The runner pressed forward,
Every muscle strained in action,
With every motion striving onward,
His eye fixed on the black cinder track
That lay narrow and straight before him.

As he ran, he remembered
How he had first come upon the lonely track
And had wondered where it led.
He had even tried to trace the cinder trail
To find its source;
But because of the white sun's burning heat,
He soon became wearied, and stumbling off the track,
Slumped by the way to rest.
Suddenly he heard a voice . . . and looking up,
He saw a Stranger standing on the track,
Who spoke his name and coming to his side,
Began to tell him of the race for which the trail stood—
What it was and where it led—
And of His power to change into able runners
Those who sought in vain to run the race.
As he looked and listened, he believed . . .
And suddenly his black cloak became a sprinter's suit
And in his wearied body surged a second wind
Of strength. He turned again to run,
This time with joy;
So his race had begun,
And though his faith and strength were often tested
By obstacles along the way,
He always found his second wind sufficient

. . . Pressing toward the mark
For the prize
Of the high calling of God
In Christ Jesus.

In Commemoration

Oliver E. Steiner

Professor Oliver Steiner lived a secret — the secret of a happy life. He was much loved as a man and highly respected as a musician; his sincere smile, understanding eyes, and skillful hands will be remembered by us all. Although Professor Steiner's death in the spring of 1955 was a great loss to the college, his example of a happy, Christ-centered life is ever before us. In memoriam, we dedicate this 1956 Light Tower to Professor Oliver Steiner.

Course

(BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS)

And as the runner went his way one day,
His wondrous Friend appeared again,
And told him that he soon would meet
A company of other youthful runners on the track,
To whom he should join himself;
For they had come together to run
Under the wise instruction of an elder runner,
One who knew well the difficulties of successful running
And who would teach them all that he had learned of the rules of the race.

The runner found it even as he had been told
And joined himself to the group.

I will run the way
Of thy commandments
Teach me, O Lord,
The way of thy statutes;
And I will keep it unto the end.

Psalms 119:32, 33

Bethany Hall

Bethany Hall opens its doors wide and welcomes everyone with a special warmth and vigor. That vigor is maintained on a steady level by the typewriter's dutiful clicking, and the efficient bustle of office personnel. However, dignified efficiency does not always prevail. Vivacious talk and merry laughter indicate that Bethany is also a women's dormitory. The busy college bookstore, student mail boxes and classrooms further the ceaseless activity which is an indispensable part of our campus life.

Where are you going tonight, tonight . . .

It is good to rub and polish our brain against that of others. Montaigne

Truth must dazzle gradually or every man be blind.

Emily Dickinson

Founders Memorial

Founders Memorial is a building full of sounds—sounds of all sizes, qualities, and pitches. Early in the morning one can hear the bustling of students as they go to breakfast in the dining hall where they wake up to a rattle of silverware, the clatter of dishes being washed, and the clanging of pots and pans in the kitchen. Throughout the rest of the day Founders hallways buzz with students going to classes, to chapel, to the practice rooms, and to the afternoon gym sessions.

After dinner in the evening, music students take over. Fortunately, practice rooms are sound-proofed but stray noise leaks into the hallways; pianos, organs, sopranos, flutes, trumpets, baritones, and record players all contribute to musical chaos. At nine o'clock students one by one begin leaving, until by twenty to ten only an occasional giggle echoes from the snack bar. Then silence—what a change!

The things taught in schools and colleges are not an education, but the means of education. Emerson

The only way to have a friend is to be one.

Emerson

With splendor upon splendor multiplied.
H. W. Longfellow

Providence Hall

Providence is distinctly a women's dormitory. With the bell at the end of study hours comes a scuffle and rustle as books are put away and everyone relaxes — that is unless term papers or collateral work are due. Often if there are no deadlines the following day, little discussion groups meet; subjects include, of course, men. Built during a wartime material shortage, Providence Hall is a demonstration of God's active interest in Fort Wayne Bible College.

Conversation is the laboratory and workshop of the student.
Emerson

Everything is upward striving . . .

James R. Lowell

In the island of a room . . .

Robert Campbell

Far off the noises of the world retreat.

