FORT WAYNE ALUMNUS

FALL 1995 - SUPPLEMENT

"DARE TO BE A DISCIPLE"

Chapel Theme For 1995-96

-Dr. Robert Nienhuis

Vice President Fort Wayne Campus

When Jesus walked on this earth, He attracted to Himself a number of men and women. Traveling the countryside with the Master, these followers listened as He taught, watched as He performed miracles, and observed as He pulled aside from the crowds for time alone with His Father. They became His disciples.

This group was attracted to Jesus for a variety of reasons. Who of us would not like to be around someone who makes great wine from well water, who can take a little boy's lunch and turn it into a banquet for thousands, who can tell such wonderful stories and who can actually walk on the surface of the Sea of Galilee. Sure, if we had been alive then, we would have probably been in the crowd too.

To be a disciple, however, meant more than simply hanging around the edges of the crowd that always seemed to surround Jesus. To be one of His disciples meant that you believed Jesus to be the Son of God, that you were willing to suffer with Him, that you would even surrender all on His behalf, and once that word got out, "many of His disciples withdrew, and were not walking with Him anymore." (John 6:66)

It is not easy to be a disciple of Jesus. It is demanding, frequently discomforting, and potentially life-threatening. But it is also a challenge filled with rewards and blessings.

"Dare to be a Disciple" has been chosen as this year's chapel theme. Our fall Spiritual Renewal Week speaker, Pastor Joel DeSelm, did an excellent job of motivating the faculty and students to be whole-hearted disciples of Jesus in every area of life. His challenging messages set a marvelous tone for the year.

Throughout the fall semester, small group Bible studies and accountability groups have sprung up across the campus as students have taken seriously the challenge, "Dare to be a Disciple." Students are praying with one another, encouraging one another, and holding one another accountable in numerous ways. The call to be fully devoted followers of Jesus Christ has not gone unanswered!

And the challenge has stretched beyond the campus. In recent weeks, I've had two fathers comment to me that their children have been calling home and asking, "Dad, how can I pray for you this week?" It was, according to both men, a "first" in their relationship with their child.

I rejoice in what God is doing on this campus. Our desire is that students will leave here with an education and also with a heart committed to and on fire for the Lord. I believe God is honoring that desire and I invite you to join me in praying for the over 400 students at Taylor University, Fort Wayne. Let us pray that the work that has begun in their lives will continue, that the Word will penetrate deeply into their hearts, and that they will begin here a lifetime journey as disciples of Jesus Christ.

Rev. Joel DeSelm, pastor of Woodburn Missionary Church, was the speaker during the fall semester's Spiritual Renewal Week.

Using parables, Rev. DeSelm challenged the student body in the areas of fellowship- "Why do you call Me good?" (Mark 10:17-22); trust- "Why are you so afraid?" (Mark 4:35-41); forgiveness- "Shouldn't you have mercy?" (Matt 18:21-35); and obedience- "Do you love Me?" (John 21:15-23).

Bible studies are held campus wide each Tuesday evening as a result of the student body taking seriously the "Dare to Be a Disciple."

Six hundred community children, along with their parents, enjoyed the festivities of TUFW's second Harvest Carnival!

Candy and prizes were given at the 24 booths with several clowns adding to the carnival atmosphere. Eighty-five TUFW students, faculty and staff volunteered their time and efforts to make the event happen.

The Harvest Carnival is a community effort by the Fort Wayne campus to provide a safe alternative to Halloween for children. The growing interest in the event gives a "stamp of approval" to hold the carnival again next year.

WOW

TUFW brought representatives from various mission agencies and fields to campus for a week of missions focus. World Opportunities Week (W.O.W.) took place November 6-10. Dr. Timothy Warner, former Fort Wayne campus president and currently of Freedom in Christ Ministries, and Gary Lundstrom of Kingdom Building Ministries, were featured Chapel speakers.

SOUNDS OF CHRISTMAS

The Sounds of Christmas can be heard on Taylor Fort Wayne's campus, Friday, December 1. The Fourth Annual Community Christmas Concert will highlight Fort Wayne talent with Steve and Maria Gardner as the featured performers along with guest performances by WBCL personalities.

The community is invited to hear the Sounds of Christmas, and 200 of TUFW's neighbors are once again special guests, receiving complimentary tickets, to the event.

WBCL TURNS 20!

WBCL turns 20 this January and there is no better time to celebrate than during Sharathon, January 9 and 10. Listeners will call in their pledges to help WBCL meet their general operating budget goals. Regular programming will be replaced for the two days with special program features to include: WBCL birthday wishes sung by church choirs, collage of programs through the years, listener speak spots, letters from their mail bag and lots of praise music.

SESQUICENTENNIAL: It's Time to Celebrate

Taylor University will be 150 years old in 1996...and that is reason enough to celebrate! A year-long birthday party was kicked off on October 6 with Homecoming on the Upland campus. A year of activities for both campuses has been scheduled to mark this milestone.

Activities on the Fort Wayne campus are to include special chapels depicting Taylor history, special emphasis at the 1996 Three Rivers Festival, a time capsule ceremony and a "Messiah" Christmas concert, December 1996. The University is also sponsoring a Holy Land tour and Aegean Sea cruise the summer of 1996 with Taylor president, Jay Kesler, Fort Wayne campus vice president, Bob Nienhuis, and their wives serving as hosts. For more information, call (219) 456-2111, ext. 32292.
