Butch and Jo Ann sell all to obey God

At age 36 life was secure and Butch felt he would continue in his job until retirement. But God remembered a prayer of commitment he'd made 20 years earlier — and had other plans for Butch.

While in high school, Tom ("Butch") Kahawai had received lesus Christ into his life, and at that time determined that one day he'd become a minister. But, after high school, he joined the military, and as other things became more important, his desire to serve God lessened. After his four-year hitch in the service. Butch spent several years working in construction, then took a government job at a U.S. Navy installation in his home state of Hawaii. As a luke-warm Christian, it appeared that life in the future would continue much as it had for years.

Then, three years ago, Butch was confronted with the issue of the Lordship of Jesus Christ. He had to decide whether he was going to continue to run his own life — or give it over completely to God's control. He chose to yield to God, and, in doing so, took the first step toward a life of ministry.

Next came marriage to Jo Ann, who shared his commitment to Christ. Butch and Jo established a home and a comfortable, secure lifestyle. Then, last January during missionary conference, the Lester Meisenheimers and Eileen Lageer came to the Nanaikapono Protestant church. They spoke of the need for people to serve the Lord full time. Butch and Jo Ann renewed their commitment — thinking one day when they were ready — they'd begin. Butch thought he might even wait until he could retire — and be financially secure.

It took a severe shoulder injury last spring to get Butch's full attention. And during his months of convalescence, he had plenty of time to think — and to listen. "That's when God was putting it to me. He said now — not in 2 or 3 years!" When Butch came to grips with the fact that he had already wasted 20 years, he knew he had to obey and go now. Jo Ann gave her full support, and they began to make preparations for college.

An application was sent to FWBC. The peace which followed gave confidence for the next step:

the news

Last spring Dr. Warner was elected chairman of the National Association of Evangelicals (NAE) Commission on Higher Education. October 3 and 4 he attended the NAE Board of Administration meetings in Chicago.

Esther Cox Latino assumed a full-time library staff position May 22. Esther, ('78) has served 3½ years as a part-time student library assistant.

Librarian Wava Bueschlen and Rose Ann Nickel, Director of Instructional Materials Center, attended the 1978 Christian Librarian's Conference in June at Moody Bible Institute.

Wava Bueschlen attended the International Conference of Stonecraft Ministries at Montreux, Switzerland in July. The conference included Village Missions, Christian Business and Professional Women and Christian Women's Club. A tour of Switzerland, Germany and Austria followed.

The FWBC library became a charter member of Tri-ALSA (Area Library Services Authority), a library cooperative organization enabling members to improve services to patrons. Other area libraries involved include: Auburn Public Library, Noble County Public Library, Public Library of Fort Wayne and Allen County, Fort Wayne IU-PU, Berne Public Library, Fort Wayne State Hospital and Training School, and Concordia Theological Seminary. Librarian, Wava Bueschlen, serves as member of the executive committee. In addition to sharing resources, a number of workshops have been held, including book mending, self-assertiveness, reading and communication.

WBCL is negotiating with North Eastern Indiana Radio Rating Service (NEIRRS). They may lease a subchannel to provide a service for the blind within our coverage area. Great potential!

Sue Belella, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Belella, presented a vocal and instrumental recital Oct. 8 at Founder's Auditorium.

The Correspondence Studies offered by FWBC are finding their way into all parts of the world, as well as all the United States. About 2,250 students are currently enrolled. When the phone rings, it could be from literally anywhere in the world! Naturally, this does not lessen the excitement of working as a team in this department! Prisoners, missionary societies, Sunday school superintendents, college registrars, Christian high schools - requests are coming in from all of these. A new catalog will be compiled shortly combining all information regarding the department of correspondence studies.

Russell Strickler, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Strickler of Decatur, commences studies at Jamaica Theological Seminary this week. Russell is a senior.

Flo Hanson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Hanson of Hopewell, Hanover, Jamaica, has found ready acceptance here at FWBC. She is a junior and the first Jamaican woman exchange student to attend FWBC.

Very positive comments were expressed from students who went overseas this summer. Places they went included Israel, Egypt, Hong Kong, Venezuela, etc.

Alumnae who are beginning service as missionaries this year include: Marty Buss, Norma Sassaman, Olive Gifford, Peg Zbinden.

Now training in Kalamazoo, MI, is Mark Krueger. He is the first male graduate to go on for nursing. Also, this year we have the first male nurse coming for the Missions and Bible program, Terry Roberts. Bryan Peterson is a freshman commencing his studies in the Missionary Nursing program this year.

The Ladies Auxiliary of FWBC recently presented scholarships to Debra Jean Lehman and Ronald Clyde Mann.

Chorale President Tom Nevil presented a vocal recital Sept. 24 in Founder's Memorial Auditorium.