H. W. Longfellow

Schultz Hall

Each September, scores of young men move into this dormitory lock, stock, and barrel, or, more appropriately, briefcase, commentary, and typewriter. In a short while they have, in their own masculine way, made their rooms homey and comfortable. In the past half-century the building has been a silent listener to varied discussions. Subjects range from theology to world affairs, from daily duties to future service. Schultz also houses the college library, laundry, and several classrooms. The "biggest, oldest, and best" dorm commands a warm spot in each of our hearts, and will always remain in the memories of the men who lived and learned here.

Live to learn and you will learn to live.

Portuguese

The fountain of perpetual peace flows there.

H. W. Longfellow

Now is a time for carving.

Ezra Pound

Leightner Hall

After two years of being explored and tested, Leightner Hall is settling down to the normal life of a women's dormitory. Formerly a private home, the building was purchased by the college in the summer of 1954 and that fall a bevy of active co-eds moved in; second and third floors became dormitory rooms and the first floor lent itself for an attractive apartment and faculty lounge. On the corner of Indiana and Rudisill opposite Founders Memorial, Leightner would hardly be recognized as a part of the campus because of an exclusive, mansion-like appearance, but inside, a cheerful, warm atmosphere convinces everyone that Leightner Hall very definitely belongs to Fort Wayne Bible College.

They never sought in vain that sought the Lord aright.

Burns

Residence Hall

Residence Hall is dignified, as we expect it to be for Residence houses faculty apartments. The neat sturdy walls remind us of the men and women who live there — mature, consecrated, industrious Christians giving their lives to the task of preparing young people for effective Christian service.

Home of the brave.

