Taylor Homecoming and Family Weekend

Registration is Live

Registration is live for Taylor University's 2017 Homecoming and Family Weekend, scheduled for Oct. 6-8. The first 1,000 people to register are guaranteed tickets for the NEEDTOBREATHE concert at 7 pm, Saturday, Oct. 7.

The weekend will feature reunions, special activities, food, athletic events and other highlights.

Saturday's concert featuring NEEDTOBREATHE will be held on the Bond Plaza at the LaRita Boren Campus Center. This private concert is in celebration of the Bond Plaza and in memory of William C. "Billy" Bond III, for whom the Plaza is named. Bond's life ended in a tragic accident at age 23 while a Taylor University student.

The band will perform as part of their fall All the Feels Tour '17. This private event for Homecoming and Family Weekend is sponsored by the Bond Family Foundation and represents the first major event to be held in that venue since its opening in April 2016.

Billy Bond is remembered for his vibrant life, his intense love of living—especially for fishing—and for time spent outside enjoying God's creation. He was known for having fun with classmates, his sense of humor and his love for family and friends. It was while he was a student at Taylor University that he experienced God's redemption and it is hoped that the Bond Plaza will encourage leisure and relaxation and be conducive to intentional fun, spiritual meaning, and colorful interaction for generations to come.

Tickets will be available only for Taylor University alumni, current parents and families, employees and students.
