep the kidneys in good order! Try to eliminate through the skin and intestines the poisons that otherwise clog the kidneys. Avoid eating meat as much as possible; avoid too much salt, alcohol, tea. Drink plenty of water."

For those past middle life, for those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation, as backache, scalding "water," or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, "rusty" joints, stiffness, get Anuric at the drug store. This is a wonderful eliminator of uric acid and was discovered by Dr. Pierce of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. If your druggist does not keep it send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce for trial package and you will know that it is many times more potent than lithia and that it dissolves uric acid as hot water does sugar.

A rich nabob, ambitious to be known as a good fellow, gave a feast which cost a thousand sequins a plate.
"What wicked, wanton waste!" exclaimed the world.
Another nabob, thirsting for glory, went to war.
"The brutal, bloody butcher," the world protested.
A third nabob, desiring only to do what was right, bestowed his riches in alms.
"He makes paupers!" sniffed the world.
The recording angel hesitated, but after some thought he dipped his pen and wrote, to the credit of each of the nabobs:

NOTICE

(We are running this notice that all may become acquainted with our new gasoline proposition.)

In order to give our customers the wholesale price on gasoline, and make Upland just as good a place to buy gasoline as any of the large cities, we have leased our gasoline tanks to the Standard Oil Company, and we will only hereafter, act as their agents at the tank. This will give our customers the wholesale price, but will in the future mean cash for gasoline as the Standard Oil Company does not do a credit business. Please remember hereafter when buying your gasoline, that we have leased our tanks, and that we are only agents, and are compelled to ask cash.

Another Election In Township On Dec. 7.

Life in Indiana is just one election after another. Road supervisors for the 1,016 townships in Indiana are to be elected Dec. 16. Only road supervisors are to be elected, and residents of cities and incorporated towns do not take part.

Under the law enacted by the legislature of 1915, the number of road supervisors in any township shall not exceed four. The road supervisor receives 25 cents an hour for his work and he is not permitted to put in more than fifty days in any year, except in townships in which there is only one supervisor. In such case he is limited to 120 days.

The polls are opened at 2 o'clock and are kept open until 5 o'clock. The township trustee is the election inspector in the road district in which he lives or the one nearest to his home. He appoints two clerks, and he, with the clerks, constitute the election board. The trustee appoints an inspector and two clerks in all other precincts in his township. All inspectors and clerks serve without pay, but the trustee receives pay for the day on which he files his report of the election with the county auditor.

When Officers Take Office

"When do the newly elected state officials take office" is a question frequently asked. Investigation shows that Otto L. Klaus, auditor elect and Ed Jackson, secretary of state-elect, take office December 1 and will be the first republican officials in the state house.

On January 1, E. Strangbury, attorney general; Henry Roberts, state stacion; Will H. Adams, reporter of the supreme court; David Myers, judge supreme court, second district; Ira C. Bateman, judge appellate court, first district; Ephan A. Dausman, judge appellate court, second district; Lawson Harvey, judge supreme court, third district; take office.

James P. Goodrich becomes governor the second Monday in January, after the opening session of the legislature. Edgar D. Bush will become lieutenant governor at that time.

McMurtrie will become state treasurer on February 10. H. Ace Ellis will become state superintendent of public instruction on Mar. 15.

James E. Watson is now United States senator, according to some legal authorities, but it is not likely that he will claim the honor until he takes his commission when congress opens in December. Harry S. New will become U. S. senator Mar. 4 1917.

Judge J. Frank Charles took the oath of office Wednesday morning and will assume his duties next Monday morning when the November term of the circuit court opens.

County Treasurer-elect Luther Worl, Surveyor-elect Philip J. Middleton and Commissioner-elect John Frazier take office January 1.

Prosecutor-elect Thomas E. Pickerril, Recorder-elect Shi Birely and Commissioner-elect John Williams do not take office until January 1, 1918.

Commissioner Frazier will take the seat of Charles Nelson when he goes into office January 1.

Commissioner O. M. Brumfiel will surrender his title to John Williams a year from that date.