Instructors

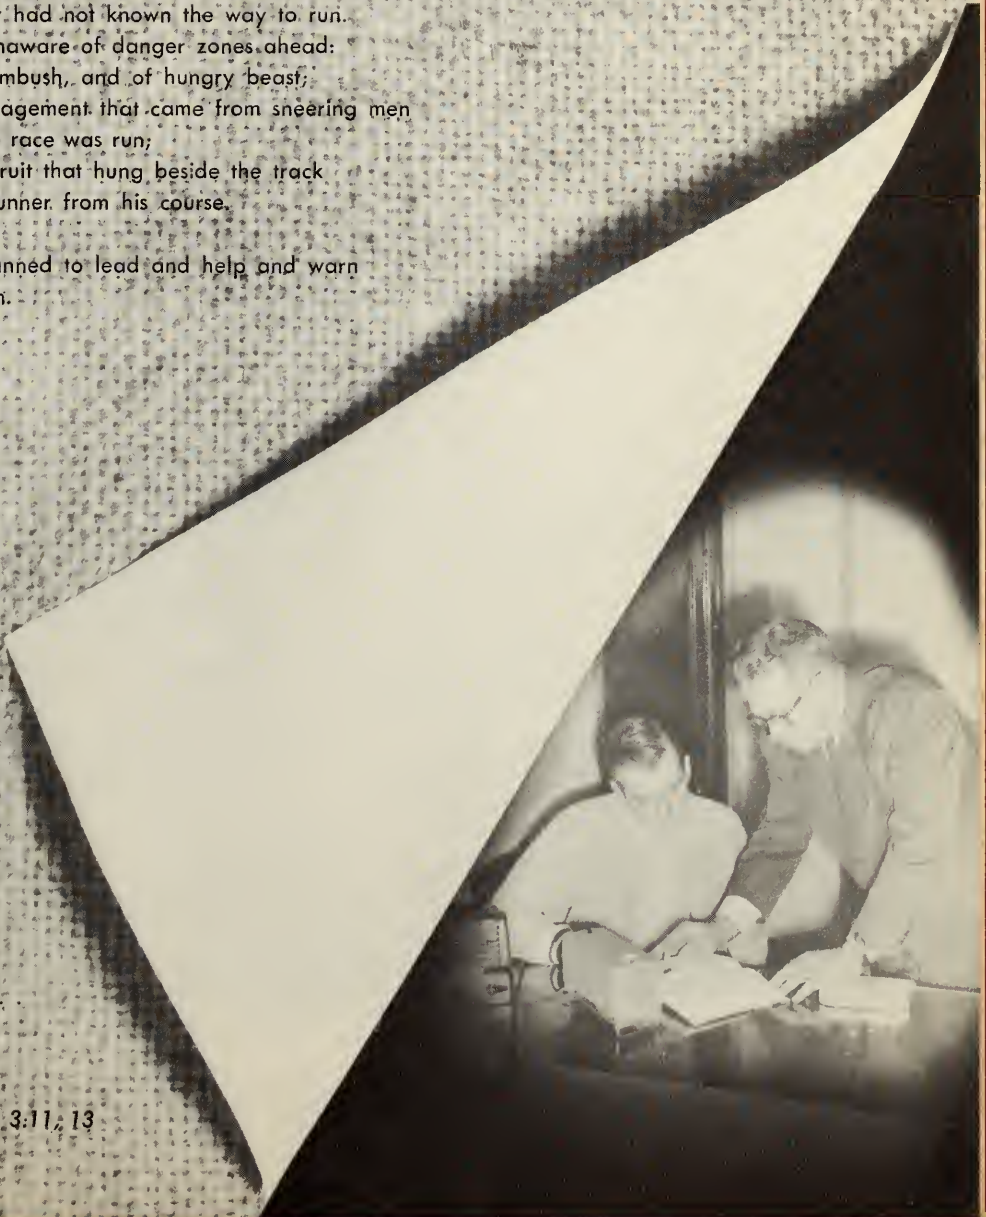

(ADMINISTRATION)

Indeed, the wise instructor knew
That all his runners now must learn the race's rules,
Lest they complete the course disqualified,
Disgraced because they had not known the way to run.
Nor was the teacher unaware of danger zones ahead:
Of hidden snares, of ambush, and of hungry beast;
He knew of the discouragement that came from sheering men
Who did not care if the race was run;
He knew the luscious fruit that hung beside the track
To tempt the faithful runner from his course.

And so the teacher planned to lead and help and warn
The runners as they ran.

I have led thee in right paths
Take fast hold of instruction;
Let her not go . . .
For she is thy life.

Proverbs 3:11, 13

Governing Board

The Governing Board, made up of twelve trustees and the president of the college, is delegated by the Missionary Church Association to administer affairs of the college. Serving primarily in the areas of policy and major legislation, the board also appoints all officers and full-time faculty members, holds college property in trust and is responsible for financial affairs. Four denominations: The Missionary Church Association, Christian Union, Christian Missionary Alliance, and Evangelical Mennonite are represented. Meeting three times annually, the board reviews college affairs, makes appointments, examines the budget, and promotes programs for the general expansion and progress of Fort Wayne Bible College.

Companions

(STUDENT PORTRAITS)

As the runner made acquaintance
With the others of his group,
He learned that all had met his wondrous Friend
And had been called by Him into the race;
One had been rescued from an attacking beast;
Another saved from drowning in the sea;
One had traveled the trail for many miles
While another had just begun;
One was talkative,
Another quiet;
Yet in their Friend they all delighted
And found a common joy.

They determined to learn their lessons well
While they ran together.

Let us lay aside every weight;
Let us run with patience
The race that is set before us.

Nurses Training Course

The nursing program of Fort Wayne Bible College has grown steadily since its inauguration in 1953; today fifteen students have completed their first year at the college and are now training at Lutheran hospital. Teaching in Bible and missions at the college gives spiritual preparation for the days when the young women will wear their blue dresses and white caps, ministering to both body and soul. After three years at Lutheran hospital, the graduate registered nurses return to the college campus for another year of instruction in Bible, theology, and missions. Receiving their Bachelor of Science degrees in Missionary Nursing Service, they leave with one goal — to serve God in nursing service on the mission field or at home.

Fellowship

(ORGANIZATIONS AND ACTIVITIES)

When the lesson time was over,
With another rule discussed and learned,
The runners often chatted as they ran,
Some discussing problems with a special friend
And others merely making pleasant jokes
Or relating some adventurous tale
To ease their wearied minds.
And when the sky grew dark with night,
They gathered with their teacher by the side of the track
To rest and wait the day.

But as soon as morning light began to fill the sky
The company was on its way.

So run that ye may obtain.
And every man
That striveth for the mastery
Is temperate in all things.

Student Council

Problems, complaints, new propositions and ideas make up the discussion agenda at Student Council meetings. The council works with the faculty in effecting and enforcing campus regulations as well as in planning and sponsoring intercollegiate basketball games, annual spring banquet, and other functions.

