FALL CAMPUS DAYS

Three-Day Event Set for Oct. 22-24
Will Become Annual Campus Observance

In what is billed as a "something for everyone" event, plans have been laid for a three-day campus-wide observance involving pastors, students, parents and the community, to be held October 22-23-24, 1981, at Fort Wayne Bible College. To be known as "Fall Campus Days," the observance is built around the traditional Parent's Day and expanded to incorporate pastors, church leaders, and the community as well as students and parents.

The three-day event will kick off on Thursday, October 22, with a Pastor and Leader Emphasis Day involving nationally-known and Fort Wayne area speakers who will present programs and seminars around the general theme of "Privileges and Problems of the Pastor."

Key speakers include Dr. Chris Lyons, pastor of the Wheaton Bible Church, Wheaton, Ill., and Dr. Gary Collins, well-known Christian counselor.

Dr. Collins will address a seminar for pastors wives on "How to Make Your Husband the Best Pastor."

On Friday, October 23, a combination Spiritual Emphasis and Career Emphasis Day is scheduled. Kent Fishel will address students throughout the morning, and the afternoon will be devoted to career guidance activities with a number of Christian organizations expected to be on hand with exhibits and personnel to counsel students.

On Saturday, October 24, traditional Parents Day activities get underway, planned by the Student Association. An intercollegiate soccer contest, films, games, and a parent/student dinner are on tap.

Throughout each evening of the Fall Campus Days celebration, the FWBC Department of Music will present a musical, "God Has Always Had a People,"

Dr. Chris Lyons

Dr. Gary Collins

Dr. Lyons will address a chapel service in the morning on the subject of "Stress and the Ministry," and conduct a seminar following lunch on "People Helping and the Ministry." Dr. Lyons will conduct an afternoon seminar on "The Art of Biblical Preaching" and will deliver the message at a banquet that evening.

Other seminar leaders are the Rev. Robert Yawberg, pastor of the Broadway Christian Church, Ft. Wayne, who will have a discussion on "Shepherding the Church," Rev. Mark Klinepeter, pastor of the First Missionary Church, Ft. Wayne, on "Discipling Laymen for Leadership," and Mrs. Char Binkley, WBCL air personality and featuring the Chorale, Choral Union, and instrumentalists. The presentation will be held each evening in Founders Hall beginning at 8:00 p.m., and the public is invited to attend these.

Involved in the planning for "Fall Campus Days" are the Student Association, Christian Service Department, Student Services, Alumni Office, and Development Department.

James Tolbert, development coordinator and coordinator of "Fall Campus Days," said further details of the event are still being worked out and a promotional brochure will be mailed to all PULSE/LIFE-LINES readers in the near future.

The Governing Board

by Dale O. Ferrier

What are the duties and responsibilities of the Governing Board of Fort Wayne Bible College? In John W. Nason's Association of Governing Boards publication, Responsibilities of the Governing Board, he lists eleven responsibilities:

1. To select and appoint the president.
2. To monitor the president's performance.
3. To determine the mission of the institution.
4. To approve long-range plans.
5. To approve educational programs.
6. To insure financial solvency.
7. To defend the autonomy of the institution.
8. To enhance the public standing of the institution.
9. To interpret the community to the campus.
10. To serve as a court of final appeal.
11. To assess their own performance.

Because of the peculiar mission of Fort Wayne Bible College to these, or more properly, over these we must add: To guard and encourage the doctrinal integrity and the spiritual vitality of the institution.

The Carnegie Commission

The Carnegie Commission in their book The Governance of Higher Education, reduces the list to six items:

1. To hold and interpret the trust.
2. To act as a buffer.
3. To arbitrate internal disputes.
4. To stimulate change.
5. To be responsible for the financial welfare of the campus.
6. To provide governance.

Educational consultant Arthur Frantzreb makes it just two:

"First, policy boards have ultimate, non-transferable responsibility for the procurement of essential financial resources.