Ira Gerig, Professor of Music at FWBC, served as organist for the Jack Van Impe Crusade which attracted crowds up to 6,000 at the Memorial Coliseum in Fort Wayne.

President names Stephen Richie Advancement VP

Stephen Richie has been appointed by Dr. Warner as Vice President for Advancement. Richie is responsible for fund raising, alumni and church relations and external communications.

Mr. Richie was formerly Vice President for Development at John Wesley College of Owosso, MI, where he earlier served as Director of Communications.

Born in St. Louis, MO, he studied business administration at Washington University. Before joining JWC, he was a self-employed commercial photographer and producer of institutional, industrial and educational audio-visual materials.

Mr. Richie began work at FWBC July 17. His wife, Deanna and sons Dain and Nathan will move to Fort Wayne next spring.

Total fall enrollment consists of 311 returning students and 199 new students, for a total of 510. Of that number 200 live off-campus or with their parents. The remaining 310 live on campus in dorms.

Twenty-one states are represented in the student body. More than 30 denominations are represented with 164 students from The Missionary Church.

President's

Dr. Timothy Warner has served as President of Fort Wayne Bible College for the past seven years. Except for a three year period spent as a missionary to Sierra Leone, Africa, Dr. Warner has been on the faculty of the college since 1953. He has been widely recognized as an outstanding leader in education.

A responsive chord sounded in me recently when I heard a speaker say, "Education is primarily the preparation of a person for the stewardship of life." That is the way I see the charge committed to us at Fort Wayne Bible College. We, of course, are concerned with preparing leaders for the church who know how to conceptualize, organize, and carry out the ministries of the church. Such technical training, however, will be essentially wasted unless those who learn such skills have first learned to live life in the dimensions ordained by the Creator.

So often today the primary concern voiced by those in education is whether a graduate will be prepared to secure employment which will give a significant return on the dollars invested in securing an education. That, of course, is an important consideration, but making money without knowing how to live is certain to result in feelings of frustration.

All of us at Fort Wayne Bible College are committed to the proposition that "education is primarily the preparation of a person for the stewardship of life." We are committed to the Bible as the fundamental textbook on life. Therefore, every student "majors" in Bible.

The work one does or the service one performs is also a very vital part of life, and it needs to be seen first in its proper relationship to the spiritual base on which life is built. It then needs to be viewed in relationship to the many other areas of life — areas such as the physical, social, political, and economical.

We can't guarantee that we can cover all the bases that need to be covered nor that we will always be successful, but we are more concerned with what a student becomes as a person than we are with what he learns to do. Techniques are not unimportant, but unless they communicate the message of wholeness in life, they will end up simply adding to our busyness. Pray that we may be good stewards of our task of preparing students for the stewardship of life.

'Corrie' of "The Hiding Place" visits campus

Jeannette Clift George, who played Corrie ten Boom in the movie "The Hiding Place", appeared at Founder's Auditorium, Oct. 12.

Mrs. George introduced the audience to her ideas and practice of Christian drama.

The humorist conducted a 3 p.m. seminar for those interested in learning more about the potential for Christian drama. A dramalogue was presented for the evening audience.

Mrs. George demonstrated a broad spectrum of skits in her monologue. Listeners were treated to a humorous but poignant account of how Noah's wife felt throughout the building of the Ark. Stephen's wife was portrayed in a heavy drama piece.

Mrs. George's severe throat problems were ignored as the 'show must go on' tradition was upheld.

"The Hiding Place" is about a Dutch lady who saved the lives of scores of Jews during the Nazi occupation of Holland. It was attended by more than 25,000 people when it played in the Fort Wayne area.

Mom, Dad see made beds, find pig on treasure hunt during Parent's Day '78

More than 400 parents responded to the invitation of their sons and daughters to be honored guests for Parent's Day '78, Oct. 7.

Mothers were specially honored with "Mums for Moms" — flowers made available at a reduced cost to students by Student Services.

At 1 p.m. parents and students were divided into teams and sent on a massive treasure hunt. One group's clues led them to a live piglet! Later parents were able to appreciate the decorative skills of their off-spring — and to marvel at seeing beds which were made, and rooms which were at "white glove" readiness for "open dorms."

The 4 p.m. hour called for a fiercely competitive touch football game between the intramural All Stars and Russ' Rookies (Russ Rogers, Assistant Dean of Men plus his residence hall staff of Student Advisors.) The Rookies won.

An indoor picnic — with all the trimmin's was served at 5 p.m. and was followed by a brief program featuring the FWBC Chorale.

The day came to a quiet close around a bonfire on south campus — complete with marshmallows, popcorn and hot chocolate. Many students stood arm-in-arm with their parents and sang songs of praise and thankfulness to God — for a good day — and for each other.

