So This Is Taylor

This folder tells a portion of the story of Taylor University. Like an oak it has grown, since, as Fort Wayne College, it was organized by the Indiana Methodist Conference in 1846. It took the name of the hero of world service nearly forty years ago and soon after was moved to Upland, midway between Chicago and Columbus, on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Now it is “Methodist in affiliation, independent in control, and interdenominational in service.” After a transition from conference control, via the National Association of Local Preachers, it became the school of the Legal Hundred, a national organization of picked men and women created to make Taylor University a world institution, true to Scriptural Christianity. They are doing it.

People are interested in something that is alive, active and growing. They will therefore be interested in Taylor when they know about it.

Educational authorities want to be assured that a college is under stable control, and that it is not dying at the top. The names of the Legal Hundred and the nature of their organization assure the stability, standard rating and the perennial growth of Taylor University.

The School of Music

The School of Music is the largest department in Taylor University. It uses two buildings: the main floor of the Music Hall in which all studios are located as well as six practice rooms, and the building once known as Speicher dormitory. Each room in this building now has a piano and both floors are now given over entirely to the use of music students. (The practice rooms are nearly all in use from early morning until dinner, and this is an indication of the popularity of the work in music at Taylor University.)

The faculty of the School of Music is composed of five professors of extensive training and experience, and their assistants. The heads of departments are artists of special ability.

The degree of Bachelor of Music is given in Piano, Organ, Voice, and Violin, upon the completion of a four year course of study if the preliminary training has been satisfactory. This course of study closely follows that of the great conservatories of the country. In addition to those students who take some form of music as a major study, a large number of college students take advantage of the superior opportunities for musical instruction and take up music as a form of relaxation.

The musical activities in general at Taylor are inspiring. Its organizations include Orchestra, Choral Society, Arion Club and Quartets.

Speech

The department of Speech is in agreement with Ruskin, that education does not mean teaching people what they do not know, but teaching them to behave as they do not behave. This department is interested in teaching to the individual how to appear as he has never before appeared. To the few who possess marked histrionic ability, the department will give encouragement looking to platform reading, but the greatest good for the many is the development of individuality.

No department of a college is so well organized to develop individuality as is the department of Speech. Being organized to help the student in voice, gesture, standing position, emphasis and general speech defects, looking to the development of poise, charm and effectiveness, it is the department for the development of individuality.

The Grounds and Buildings

The grounds of Taylor University now total one hundred and sixty acres, a square block, one half mile in either direction, beginning at the south edge of Upland and fronting upon an extension of Main Street. Added to this is a number of city lots north of the campus, some of which are improved with cottages or bungalows, used by professors or rented to patrons. "University Place" is a growing addition to Upland, a most pleasant residential section, supplied by both city and college water plants, and having day and night current at reasonable rates.

H. MARIA WRIGHT HALL is the main building and is located near the center of the campus. It contains administrative offices, recitation rooms, laboratory and library. The third floor of this building has been remodeled to include an elegantly equipped small auditorium for the School of Speech and Dramatics. It is known as Spiers Hall.

HELENA MEMORIAL MUSIC HALL is located southeast of H. Maria Wright Hall. This building was made possible by the bequest of Mrs. Helena Gehman of Urbana, Ohio. The School of Music occupies the main floor of this building. The second floor is the Chapel, known as Shreiner Auditorium. It is equipped with Pipe Organ and Grand Piano.

CENTRAL HEATING PLANT is a new modern building, one of the best in the state. It has a storage capacity of ten carloads of coal and is of sufficient size to meet expanding needs. It is equipped with three large boilers and space is left for three more.

GREENHOUSES with a capacity of many thousands of plants are located on the farm just south of the main building.
A composite showing grounds and buildings
More than thirteen thousand square feet of floor space is already under cover.

SICKLER HALL, equipped with lecture rooms and Botany and Zoology laboratory and museum is located on the northern edge of the campus.

SAMUEL MORRIS HALL is a men's dormitory, located about a half block from the campus. It has been remodeled so as to provide guest rooms, and a reception room for the young men.

SPEICHER HALL is a dormitory, located on a lot adjacent to the campus.

SWALLOW-ROBIN HALL. This is a three-story dark brick building, that makes a very comfortable home; formerly for young women, but now for men.

POST OFFICE BUILDING, formerly the dining hall, provides an up-to-date college post-office, an elegant book store, mailing room, restaurant, commercial room, and practice and editorial rooms.

THE WOMEN'S DORMITORIES. This system of buildings bears three names. The north unit is Stanley Magee Memorial. The middle unit is the John D. Campbell Building. The south unit is the Wisconsin Building. There are more than a hundred seventy bed rooms, with running water in each; three parlors; several lobbies and halls; a great general dining room, with section for luncheons; the Jay County kitchen and service room; a basement for laundering and another for recreation and social events, modern domestic science suite.

THE CORNER STORE is owned and operated by the school, providing groceries, notions and miscellaneous supplies.

They Believe In Taylor

“I found it an inspiration to come in contact with so devoted a body of students and professors.” — Dr. Clarence Macartney, former Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly.

“The fame of the institution as a religious center of saving power has drawn the most earnest class of students who want an education but want it under the dominance of Jesus Christ and are willing to work for it and for Him.” — Dr. Clarence True Wilson.

“The splendid spiritual tone of the institution was a gratification and the loyalty and good fellowship of your faculty and student body impressed me as a wonderful asset.” — Dr. Iva Durham Vennard.

“Here highest learning and deepest piety are united and the spiritual note is ever kept to the fore.” — The late Dr. Wm. H. Huff.

“Taylor has surely taken on new life. She is like a flower now coming to her full bloom. Materially, Educationally, Morally and Spiritually, she commends herself to the confidence of business men, the ambition of students, and the standard ideals of teachers; likewise the solicitous concern of parents and the interest and zeal of ministers of the Gospel.” — Rev. Joseph H. Smith.

“The more I think about the Legal Hundred of Taylor University, the more I think it was the illumination of the Holy Spirit that made the suggestion. You have taken representatives of true faith and vital piety from everywhere. If it is not found in the Baptist bin you turn to the Presbyterian group or other denominations. It is fine to have Methodist fire and Baptist water producing steam and then have Presbyterian steam regulators.” — Bishop William F. Oldham.

Bishop William Taylor
"Apostle to the World"

William Taylor, for whom the College is named, touched the slums of the universe, with the wand of a philosopher as well as a prophet. Miners in California, millionaires and rustics of Australia, African kings, London merchants, Irish adventurers, Indian ritualists, South American skeptics.