Second, boards have responsibility for determining as objectively as is humanly possible, the degree of wisdom by which existing resources are managed."

Whichever of the lists you prefer, the job of the Governing Board boils down to a consistent sustained pursuit of excellence in all of the organization's activities and a reasonable guarantee of continuity.

A Court of Final Review

The Fort Wayne Bible College Governing Board is entrusted with holding the physical assets of the institution, selecting and overseeing the administrators, making institution wide policy decisions and acting as a court of final review.

The output from trustees of the college

Dale Ferrier, Chairman, Governing Board

takes the form of five basic instruments:

1. Mission statement.
2. Annual academic plan.
3. Master plan.
4. Annual budget.
5. Policy manuals.

To fulfill their responsibilities for the functioning of the institution, trustees need a continuing flow of information from the president. Specifically, they need information concerning: educational program, quality of the faculty, students, quality of the institution's output (graduates), expenditures, campus development, external relations (public relations) and internal relations (human relations).

Relating To The President

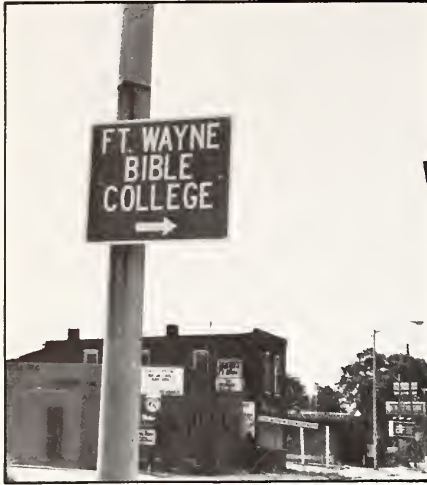

One of the most important and in many ways most difficult of the board responsibilities is its relationship to the president. Because the board is primarily charged with selecting and overseeing the performance of the institution's administration, its relationship to the president needs, in one dimension at least, to be rather formal and somewhat distant. On the other hand, because the board members have more than a casual interest in the college's welfare and feel keenly their responsibility for its integrity and development, the strongest instinct of the board is to be encouraging, approving, and protecting of its chief operating-officer. Because no man is perfect, every president brings to his job a complex mixture of strengths and weaknesses. One of the challenges for the board is to identify and minimize the weaknesses and to help him exploit his strengths. The most difficult and perplexing dilemma the board ever faces is the weighing of these strengths and weaknesses and the consideration of action appropriate to the circumstances.

Ideally, the board becomes a team just as the faculty and staff do. The president then is the play maker and the spark plug of that team.

Self Examination Is Needed

Another extremely difficult responsibility of the Governing Board is the assessment of its own performance. The board members ought to be asking themselves regularly what are their major responsibilities as trustees? The answer to that question results naturally in an equally important one, namely, how well are we fulfilling our responsibilities? The self-examination necessary to answer these questions is the final board responsibility. I have asked myself frequently, do we have the best possible board for Fort Wayne Bible College? Obviously, all boards need to grow and get more competent with the passing of time. I believe our board has grown and changed considerably in the eleven years I have been involved with it. I trust it has gotten better. I believe it has.

There are two primary ingredients in building a strong board of trustees — selecting the right people and motivating them to give the college a high priority in their lives. We try hard to get the right people for our board. We want people who sense the will of the Lord in their college involvement. If we can find those kind of people, the process of motivating them is much easier. We keep a profile of our board and as new members are cultivated we strive for an optimum mix of profession, location, denominational representation (always at least 50% Missionary Church), age, and influence. Two things, however, are absolute necessities for every member: (1) deep personal commitment to Jesus Christ and (2) uncompromising support of the Bible College philosophy of education. I believe that every Bible College board member qualifies in these two areas. In addition they are convinced that Fort Wayne Bible College truly is a vine of God's own planting with a responsibility to provide the very best education in an optimum spiritual environment for those laborers preparing for the most important work in the world.