Singing together since grade school, The Sharrett Brothers communicate a closeness that cannot be easily duplicated. Identical twins Fred and Ed Sharrett, and their younger brother, Bob, brought the musical excellence this unique relationship affords to campus Saturday, Oct. 28.

School nurses double as students; Laker serves as physician

Serving as school nurses this year are Miss Candy Snyder and Miss Rachel Boehm.

Miss Snyder, a 1977 Memorial Hospital School of Nursing (South Bend) graduate is beginning her second year. The Mishawaka native plans to graduate in the spring with a bachelor or science degree in Missionary Nursing.

From Dunkirk, OH, Miss Boehm is a 1974 Lutheran Hospital School of Nursing graduate. She served as school nurse during 1976-77 and now begins a second year. She plans to graduate in the spring with a bachelor of science degree in Missionary Nursing.

Dr. Richard Laker is serving as the college physician, and he, too, begins a second year at BC. Dr. Laker works with his brother in private practice near the college.

B C family is expanded by nine

Rev. Howard Dunlap joined the staff as Director of Church and Alumni Relations in August. Rev. Dunlap is a 1950 graduate of FWBC. He has pastored Christian Union and Mennonite congregations, and has worked with the Child Care Foundation.

Also joining the WBCL staff is Miss Susan Roach, a Moody Bible Institute graduate, who began her duties Sept. 25.

Two new residence hall directors were also added to the staff this year. They are: Miss Sharon Mejeur, in Lexington Hall, and Miss Lenore Cushing, in Bethany Hall.

Jeanne Mohr, a 1978 graduate assumed responsibilities as Admissions Counselor in September.

Mrs. Gary (Vicki) Marsh, secretary to director of communications; Marsha Byall, secretary in radio department, and Nancy Huffman, secretary in correspondence department are new staff members.

Cincy Hofbauer is a clerk in the accounting department.

Spiritual Emphasis Day features Dr. Batson

Spiritual Emphasis Day, Oct. 3, featured Dr. Beatrice Batson, chairman of the English Department, Wheaton College.

Pilgrim's Progress was shown, followed by Dr. Batson's presentation about the film.

Dr. Batson, past chairman of Humanities Division, Wheaton College, received her Ph.D. from Vanderbilt/George Peabody. Dr. Donald Rickards, Associate Professor of Missions, was appointed Director of Correspondence Studies, beginning June 1. He replaced Rev. Cyril Eicher who retired after many years of service at the college. Dr. Rickards will continue to teach one-half time in the Missions Department.

Early childhood program to begin next semester

The Teacher Education department has just released plans for a new program in early childhood education. The program, which is scheduled to begin next semester, will offer an Associate of Arts (2 year) degree. It may also be included as part of a combined four-year major. The program was designed to meet the demand for teachers in the rapidly growing Church nursery school movement. For further information regarding the program, contact Jeff Ling, Director of Admissions.

Listeners praise WBCL for 24 hour schedule

WBCL-FM, Fort Wayne's first non-commercial radio station, expanded its broadcasting schedule to 24 hours a day, July 1. Since going on the air Jan. 12, 1976, the station has operated on an 18-hourday program schedule. When listeners learned the station would be expanded to a 24 hour program schedule, as funds were available, their response was overwhelming. The $85,000 goal of this year's Sharathon was surpassed, and a total of over $106,000 in gifts and pledges was received.

Hundreds of letters were received in the first six weeks from those who work, travel, or for other numerous reasons are awake during the night. The letters praised the Lord for this opportunity for inspiration all night long.

The new 12 to 6 a.m. program block is called "Nite Lite" and features hourly news and weather along with a classical and sacred music format.

Miss Prudence Gerber, '39, recently presented the college with a handwoven wall hanging made of African wool. She purchased the piece shortly after her arrival in French West Africa in 1940. It is now on display in the hall just outside the business office in Witmer Hall. Miss Gerber served with distinction under the Christian and Missionary Alliance and the Missionary Church in what is now Guinea until government restrictions in that country forced her return to the States. Standing in front of the wall hanging are Miss Gerber and Dr. Warner.

Advancement gains 3 for Harvesters'

Dale Clapper ('76), Herbert E. Martin and William D. Crozier, former FWBC student, began work Oct. 16 as Special Representatives for the FWBC Department of Advancement.

Mr. Clapper's experience includes two youth pastorates: Palm Harbor United Methodist Church, FL, and Decatur Missionary Church, IN.

Mr. Martin has 14 years experience as a life insurance representative, and since 1975 has been calling on Christian bookstores in several midwest states with lines of books and other merchandise.

Mr. Crozier has most recently been employed as a residential child care worker at the Lifeline homes of Fort Wayne.

These men will present the college's Harvesters' Club program to individuals and groups in northern Indiana.