Composed of representatives from classes and dorms, this advisory body also includes all class presidents, president of Students' Mission Band, and the editor of the Light Tower as ex-officio members. Student Council makes college life more enriching and pleasant for everyone. Each year the Council plans a project in which the students participate. Past projects include a student lounge, chapel furniture, hymnals, and books for the library. This year air conditioning equipment is being procured for the dining hall.

Student's Mission Band

Students' Mission Band, an all-student organization, seeks to promote an understanding of the operation of Christian missions and to influence students fully to dedicate their lives to Christ. With advisory counsel and much prayer, Mission Band officers plan weekly evening programs with emphasis on foreign missions. Representatives from all major fields of the world present their challenge through spoken message and film, making vivid great human needs and giving glimpses into the heart of missionary activity. Mission Band provides partial support for two missionaries on the field—Miss Florence Cavender in Colombia, South America, and Joseph Shisler in West Africa. As well as arranging special missions projects each year, Students' Mission Band sponsors the daily five o'clock prayer meetings and a special program at supper devotions each week.

Youth Conference

Each fall during Youth Conference weekend the campus overflows with activity, excitement, and blessings as hundreds of teen-agers from nearby states come for spiritual challenge and an inside view of Bible College life. During their three-day visit on the college campus, they attend special meetings and participate in a wide variety of recreational programs, enjoying fellowship with other Christian high school and college students. As visitors begin pouring in on Friday, furniture in dormitory rooms is stacked in corners; mattresses and suitcases occupy the floor. Sheets, pillows and cots even invade classrooms when dorms begin to bulge. Following the Friday night opening service, Saturday's activities include several informal meetings, all types of recreation, and a weiner roast and bonfire sing in the late afternoon. Sunday's two meetings are more formal and Youth Conference closes with a missionary service in the afternoon. As the visiting young people leave campus, many have a new vision and desire to serve God, while others rejoice in their new-found Saviour.

Our Speaker

Speaker at this year's Youth Conference was Mr. Jim Rayburn, national director of Young Life Campaign, a nation-wide movement begun in 1940. While working as a youth leader in a Dallas, Texas, church, Mr. Rayburn found that informal meetings in homes on week-nights were most effective in reaching high schoolers for Christ. This method of winning teen-agers spread rapidly until today Young Life Campaign is ministering to thousands of young people throughout the country. Here, Mr. Rayburn held the attention of large Youth Conference audiences as he spoke in his informal, witty way. Many young people were influenced to yield to Christ's will for their lives.

YOUTH CONFERENCE PLANNING COMMITTEE: SEATED—Harriet Fields, James Leever, Miss Betty Stanley, advisor; Audrey Sparks, W. M. Cook, advisor. STANDING—John Burke, Gaius Steiner, William Enright.

Light Tower

At the end of each school year, the Junior class selects an editor and business manager for next year's Light Tower, the college yearbook. In September the editor and staff go to work, becoming more earnest and intensive in their task as months move rapidly by.

In the spring when staff efforts are rewarded by publication of the book they watch with mixed emotions. The staff is happy for the privilege of working on the book, but they do not soon forget those late hours in the Light Tower room, endless revisions, and painstaking details which require much time and persistent effort. A storehouse of memories, an inside peek at college life, as well as valuable experience for the staff, the Light Tower beams its testimony of God's unending blessing on the college.

Barbara Streitmatter, Millie Jacobs.

Christian young women must accept the challenge of facing today's problems with poise, grace and assurance; Theta Beta seeks to promote a Christ-centered answer to this challenge. With membership in this organization open to all women students of the college, emphasis is placed on the development of Christian graces and an appreciation of the fine arts. The executive committee plans interesting meetings and activities including banquets, teas, nature hikes, and educational films. This recently organized club is a popular extra for Fort Wayne Bible College women.

Camera Club

Anyone with a camera and an interest in photography may become a member of this student organization. Club members and faculty advisor, Professor Don Kenyon, meet twice a month to discuss photography techniques and on different occasions throughout the year professional photographers lecture and give demonstrations to the club. Amateurs are given opportunity to put training into practice; each semester a camera club outing is arranged during which club members disappear for a day with their cameras — and plenty of food. Then, after busy days in the darkroom, three members are rewarded for their prize-winning photos. Camera Club offers adventure-seeking students release for extra energy, and provides valuable training in photography.