This directional sign is one of two that have been placed on major north and southbound state highways in Fort Wayne. Both are located near Clinton Street and Rudisill Boulevard and Lafayette Street and Rudisill Boulevard. Still to come are directional signs on city streets in Fort Wayne. The signs are a gift from the Class of 1981.

"Maintenance Building — Now A Reality"

Demolition of the old Physical Plant took place June 1 to make room for the new structure.

The dream of a new maintenance facility on the campus of Fort Wayne Bible College is now a reality! After several years of careful planning, the governing board authorized construction of a new physical plant building at its spring meeting.

On June 1 the old Physical Plant, that housed the FWBC Maintenance Department for several years, was brought down and cleared away to make room for the new structure. The old framework was one of the original buildings on the campus of FWBC. Over the years the building was used for various purposes. At one time it was utilized as a horse barn to house "Daddy" Ramseyer's (first FWBC President) horse and buggy — times have certainly changed!

The official groundbreaking ceremony took place June 11. FWBC President, Dr. Harvey Bostrom, FWBC Board Chairman, Mr. Dale Ferrier, and Maintenance Director, Rev. Eddie Reynolds, communicated the joy they felt in breaking ground for the new facility. Eddie Reynolds shared Psalm 100 and expressed how good God truly is! The Maintenance Director spoke of how thankful he was that a dream was coming true. Eddie and his crew have labored under trying conditions for the past seven years since a fire caused extensive damage to the Physical Plant.

The outer shell of the new facility is being constructed by local contractor and long-time friend of the college, Louis Lengacher.

It is hoped that skilled volunteer labor can be secured to complete the interior work. The outer construction is scheduled for completion by the end of the summer. Financing for the project is partially through contributions to a fund established for this purpose.

Dr. Bostrom (front) shares his feelings about the new development on the campus of FWBC during the groundbreaking ceremony. Reno Lengacher (back left — son of the contractor) and Maintenance Director, Eddie Reynolds, also took part in the June 11 event.

Class Piano Now Offered To Adults

For the last nine years the Music Department of Fort Wayne Bible College has offered "Class Piano" to children in grades 3-5. Starting in September the class will also be offered to adults and to first and second graders.

"Class Piano" is a program where keyboard study is done in a class setting instead of private lessons. Children find this method less intimidating, plus parents are allowed to sit in on sessions with their child. Another plus is that students find it a pleasure to learn to play the piano with others their own age. Because of voiced interest by college students and other adults in the Fort Wayne area, the program has been expanded to include adults.

Instructors for the course are Mrs. Sharon Linton, Mrs. Donna Grabill, and Mrs. Gwen DeSelm.

If you live in the Fort Wayne area and are interested in "Class Piano" for yourself or someone else, call the FWBC Music Department and they will be glad to answer any questions you may have.

73rd Commencement Sees Largest Graduating Class

FWBC's 73rd Commencement. (l to r) Dr. Gene Hovee, President Dr. Harvey Bostrom, FWBC graduate and Board Chairman Mr. Dale Ferrier.

FWBC Grad Is Taylor's "First Lady"

Dr. and Mrs. Gregg Lehman

A 1970 Fort Wayne Bible College graduate is now the "first lady" of Taylor University, Upland, Indiana. She's Sara Nell Liechty Lehman, the wife of Taylor's new president, Gregg O. Lehman. Dr. Lehman, 33, was elected to that post this past spring by the university board of trustees, and he assumed office on July 1.

Mrs. Lehman, following graduation from FWBC, later received an M.S. degree from Elmira College, New York. She has taught in public schools in Marion, Lafayette, and Attica, Indiana, and in Ithaca, New York.

She has been active in the Upland Evangelical Mennonite Church where she has been a Sunday School teacher and a Bible study leader.

The Lehmans have one son, Matthew, 3.

Fort Wayne Bible College's largest graduating class, the class of '81, was challenged with "An Evangelical Agenda for the 80's" during the College's 73rd annual commencement exercises, May 9.