Schultz Hall lounge gets spruced up with help of friends

With the help of the Women's Auxiliary and Mr. Marvin D. Miller, the men of Schultz Hall were able to redecorate their lounge during September.

Sept. 11 two-by-fours and plywood, donated by the Women's Auxiliary, began to arrive. The men laid a wood base floor in three hours. They have also assembled radiators, repainted, constructed a wall-to-wall bench and assembled rough-sawn cedar beams.

Mr. Miller, president of Newmar Industries, Inc., of Nappanee, donated wall-to-wall green carpet.

The ladies also made curtains and provided furniture.

Mrs. James (Betty) DeSelm, of Fort Wayne, was recognized Oct. 10, by Dr. Warner for her outstanding work as a volunteer helper during this past year.

their lovely new home was put on the market, and their cars sold.

When Butch was accepted at FWBC, he and Jo Ann resigned their jobs. Plans were for Jo to work, at least the first year, while Butch gave his full attention to the demands of college life. But their last bit of personal security disappeared when, two days before leaving for Fort Wayne, Jo learned she was pregnant. "I was going to work and I was going to put my husband through. But God said, 'Wait a minute, Jo — it's not going to be you, it's going to be me!"

Butch and Jo are now settled in their on-campus apartment which they have made available to fellow students as a "home away from home." That their offer has been eagerly accepted is evident. Nearly every evening Jo cooks extra for the students, mostly Hawaiian, who regularly drop by to enjoy a time of fellowship.

About coming to FWBC Butch says, "God has blessed us already because we did obey. I've learned so much in the short time I've been here. Getting to know the professors and getting into God's Word has really been meaningful."

As Butch and Jo face the next four years at FWBC, they are confident God will supply every need. They're also aware of the support of the body of Christ on the campus. This is evident from Butch's comment, "One of my professors said he'd be praying for me every day. Wow!"

'A Day Away' provides inspiration, fellowship — plus a bit of fun.

Area women participated in the third "A Day Away" sponsored by WBCL, Sept. 30. Designed for women of all ages, the seminar was held at Founder's Auditorium and Witmer Hall.

Char Binkley of "Spectrum for the Homemaker" and Joan Mayers, Director of Communications at the college, hosted the day of sharing, singing and learning.

Prizes, donated by local merchants, were given away at the beginning of the day and again at lunch. Recipients were chosen by fitting into specific categories such as: who lost the most weight since the last "A Day Away"?, who came to the seminar with a run in her hose?, who had the most wigs?

The day included a noon luncheon and participants chose to attend two of seven life-related seminars covering topics such as the dynamics of prayer, the working mother, natural nutrition, and "how to take the doldrums out of life."

Participants enjoyed a soup and salad buffet served at First Missionary Church.

At the end of the day groups of six were formed for sharing and more singing. Each group member went home with an envelope from another person. The envelope is to be returned in January and to fulfill a request the person made to help her remember "A Day Away."

Women "buzz" in share groups at "A Day Away."

Mrs. Joan Centlivre shares her testimony during "A Day Away."

Advancement

Advancement Sponsors two fall retreats

On Thursday, Nov. 9, the Advancement Department sponsored a seminar on church finances, led by Dr. Raymond Knudsen, Director of the National Consultation on Financial Development. Seminar coordinator and host was Rev. Howard Dunlap, Director of Church and Alumni relations. Approximately 60 church leaders of various denominations were in attendance.

The Ambassador Corps retreat was held Nov. 11. Several members of the faculty and administration shared information about their areas and inspirational thoughts. An evening banquet was held at the Holiday Inn.

FOCUS ON ADVANCEMENT

Indiana's tax laws make giving easy

by Stephen Richie Vice President for Advancement

Indiana donor's gifts to education go further than other forms of charitable giving, thanks to a unique tax law which helps people of ordinary means give support to higher education at minimal cost to themselves.

State tax laws, recently revised, provide for a tax credit of 50%, up to a limit of $200, of a donor's gift to higher education.

When combined with federal income tax deductions, Indiana's law makes giving to Fort Wayne Bible College within the means of almost anyone who shares its concern for training 'laborers for the harvest.'

For example, a donor giving $200 per year through the Fort Wayne Bible College Harvesters' Club receives an Indiana tax credit of $100 (joint return). Assuming a 25% tax bracket, that donor also recovers $50 from his federal income tax deduction. This means that his $200 gift to the college has only cost the donor $50, or less than one dollar per week.

If the donor happens to work for a matching gift company, the effect of the gift is doubled ($400) without increasing the donor's out-of-pocket expense!

These tax laws and corporate matching-gift programs make membership in FWBC's Harvesters' Club and Ambassador Corps very attractive. In few other places can a donor get as much "mileage" from his contributions. For more information about these stewardship programs, contact me at (219) 456-2111, ext. 281 or drop me a line at the college.