Intercollegiate

The expanding intercollegiate basketball program at Fort Wayne Bible College provides fun and fellowship when teams and loyal fans whip up excitement as they compete with students from other Christian colleges. This year the Ambassadors had a highly successful season; they experienced defeat only once, and that at the hands of Grace Theological Seminary. Other colleges played include Detroit Bible Institute and Huntington College.

Intramural

The college gymnasium is the scene of thrills, cheers, and mid-afternoon hilarity when the intramural basketball teams take to the court each week. This year the freshmen spread victorious wings becoming intramural league champs, followed in order by the sophomores, seniors, and juniors. Their flight was grounded for a time, however, when on All Sports Night, February 25, the All-Stars, composed of members of the other three teams, clipped a few feathers; the final score was 65 to 52. This game climaxed intramural basketball for the season.

Musical Activities

The School of Sacred Music trains students for ministry in music. Theory, composition, conducting and music history are among subjects offered, with private instruction given in piano, organ, voice, strings, brasses and woodwinds. Any music course is available for those qualifying and private lessons in voice and instruments are available to all students.

The band, a new music organization on campus, is under the capable leadership of Mr. Bulgin, director of the School of Music Education. Having instrumental ability and an interest in music, the students participating in band and its activities find wholesome enjoyment along with proper training. The time and effort expended to further growth and popularity of this organization has been rewarded by the band's rapid progress as evidenced by commendable performances at inter-collegiate basketball games this year.

Oratorio Chorus

An impressive December highlight is the Oratorio Chorus' annual performance of Handel's "Messiah". The majestic strains of this soul-stirring work linger with listeners, lifting their hearts in triumphant praise to Christ the Redeemer. Soloists for this year's presentation were: Dorothy Gilchrist of Chicago, Illinois, soprano; Margaret Albert, Fort Wayne, Indiana, alto; Darrell Gerig, a graduate of Fort Wayne Bible College from Decatur, Indiana, tenor; and Dale Jorgensen of Bloomington, Indiana, bass. The hundred-voice chorus was made up of students and alumni while orchestra personnel included members of the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra and music students of the college. The entire Messiah production was under the direction of Professor Lansing W. Bulgin.

A Cappella Choir

Bringing glory to the name of Christ through sacred music is the mission of the Fort Wayne Bible College A Cappella Choir. Throughout the fall and winter months choir members practice and rehearse in preparation for an extensive two-week spring tour. The choir constantly experiences the joy of the Lord as they present concerts in churches, Youth for Christ gatherings, and specially-arranged high school meetings. An informal session, diverting from the regular program, affords the audience a glimpse into college life while at the same time giving choir members opportunity to witness in testimonies and choruses. Upon return to campus, choir members' overflowing blessings result in a contagious spiritual uplift for the faculty and student body who had faithfully upheld the choir in prayer. This year, under direction of Miss Betty Stanley, the choir gave concerts in Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Maryland during a seventeen-day tour.

Senior Recitals

The senior recital is a summit experience in a music major's training at Fort Wayne Bible College. This concert is presented after years of study and hundreds of hours spent in practice rooms. Students majoring in voice or instruments are required to present a recital in their senior year as a public demonstration of musical achievement.

A graduate of the class of 1955, Marguerite Krohn presented her senior recital in Founders Memorial auditorium the following October. Marguerite studied under Professors Ira Gerig and Rene Frank and is now teaching piano at the Sparks Conservatory in Royal Oak, Michigan.

CHARLOTTE ETLING

After four years of study and many weeks of thorough preparation, Charlotte Etling gave her senior recital on May twelfth. Having studied piano under Professors Ira Gerig and Rene Frank, she graduates with the Bachelor of Sacred Music degree.

ARLENE RIEGEL

Arlene Riegel climaxed four years of study under Professor Ira Gerig when she presented her piano recital on March seventeenth. Arlene has been a student piano instructor for several years and plans to teach music on the mission field.

Purpose

(SERVICE AND DEVOTIONS)

So it was, that mile after mile,
And day after day, the company pressed forward,
Learning the lessons the instructor taught,
Heeding the warnings that he gave,
Applying the principles he discussed,
And practicing the methods he proposed.
Yet even more valuable
Than all the hours spent in lessons or in talk
Were those times when their Friend again appeared
Amongst them, to comfort and encourage,
And to give them insight into those experiences of the race
That even the instructor could only describe, not explain.

