INTRODUCTORY.

WITH the commencement exercises of June 23, 1892, Taylor University added another year to its useful history. Since 1847 the site now occupied by the college has been known as a seat of learning, and although the name of the institution has been changed several times, the institution itself has had a continuous and vigorous life. The past year has witnessed a larger attendance than we have had for several years preceding, and the work of the several classes has been faithfully and zealously done. With the opening of the new college year we find it necessary to seek new quarters. The premises of the University have long had a heavy debt upon them, and the trustees of the institution have finally decided that it is best to sell. The building was needing extensive repairs, and the grounds were too small to accommodate the school should it grow and develop as its friends hope it will in the next few years. For the present we have rented rooms at the corner of Broadway and Jefferson streets, but are raising a building fund and expect soon to have a large and beautiful campus adorned with elegant buildings. Taylor University will remain in tact. The medical department will probably put up a building for its use the present summer, and the literary department will carry forward the enlarged work indicated in the catalogue with a strong faculty and ample apparatus. We call attention to a few facts that should not be overlooked, and, first, to

OUR FOUR COURSES OF STUDY

In the literary department. Our classical course embraces six full years of study and is as extensive as that of any western college; the philosophical and scientific courses are each two years shorter than the classical, but are practical and thorough. The normal course is as extensive as that of any other normal school, and is ample for the wants of the most aspiring teachers.

BIBLE TRAINING SCHOOL.

This is a new department in the University, and is intended for the education and training of MINISTERS who cannot take time to complete a full theological course; MISSIONARIES, preparing either for the home or foreign fields; EVANGELISTS and LAY DEACONS. This is the first effort that has been made in the Church to provide for the training of those contemplating the work of Lay Deacons, a work the need of which was so deeply felt by the Church that forty annual conferences petitioned the general conference to found a school such as we contemplate.

TAYLOR UNIVERSITY,

Named for the heroic Bishop Taylor, is a school of the Methodist Episcopal Church, owned and controlled by the National Association of Local Preacheas, and yet it is open to students of all denominations, and those students who belong to our sister churches are encouraged to attend their own places of worship. We wish our patrons to understand that it is our policy to look after the manners and morals as well as the intellectual training of our pupils. We hold that no education is complete that does not touch the whole man. The discipline of the school is paternal, mild yet firm, and no parent who entrusts his child to us need fear but that his health and mora's will be carefully guarded.

ART SCHOOL, Department of Taylor University.

* PROSPECTUS. *

“A talent for any art is rare; but it is given to nearly every one to cultivate a taste for art, only it must be cultivated with earnestness. The more things thou learnest, to know and to enjoy, the more complete and full will be for these the delight of living.”

—Platen.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

The Art School Calendar will correspond with that of the College year.

To regular students in elementary and advanced classes rooms open morning and afternoon Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. To the Saturday class from 9 to 12 a. m. To the students of the Literary departments of the college one hour four days per week. To students of the same departments, in Color, six hours per week. To students in Mechanical Drawing class eight hours per week.

No Criticism given on Friday.

Advancement of each student depends only on the degree of proficiency; examinations made monthly.

The school is well equipped for its present needs, and will be further supplied as necessity demands.

No so-called copying is allowed in the school. From the beginning the student is taught to conceive the idea of form and of light and shade from the object, first of straight lines, then of curves, never losing sight of the large masses and forms in the details, going from the straight-lined objects and curve forms to the parts of the figure, and thus to the antique and life classes. Clearness and accuracy of work, with no accidental touches, belong to the young student, and are earnestly sought for, while accuracy of detail after thorough drill in elementary principles becomes part of the advanced pupil's work. "The business of education," according to Locke, "is not to perfect the learner in all or any of the sciences, but to give his mind that freedom, that disposition and those habits that may best enable him to obtain any part of the knowledge he shall apply himself to, or shall stand in need of, in the further course of his life."

In order to secure the highest development of character, and the finest quality of work, which grow best from unity and harmony, one requirement is made: that each student shall enter the school in the spirit of following Polonius' advice to his son: "To thine own self be true."

The Thalonian Literary Society, the oldest society of the institution, was organized in 1853. Among the former members are found some of the most prominent citizens of the city or State.

The Philaethean Society was organized in 1878. It has a large membership and is rapidly increasing in influence.

Both societies are open to ladies and gentlemen, and all students are recommended to identify themselves with one or the other, as thereby they will receive an essential training that only the literary society can give. Suitable places for the society meetings will be provided in the new quarters.

THE CHRISTIAN HERALD PRIZE.

Louis Klopsch, A. M., Ph. D., publisher of the Christian Herald, New York city, offers the Christian Herald prize of $50 to the victors in a debate between four contestants, two affirmative and two negative. Twenty-five dollars will be given to the speaker whom the judges decide to be the best debater, $15 to the second best debater and $10 to the third.