Using Ecclesiastes 12:1-14 as his opening text, commencement speaker, Dr. Walter C. Kaiser, urged the graduates to remember their Creator above all else as they leave FWBC and accept or take on the challenges of the future. He emphasized the importance of implementing the scriptures in life's situations and using the inspired Word of God as one's foundation.

Dr. Kaiser is considered to be a leading evangelical scholar on the Old Testament. He is professor of semitic languages and Old Testament, and dean and vice president of education at Trinity Evangelical Divinity School, Deerfield, IL.

The 1981 graduating class was the largest in the history of FWBC with 107 candidates. Of the 107 graduates, 88 received the Bachelor degrees and 16 the Associate of Arts. Forty-two claim the Missionary Church as their home church and 13 claim the C. & M.A.

President's Perspective

At this writing I have just returned from an extended trip to visit Missionary Church and FWBC alumni in Arizona, southern California, and Hawaii. Everywhere I went I met people who were in love with the Lord and involved in dynamic ministries. I was impressed with a significant mixture of concerns and vision.

The words in Acts quoted from the prophecy of Joel have been much in my mind these days. "In the last days, God says, I will pour forth my Spirit upon all mankind; and your sons and daughters shall prophesy and your young men shall see visions and your old men shall dream dreams." Acts 2:17

Visions and dreams! Without them, the Scripture says, we will perish. A few men and women had a vision and Fort Wayne Bible College came into being and has had a remarkable ministry in the lives of thousands of people literally around the world.

On my trip I saw the results of dreams men are currently dreaming in the form of dynamic churches where compassion, love, joy, and power are in the air. Lives are being transformed, marriages are being strengthened, bodies healed, and in general God is showing Himself alive and well and very contemporary through His servants.

As I understand God's program, significant dreams and visions come as a result of being filled with His Spirit. Therefore I believe every Christian ought to have a burning vision. The question I am asking these days is simply, "What is your all consuming vision?"

"PHON-A-THON '81"

More than 1,000 alumni were contacted during "PHON-A-THON '81", May 18-22 as alumni volunteers and campus staff manned the telephones in a year-end fund raising effort. Sponsored by the FWBC Alumni Association, the five nights of calling raised close to $15,000 which will be used to help balance the college budget for the 1980-81 school year.

According to alumni director, Howard Dunlap, "it was a time of real fellowship among the volunteers and a special time of nostalgia for many of the callers as they found themselves talking to some former classmates for the first time in many years." "Because of limitations in manpower and time we're sorry we couldn't reach every alum but the response from those we did contact was very heartening," he said.

Making calls during "PHON-A-THON '81" were these off-campus volunteers: Max Wanner, Tom Zehr, Dan Dyck, Violet Ringenberg, Clarence Gerig, Edna Manyan, Richard Sommer, Jewell Niccum, Violet West, Luella Burley, Karen Sober, Cynthia Howard, and Miriam Welty.

Over 450 Gather For Alumni Festivities

Class reunions, enjoyable fellowship, tasty food, excellent entertainment and even more made up the annual FWBC Alumni Banquet held on May 8 on the campus of Fort Wayne Bible College. Over 450 alumni gathered for the festivities.

After a time of getting reacquainted and "catching up on the latest," the alumni assembled in the college's dining hall (classes '04-'64) and in First Missionary Church's dining area (classes '65-'81) for a delicious catered meal.

The banquet was planned along the theme of "Free Indeed." Alumni Director, Howard Dunlap, shared that as children of God we are certainly "Free Indeed!" At the close of dinner, balloon strings were cut allowing the balloons to float freely — symbolizing the freedom we have in Christ.

Following dinner the alumni came together in Founders Auditorium for an impressive program hosted by Reverend Dunlap and his ever present enthusiasm.

The program included awarding honors to six "Outstanding Seniors," a chat with FWBC President, Dr. Bostrom, a presentation by the Chorale, and a dramalogue presented by two members of the C.S. drama troupe, HIS Company.

A highlight of the evening was the unveiling of a refurbished pulpit that was used for many years at the Bible College.