Thus they learned the rules of the race,
Methods of running, dangers, and rewards.

But they that wait upon the Lord
Shall renew their strength;
They shall run and not be weary.

Isaiah 40:31

Child Evangelism

Shirley Hirschy and Miss Louise Kimmel

Fort Wayne Bible College offers students an opportunity for training and experience in child evangelism by arranging classroom instruction and providing for student teaching of Child Evangelism classes. Miss Louise Kimmel, director of the Fort Wayne area teaches the Monday evening training class on the college campus. Students are afforded unique opportunities of reaching unchurched children and homes in the community; classes are held each week day in various Fort Wayne homes where students teach boys and girls the way of salvation, supplemented by songs, Scripture verses, and instruction in prayer and worship. Child Evangelism provides excellent experience for students who are training in the field of children's work.

5 o'clock Prayer Band

Sacred recordings played on the campus public address system call students from ordinary college bustle to the prayer room in Founders Memorial. Those who attend enjoy the high privilege of intercession for mission fields; students pray for a different area of the world each afternoon. With student leaders presiding, special needs are brought before the prayer band and occasionally a missionary speaker is invited to represent his field to the group. Five o'clock prayer band is an important opportunity for Christian service and is a spiritual blessing to all who take advantage of its privileges.

Sunrise Chapel

On weekdays, over twenty alarm clocks on the campus are set for an early hour. Their owners turn them off and get up with promptness rarely found among college students. These people must be ready to begin rehearsal for the day's broadcast of Sunrise Chapel at 6:45. After forty-five minutes of concentrated practice, precision timing and a few yawns, the program is broadcast directly from the campus at 7:30 by WKJG, a local radio station. Hymns appropriate to President Witmer's inspiring meditation are sung each morning by the Chapel singers, and listeners over a wide area begin their day with God listening to Sunrise Chapel.

Gospel teams representing the college give students an opportunity for Christian service in music and preaching; in addition to the privilege of service, team members gain invaluable experience in appearing before audiences. Gospel teams are engaged regularly on Sundays and weekends and are frequently used in services on campus during the week. Through the consecrated lives and dedicated talents of members, these teams seek to bring the lost to Christ and to influence youth to seek God's will for their lives.

Devotions

AFTER-DINNER SINGSPIRATION

As water is indispensable to life, so communion with Christ is indispensable to the victorious Christian. Students are aided in establishing a deep, regular devotional life through scheduled quiet times, after-dinner devotions, dorm prayer meetings, Campus Crusade, and five o'clock prayer band.

Campus Crusade

A crusade of praying students under the leadership of Professor W. Morrow Cook meet on campus each Saturday evening. There is a warm, close bond of fellowship among those who attend as they share their burdens and rejoice together in answers to prayer. Campus Crusade has become a Saturday evening must for many students as they have been made aware of the power of prayer.

Then one day the company came to a place
Where the track divided into many tracks,
Leading in different directions.
The instructor stopped the company;
And as the runners wondered what it meant,
Their Friend appeared again, and spoke to each one,
Pointing to the path each was to take.
Now each was to run alone,
To meet the dangers of which he had been warned,
To prove his worth as a runner.

Our runner's path lay straight ahead.
He wondered for a moment what it would be like
To run alone again; but then his Friend reminded him,
He did not run alone, for He would never leave . . .

And so the runners bade farewell
And each set out on his own trail,
Looking ahead into the hazy horizon,
Realizing that a new phase of the race had begun,
A new phase in . . .

OUR CONGRATULATIONS TO YOU !

CLASS OF 1956

OUR PRAYER FOR YOU . . .

" . . . the Lord of the Harvest that He will send forth laborers into His Harvest."

Where'er you ripened fields behold,
Waving to God their sheaves of gold,
Be sure some corn of wheat has died,
Some soul has there been crucified;
Someone has wrestled, wept and prayed,
And fought hell's legions undismayed.

—A. S. Booth-Clibborn

We labor under the deep spiritual impulse that it is the solemn obligation and immediate task of the Church to go "into all the world and preach the Gospel to every Creature."

There are now seventy-seven missionaries on the harvest fields of the world laboring under the Foreign Department of the Missionary Church Association who were trained at Fort Wayne Bible College.
